25c GAS TAX EYED IN U.S.

NEW YORK (AP) — President Carter is considering a proposal that a tax of 25 cents a gallon or more be added to the retail price of gasoline, CBS News reported Monday.

CBS reported authoritative sources said the tax would be the most significant part of the president's comprehensive energy program scheduled to be made public April 20.

There was no comment on the report from the White House.

Quoting an unnamed White House source said to be familiar with White House thinking, CBS said the tax at the gasoline pump would be just one part of an energy program that would surprise people by its toughness

UIC Paid Out $3.3 Billion

OTTAWA (CP) — Total unemployment insurance payments for 1976 were $3.362 billion, up six per cent from the previous year, Statistics Canada reported Monday.

Statistics Canada said that in 1976 there were 36,190,000 weeks of benefit paid to 2,678,000 claimants compared with 37,327,000 weeks paid to 2,857,000 claimants in 1975.

Average weekly payments in 1976 stood at $92.89 compared with $84.64 in 1975.

Alaska Oil Pact For Cherry Point

Atlantic Richfield Co. and Trans Mountain Pipe Line Ltd. have signed an agreement to transport Alaska oil from Cherry Point, Washington, to Alberta through British Columbia.

The agreement, which would have to be approved by the National Energy Board and American regulatory agencies, involves $125 million in spending to upgrade the Cherry Point dock and to install pumping equipment in B.C. to reverse the flow of oil through the pipeline.

It would mean an increase in supertanker traffic in the Juan de Fuca Strait.

At present, oil flows from Alberta to refineries in B.C. and a small amount goes to a spur line to Cherry Point.

Under the agreement, the pipeline would flow alternately east and west so B.C. refineries would continue to be served by Alberta oil. The quality of Alaska oil is not suitable for B.C. refineries.

The transfer of Alaska oil could begin as early as 1978, the companies said.

Arco will spend $50 million to expand the Cherry Point dock and to build some terminal and pipeline equipment The system could carry 10,000 barrels of oil per day once in operation.

Former provincial Liberal leader David Anderson, who opposed the Alaska oil pipeline, said today the Arco-Trans Mountain agreement could be good for Canada — but Cherry Point is the wrong place for the terminal.

Anderson said the Alaska oil should be unloaded at a site west of Port Angeles and then move by a new pipeline around Puget Sound to Cherry Point, where it could join the Trans Mountain pipeline.

Anderson said the time has come for British Columbia to stop using Alberta oil and begin taking supplies from other countries.

"Alberta has only a 15-year supply and it should begin to think in terms of conserving its resources."

British Columbia refineries could be supplied at competitive prices from any number of other countries, he said.

"But the important thing is that no tanker should ever come east of Port Angeles. The oil should be unloaded west of Port Angeles, around Neah Bay, and then move by pipeline from there."

Anderson said if British Columbia continues to use up Alberta oil it will eventually have to go into the world market to buy crude.

"It is better to be buying in the world market now than in a few years time when it will be much more expensive."

Anderson said the national energy board should approve the Trans Mountain-Arco proposal but with the restriction that the oil is unloaded west of Port Angeles, not at Cherry Point.

Proceeding east of Port Angeles greatly increases the hazard of an oil spill, he said.

There has been opposition from environmental groups in both Canada and the United States to the use of the Cherry Point area to unload Alaska oil.

Under the agreement, Arco is expected to acquire a major interst in Trans Mountain Oil Pipe Line Corp., a Trans Mountain subsidiary which owns the pipeline spur line in Washington State.

The Trans Mountain-Arco proposal will compete with one by a consortium of companies to build a $500 million pipeline from Kitimat to Edmonton to transport Alaska oil that way.

B.C. Fed Warns Gov't

The B.C. Federation of Labor — in a surprise meeting today with Labor Minister Allan Williams — warned the government to stay away from anti-union legislation — to avoid "massive and undesirable consequences."

In a 13-page brief to the minister, the federation says it decided to present its views now rather than wait for its traditional annual meeting with the cabinet because it is concerned the government might rush into labor legislation without consultation.

"We are seriously concerned that the submissions of employers' groups and the "kite-flying" in speeches by the premier and other cabinet members may lead to rash and ill-considered changes in labor legislation which could cause massive disruption to industrial relations in B.C.," the brief says.

The federation says it is not threatening but it does predict "massive and undesirable consequences from any legislative attack on the rights of organized workers."

The brief suggests some major changes in the B.C. Labor Code although it admits the code is a great improvement over previous legislation.

NAIROBI, Kenya — President Idi Amin has lifted his order banning U.S. citizens from leaving Uganda. He also has postponed for the seconnd time the meeting to which he summoned all U.S. nationals living in his East African country.

Amin said today U.S. citizens in Uganda "are now free to go anywhere they wish, such as going for holidays or going about their normal business, be it inside or outside Uganda," Radio Uganda reported.

Amin forbade the estimated 240 U.S. citizens in Uganda from leaving the country last Friday and ordered them to meet with him on Monday at the international conference centre in Kampala, his capital.

During the weekend the meting was moved to the Entebbe airport, 19 miles from Kampala, and postponed until Wednesday. And on Monday Radio Uganda announced the meeting has been put off indefinitely, with a new date to be announced later.

Meanwhile, the United States has asked Swiss and other West European charter airlines about the possibility of evacuating Americans from Uganda.

Airline officials said today one such approach was made Balair, the charter company owned by the Swiss national airline Swissair, officials of that company said.

American diplomatic sources said similar approaches have been made to other charter airlines, especially those in neutral Austria and Sweden.

The White House said Monday that the president sent a message to Amin thanking him for his assurances that the U.S. citizens in Uganda were not in danger.

Handicapped Misinformed?

Gibson asked the Speaker to "exercise appropriate discipline" for actions by Vander Zalm which draws the legislature into "disrepute."

Gibson was referring to a letter written by the minister to handicapped people explaining why they have not been given a $22.50-a-month increase in their handicapped allowance.

The $22.50 a month was given to the province by the federal government and such increases are normally passed on to the recipients by the province.

The letter said: "I can assure you that under no circumstances has this ministry received $22.50 per client, nor have we failed to pass along a benefit provided for that purpose, as some critics have suggested."

Gibson pointed out a paragraph in the letter which said the budget for handicapped people hadn't increased when the federal government provided more income assistance to the province last October because the opposition hadn't had the opportunity to scrutinize the expenditure in the legislature during the budget debate.

Gibson described the paragraph as false and said it was an "attempt to blame this house" for the government's decision to hold back the increase.

Rates paid to handicapped people are increased by order-in-council, Gibson said, and there is no need to ask for the legislature's approval.

If Vander Zalm wants a resolution from the legislature allowing him to pass on the federal increase, he said, the minister should bring one in immediately.

Other attempts to get a definite answer from Finance Minister Evan Wolfe (acting human resources minister in Vander Zalm's absence) met with silence, evasion or rulings by the Speaker that questions were out of order.

Rosemary Brown (NDP — Vancouver Burrard) asked Wolfe if he'd be prepared to introduce a resolution to pass the $22.50 on to the handicapped. The Speaker ruled out the question.

The premier was asked by Gibson if he agreed the decision to pass on the $22.50 could be made in cabinet, and didn't require house approval.

"Changes are made by the minister," Bennett replied.

Gibson thanked the premier and then asked if he'd ask the minister to pass on the money but he was ruled out of order by the Speaker. He said it is improper to ask one minister

Whip System Falters

By LIZ HUGHES
Times Staff

A breakdown in the legislative whip system Monday resulted in a marathon three-hour speech by Liberal leader Gordon Gibson, a rare Monday night sitting and rumors of continued night sittings at least for the rest of this week.

Opposition MLAs charged the government is not consulting them on the order of house business, and government whip George Mussallem said the opposition is simply trying to liven up debate by its stalling tactics.

The breakdown began early in the afternoon sitting and calls for time-consuming recorded votes came on almost every issue.

The whip system is designed to ensure that debate on government bills and spending estimates flows smoothly. The government whip is supposed to tell opposition the order of debate.

NDP whip Dennis Cocke said the government is deliberately changing the order of business without notice to the opposition, making it impossible to muster arguments. The government is trying to keep the opposition off balance, he said.

Mussallem, Cocke said, had given them only 15 minutes notice of the order of business Monday afternoon.

Anti-Vandal Scheme May Hike Local Taxes

Government funding for school anti-vandalism programs is welcome, but a new insurance system announced by Education Minister Pat McGeer could be more costly for taxpayers, Rendina Hamilton, president of the B.C. School Trustees Association, said Monday.

Hamilton said that in the long term, the new system could hit local taxpayers hard.

She said that even though it provides that property owners will not have to pay more than one additional mill in the first year after a loss and not more than two mills in the second year, a series of fires over several years would compound the additional mills and lead to "a very serious situation."

Under the new system, school districts will have a $5 million deductible clause in their fire and vandalism insurance, and will be responsible for paying part of their own losses.

The government has purchased insurance to cover school losses in excess of $5 million on any single given loss, but the first $5 million will be handled under the normal capital financing plan by which the province pays 50 to 90 per cent of the cost, depending on the district's ability to pay.

McGeer said a special clause in the capital finance plan provided that, even in the event of a major disaster, property owners in the affected school district will not have to pay more than one additional mill in the first

OREGON FIRST TO BAN FLUOROCARBON SPRAY

PORTLAND (AP) — Oregon became the first state today to ban the sale of sprays that use fluorocarbons as propellants, but it hasn't decided how to enforce the ban.

Two years ago, lawmakers cited evidence that fluorocarbons damage the earth's protective ozone layer. The law they adopted went into effect today.

Anyone convicted of selling the contraband cans faces a maximum penalty of one year in jail and a $1,000 fine.

The law doesn't prohibit use of the sprays. So anyone who wants to stick with a favorite aerosol oven-cleaner or underarm deodorant can cross the state line to buy it.

Major retail chains began preparing for the deadline some time ago. Fred Meyer Inc., which operates 30 large stores in Oregon, posted signs identifying products known to contain fluorocarbons. All were to be off the shelves today, said Dale Warmon, Fred Meyer vice-president for marketing.

Herring Tendermen End Strike

VANCOUVER (CP) — About 500 tendermen in the herring roe fishery, members of the United Fishermen and Allied Workers' Union, ended their strike Monday following settlement of a contract with the Fisheries Association of B.C.

George Hewison, union secretary, said settlement of the contract meant fishermen members of the union could begin the fishery. They had been on strike in support of the tendermen.

Hewison said the new agreement, favored by a 98 per cent vote, was a breakthrough. He said tendermen will receive an interim wage increase of $4.50 a day and will receive $1.75 a ton for moving herring from fishboat to fishpacker.

Williams Startled

Labor Minister Allan Williams was "a little bit startled" Monday to hear of the International Woodworkers of America package increase demand of about 30 per cent.

"It's obviously an opening shot," Williams said. "But, yes, I must say I was a little bit startled."

He said this year is the first year the 42,000-member forest union would come under the anti-inflation guidelines, "so they would be limited to eight per cent."

"Either they will reduce their demand significantly or it would be a matter for the AIB (Anti-Inflation Board) to deal with," the minister said.

But, he said, parties in negotiations normally take extreme positions in the beginning and then modify them as bargaining continues.

Negotiations are expected to begin in late March.

The major demands include an across-the-board wage increase of $1 an hour; cost of living adjustment improvements; a guaranteed annual wage; and pension upgrading.

Food Prices Spurt 2% in Month

OTTAWA (FP) — A 2.1 per cent jump in food prices in the last four weeks has given Finance Minister Donald Macdonald new worries about the removal of income and price controls.

The Anti-Inflation Board reported the spurt in food prices Monday.

The 2.1 per cent increase was an exceptional rise for a single month.

And although that figure is not likely to be repeated in another four week period, officials are concerned that the trend to lower prices which helped inflation fighting efforts last year could be reversed.

They are particularly concerned about widespread drought in the Canadian and U.S. west which, if it continues, could result in short crops and rapidly escalating food prices later this year.

There are also increases projected for oil, totalling perhaps 8.6 cents per gallon this year.

In addition to other factors, devaluation of the Canadian dollar will make food imports more expensive, and the inflation rate worse.

Some officials suggest that, rather than approaching the target of six per cent inflation in 1977, by year-end it could be running at eight to 10 per cent.

Under those circumstances, some officials argue, it would be foolhardy to start removing anti-inflation controls too soon.

The Oct. 14 date for the start of decontrol is becoming less likely all the time, some officials say.

Macdonald said Monday that Oct. 14 is only one date in a range of options which the federal government is discussing with the provinces, business and labor. (See also story on page 3.)

He said that when discussions are completed, in the fairly near future, the government will make an announcement to remove some of the uncertainty.

Those pressing for a later date, rather than an earlier one, insist that under no circumstances should decontrol begin before Jan. 1, 1978.

The board said fresh vegetable prices have risen by 8.6 per cent in the last four weeks.

TICKETS DRAWN IN $1M LOTTERY

STRATFORD, Ont. (CP) — Five tickets worth $1 million each and five worth $250,000 each were drawn Monday in the third draw of the Provincial lottery.

The winning ticket numbers for $1 million were 4642375, 2013582, 3295134, 4650415 and 3019886.

There was $10,387,500 in prize money for a total of 45,000 prizes.

Ontario, Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia are participating in the Provincial through the Interprovincial Lottery Corporation.

The lottery is operated in Ontario by the Ontario Lottery Corporation and by the Western Canada Lottery Foundation in western Canada.

Proceeds from the Provincial in Ontario initially will ber used for medical and health research and health-related environmental programs. In the West, proceeds will be used for sports and recreation activities.

The next draw is to be held April 30.

Tax Break For Grit Delegates

Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — The federal Liberal party has found what it thinks is a sure-fire way to attract the maximum number of people to its national policy conference in Toronto later this month—make most of the cost of attending tax-deductible.

The key is a $350 registration fee, which, the party notes with considerable candor, is "more than just a registration fee."

Not only will this fee cover return travel to and from Toronto as well as all meals taken during workshops, it also covers a daily credit toward the cost of a hotel room.

Tax Dept. Security Crackdown

By JIM ROBB
Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — The 12,000 employees of Revenue Canada—Taxation are part-way through a security crackdown that will eventually subject all of them to screening by the Royal Canadian Mounted Police.

All new employees of Revenue Canada-Taxation, and all those receiving promotions from within, are now being put through the RCMP screening.

It will be extended to all permanent employees of the department in the fture, an official said Monday.

The tightening follows a survey by the RCMP that showed confidential taxpayer information held by Revenue Canada-Taxation was accessible to personnel who had not been security cleared.

The new security rules cover access to Revenue Canada buildings and physical access to information internally as well as the personnel security checks.

The rules apply to all regional and district offices of Revenue Canada as well as Ottawa headquarters. Security is especially tight at the two data centres, in Ottawa and Winnipeg, where masses of taxpayer information are stored in the memory banks of computers.

The screening of individual public servants involves fingerprinting and filling out the public service's personal history form.

This details immediate family relationships, travel to Communist areas, work history, and associations for the previous ten years.

It provides the basis for clearance from the RCMP.

Tighter security measures are also being employed by Revenue Canada-Customs and Excise, but on a more selective basis, an official said.

Most new employees, but not all, are required to be fingerprinted and to fill out the personal history form.

This is in line with the selective screening employed by most federal departments, where access to classified material is the factor determining security clearances.

The position taken by Revenue Canada-Taxation is that all taxpayer information is confidential by terms of the Income Tax Act, and thus every employee has to be cleared to handle it.

Although permanent employees are subject to the new security rules, however, the 6,000 casual workers employed during the income tax rush every spring are not, an official revealed.

Once a personal history form is filled out by an employee it is forwarded with fingerprints to the RCMP. The security screening then takes place, after which the form is returned to the department.

When the form comes back to the department it is given top secret status and filed under the control of a senior personnel officer in one of the regional officies or at Ottawa headquarters.

B.C. University Teachers Must Reveal Outside Jobs

B.C.'s three public universities have been told to make a full disclosure of all faculty members with remunerative occupations outside their jobs.

Education Minister Pat McGeer made the demand Monday in telegrams to the University of Victoria, Simon Fraser University and the University of B.C.

McGeer said he will make his findings public.

Today, however, UVic vice-president George Pedersen said faculty at the university must limit their outside work so it does not infringe on their regular duties.

Pedersen said there would not be anyone at UVic in a position similar to a University of B.C. professor whose extra-curricular consulting activities earned him more than his $50,036 salary.

McGeer said any university members who receive remuneration for an outside activity should be required to reimburse the institution for the time he spends away.

"Outside activities are acceptable as long as the faculty member is not being paid twice for the same day's work," he said. "That is wrong."

McGeer said he has asked each university to provide him with their ground rules for outside work and whether any individuals appear to be transgressing the rules.

"There may be some individuals who abuse the system," he said. "Perhaps they are not informing the university properly.

Pedersen said research and other contracts administered by UVic limit researchers to the time they can spend and money they can receive.

Pedersen said there are no problems at UVic of staff transgressing the guidelines.

The few instances where outside research might demand more of an individual's time have to be approved by the department head right up through the president, Pedersen said.

Pedersen said UVic does not have disciplines like engineering or business and commerce, areas in which there tends to be a heavy demand for consultative work from the private sector.

He said UVic faculty members, when not involved in teaching, are expected to work on research or on curriculum development.

LABOR WARNS GOV'T

Labor Relations Branch (LRB) is less than it should be and better than it might be, the brief says.

The federation urges a lessening in the powers given in the code to the chairman of the LRB but stresses it is not expressing any criticism of current chairman Paul Weiler.

The federation has been fortunate in the discretion shown by Weiler most of the time but says future chairman could cause disastrous results by the unwise use of such powers.

The composition of the LRB should be at least 50 per cent labor-oriented, and the same with the top officers of the board and any board panel.

Now, members with labor background are in a minority, the brief says.

The federation urges repeal of two sections of the labor code which allow the LRB to impose mandatory formation of councils of unions.

These sections, the brief says, actually militate against the efforts of the federation to encourage unions to form voluntary councils.

Que. Bonds Sell Out

MONTREAL (CP) — A $175-million Quebec provincial bond issue announced Monday was sold out by noon today, says a spokesman for the managing underwriter. year and two more mills in the second year.

Greater Victoria already has a well-organized vandalism control system, board chairman Susan Brice said today.

"The district has been a forerunner in this area."

Each principal has specific reports to make on each incidence of vandalism and the cost of repairs. And he is to administer appropriate discipline.

A committee headed by assistant superintendent of schools Keith Hawkins also investigates each reported incident.

Hawkins has placed slightly more than $100,000 in the 1977-78 budget for vandalism repairs. This works out to about $4 per pupil—one of the lowest rates in the province.

McGeer also announced a $3-million fund to provide on-site protection for school districts with greater vandalism risks.

McGeer said he hoped the new program will encourage tough anti-vandalism measures at the individual board level.

Hamilton said she does not know if this would result.

"I think every district is doing its best. Whether this will give them more incentive, I don't know," she said.

School districts have been very concerned with anti-vandalism measures, such as equipping schools with alarms and sprinkler systems and asking for the co-operation of the police and the community, she said.

The major concern in many districts is that schools built in the last decade are so easily burned, Hamilton said. Many are frame buildings without proper fire doors, protective walls and protective stair cases, she said.

J. E. Robertson, business administrator for the Vancouver school board, said the new insurance system should be good news for Vancouver taxpayers.

Vancouver has a first-class fire department, and better protected and more fire-resistant schools, so fire losses in the city should be less than the provincial average, he said.

And if schools cut down on their losses through vandalism, there will be more money available for operating funds, he said.

"We stand a much lesser chance of facing a serious loss," he said. "It's a better deal for Vancouver taxpayers."

Inquest Thursday

An inquest into the death of 83-year-old Hafeiya Kebalo, of 3411 Rolston Crescent, will begin at 7:30 p.m. Thursday at McCall Bros. funeral home, 1400 Government Street.

Mrs. Kebalo died Saturday after being struck by a car backing out of a parking space at the Burnside shopping plaza, Burnside and Tillicum.

Liberal leader Gibson and Tory leader Scott Wallace echoed Cocke's comments and both indicated they would stall government intentions until the whip system resumes its rightful function.

True to his word, Gibson launched into the session's first filibuster Monday afternoon.

He spoke for the last half hour of debate in the afternoon sitting on a government bill to increase B.C. Hydro's borrowing power $650 million to $4.1 billion.

He adjourned debate at 6 p.m., but was back at it when the house resumed at 8 p.m.

He spoke non-stop until the house rose at 11 p.m: quoting from reports, studies, letters, newspaper stories, press releases and Hansards, working out his statistics on a pocket calculator as he went along.

The rare Monday night sitting was called in apparent retaliation against the opposition's stalling tactics and rumors abounded that the government will call night sittings every night this week at least.

Night sittings are normally held only Tuesdays and Thursdays.

At the end of the three-hour speech Gibson said he was willing to do it all over if the government again attempted to get things through the house without letting the opposition know the order of business.

"Each and every time that kind of thing happens, I'll be there for three hours to fill in the time," he said.

"This is a clear signal to the government that if they want something done, they must co-operate with the opposition in letting us know the order."

Gibson said he had proved his point.

Handicapped Got Wrong Data?

to influence the decision of another.

Brown asked the premier if "now you know that he is deliberately withholding the money do you still support his every action? Are you proud of him?

Representatives of the demonstrators, who included about 30 handicapped persons, will be back Wednesday to meet Vander Zalm who was out of town Monday.

Protest-organizer Bruce Eriksen, of the Downtown Eastside Residents Association in Vancouver, said he was "definitely not happy" with the meetings granted Monday.

Eriksen said the group had tried to arrange a meeting with the Socred cabinet "because we wanted them to hear what we had to say from us, not from Mr. Vander Zalm."

The cabinet metting was not granted, and because Vander Zalm was away the protest representatives ended up in a meeting with Finance Minsiter Wolfe.

"He said he was sympathetic, but he didn't say with what," Eriksen said after the meeting.

The protesters, many in wheelchairs and on crutches, carried their signs outside the legislature for about an hour before their representatives went in to speak to Wolfe.

Among the protesters were Bob Neuman and his dog Killer, of Vancouver, central figures in a recent dispute with Vander Zalm over whether the $300 awarded to Neuman under the Criminal Injuries Compensation Act should be deducted from his handicapped allowance. (He was finally allowed to keep $265 of it).

Neuman carried a sign which have the recipe for the meal he says he can most afford under his handicapped allowance: "One-half 15 oz. tin Rover, 1 boiled potato, a small onion, salt, pepper, dry mustard. Mince onion and potato in hot skillet, add dog food, spice and cook 20 minutes."

Tory leader Scott Wallace, speaking to the crowd from the front steps of the legislature, said it was incredible that any government today would "pick on the people least able to defend themselves — the handicapped."

Liberal leader Gordon Gibson congratulated the handicapped people on the fortitude they had shown in travelling to Victoria but said it was "disgraceful that government actions are such that you have to come."

Nurses Set Strike

About 2,600 registered nurses working for the provincial government served strike notice today, 16 months after their last contract expired.

The nurses want a 14 per cent pay increase over two years, an amount they claim is allowed under the anti-inflation guidelines. The government has offered 10 per cent.

The strike notice, mailed by double-registered letter from Vancouver Monday, comes after six months of mediation failed to produce a settlement.

Jerry Miller, spokesman for the Registered Nurses Association of B.C., said today that if a strike comes, the nurses have promised to provide essential services.

He declined to say whether a strike would follow the 72-hour strike notice but said nurses see a strike as a last resort and want binding arbitration instead.

Nevertheless, the association is "getting ready" and has set up strike committees, he said.

In the Capital district, about 100 registered and registered psychiatric nurses working at Glendale Hospital and Tillicum Lodge together with a few nurses working directly for the ministry of health are involved.

The government can avert a strike, Miller said. If it has confidence in its position, as the nurses have, it should be ready to lay its case before some impersonal arbiter for a binding decision, as the nurses are.

the weather

A broad ridge of high pressure over the eastern Pacific will serve to protect B.C. from any major Pacific disturbance until at least Wednesday morning, although cloud will persist in some areas. However, this ridge will begin to collapse by midweek. Then the seasonal pattern of a rapid eastward progression of weather producing systems will again become established over the west coast.

Common Market Gift Goes To Buttering Up Soviets

By DAVID MACDONALD
Times London Bureau

LONDON — They must be chortling in the Kremlin tonight and saying the Russian equivalent of "Brussels blew it again."

In contrast, every Common Market housewife from Shetland to Sicily will be wailing and gnashing her teeth at the extraordinary news that the Common Market bureaucrats have handed over another big gift to the fun-loving advocates of total world domination.

There will be extra butter rations all round in the next few weeks for the boys in the 31 Soviet armored and infantry divisions poised in Central and Eastern Europe to wipe out Western Europe at the press of a Moscow button.

Faced with a "butter mountain" in the community, the clever answer of the Brussels bureaucrafts is to sell an excess of 245,000 metric tons of butter to the Soviet Union at a price as low as 29 cents a pound while London housewives face prices of up to $1.29 a pound.

The irony is that the state welfare bums in Moscow don't even recognize the Common Market at the diplomatic level. But they have every reason to feel grateful toe their phantom friends, who are repeating a gift to the Soviet economy they made four years ago.

But the terms of the gift are even better this time. In 1973, the Common Market solved the problem of an excess of 200,000 metric tons by selling it to the Soviets at 18 cents a pound when British housewives were paying 45 cents a pound.

The way the Common Market is making its generous gift to Moscow is by granting an extra subsidy on the butter to the Soviet Union, at the expense of the West European taxpayers.

And Moscow can also thank the Common Market housewives who were so incensed at the sky-high butter prices in recent months that they refused to buy butter. Brussels logic is that extra butter stockpiled because of consumer resistance means handout time in Red Square.

One sad note for the Soviets is that the Europe-wide drought last year cut production, or they might have been getting twice as much butter at firesale prices.

Tom Torney, the British Labor MP who is chairman of the Parliamentary Labor Party Agricultural and Food Group, has no doubt who the real culprits are in what he calls "a scandal."

"This all comes as a result of the European Economic Community common agricultural policy which is designed to prop up the inefficient farmers of France.

"The common agricultural policy should be scrapped and the government should be demanding a more advantageous policy in its place."

20 KILLED ON PLANE

BAGHDAD (AFP) — Twenty passengers and crew members aboard a South Yemen Airways DC-3 were killed when it crashed shortly after take-off from Aden today on a domestic flight, it was reported here.

The Iraqui news agency, in a report from Aden, said one passenger escaped unhurt.

Newfoundland Given $150M Alberta Loan

EDMONTON (CP) — Alberta has loaned Newfoundland $150 million in a move designed to reaffirm Alberta's confidence in the future of a united Canada, Premier Peter Lougheed said Monday.

The loan is the first made under the Canada Investment division of the Heritage Savings Trust Fund and was a "good arrangement" for both provinces, he told the Legislature.

The loan, over a 21-year period, will have a coupon rate of interest at 10 per cent and will be in the form of an investment in the debentures of Newfoundland, he added.

"The interest over a 21-year period will provide a significant cash flow to Albertans for those future years when our resource revenues are less buoyant."

Lougheed said the Alberta government's move indicates confidence in the nation's stability in the wake of the Quebec government's declared policy of seeking independence.

Debt investment outside Canada has, rightly or wrongly, appeared to conclude Canada is a somewhat higher risk country for investment and, as a reult , borrowing abroad, "will be more expensive," he said.

"This government . . . is prepared to make a major commitment to reflect its strong confidence that Canada will continue to be a viable and unified nation from the Pacific to the Atlantic."

The premier said the fund, established 10 months ago, would provide an opportunity to diversify the portfolio through the Canada investment division by investing in other parts of Canada.

The Newfoundland government will use the loan to meet part of the general requirements of its consolidated revenue fund during the coming year.

Ottawa Deficit Hits $3.7B Over 10 Months

OTTAWA (CP) — The government's budgetary deficit for the first 10 months of the fiscal year, which ends March 31, totalled $3,796 billion, up from $2.933 billion at the same time last year, the finance department said Monday.

Spending in the first 10 months totalled $30.208 billion and revenues were $26.412 billion to the end of January.

In the last fiscal year, spending for the first 10 months totalled $26,742 billion and revenues stood at $23.809 billion.

Total production in the economy grew by 4.6 per cent during 1976 from 1975 levels, mainly because of strong production increases early in the year, Statistics Canada reported Monday.

In its quarterly report on the gross national product, the government agency said that economic production fell by six-tenths of one per cent in the final three months of the year.

GNP is a measure of the value of all goods and services produced in the economy. The figures for changes are reported in real terms, after discounting for the effects of price inflation.

Statistics Canada said that the inflation slowed during 1976 to 9.4 per cent from 10.8 per cent. This inflation index measures changes in the prices of domestically produced goods.

The combined increases in prices and output during 1976 caused GNP to grow by 14.5 per cent from 1975 levels to $184.5 billion. But most of this increase was attributable to inflation.

The over-all increase in GNP during 1976 comes after a recessionary period during 1974-75. GNP grew by only 1.2 per cnt in 1975, its weakest performance in 21 years. But the apparent recovery that started early in 1976 weakened steadily as the year progressed.

ISRAELIS JAILED FOR CORRUPTION

JERUSALEM (Reuter) — Two former senior Israeli agriculture ministry officials were jailed today on charges of corruption.

Yigal Drucker, who served as a spokesman for the ministry and poultry council, was sentenced to a 2½-year jail term and a $51,000 fine.

An economist for the council, Benzio Deutsch, was imprisoned for 18 months and fined $11,900.

Drucker was found guilty of setting up an advertising agency while serving as a civil servant and assigning himself advertising contracts for both the ministry and council.

Deutsch was found to have approved the contracts although he knew the agency belonged to Drucker.

The district court here said it imposed the relatively tough sentences because of the growing number of cases of curruption involving Israeli public officials.

Macdonald Still Mum

OTTAWA (CP) — Finance Minister Donald Macdonald said Monday no date has been set for the end of wage and price controls but a range of possible dates has been discussed with provincial governments.

Th range extends from Oct. 14 — the second anniversary of the control program — to Dec. 31, 1978, the date now set for termination of the federally-imposed restraints, he said.

Macdonald told the Commons that government documents led to a weekend report that the government has chosen Oct. 14, 1977, as the end of the program. These appeared to be some of the working papers discussing the range of possibilities.

The provinces had not yet given a full response to the proposals. In the past they have had a wide range of opinions on when controls should end.

Macdonald said he hopes to get "definitive" reponses from the provinces as soon as possible but it is impossible now to set a time for the end of the program.

On several occasions, Macdonald has said the government might be willing to end the program earleir than Dec. 31, 1978, at least on the private sector side, if it can get agreement from various interest groups for restraint.

He said Monday that the government does not think the inflation rate in the current year can be lower than four per cent. It now is about 6.1 per cent.

Four per cent is the target for the third year of the anti-inflation program.

Day the Rains Came

United Press International

Welcome rains eased drought conditions in the U.S. Northwest today and snow finally came to snow-starved slopes of the Rockies, too late to salvage the season for hard-hit ski resorts.

Drought, however, hung on in the nation's midlands, threatening crops and livestock herds.

A Pacific storm roamed from Washington to northern California and eastward into western Nevada, northern Idaho and Montana, bringing rain and snow.

Up to eight inches of snow hit the Cascades of western Washington. Truckee, Calif., in the Sierra Nevada, reported five inches of snow. Eugene, Ore., and Astoria, Ore., each reported more than an inch and a quarter of rain.

Snow prompted travel advisories today for portions of Washington, Oregon, California, Nevada and Idaho. Strong winds triggered travel advisories in the mountains and deserts of Southern California.

Heavy snow warnings were posted for the mountains and foothills of western Montana and winter storm watches for portions of northern Arizona and the Colorado mountains.

Frost and freeze warnings were posted for northern Florida.

The Tattered Breadbasket

When the government of Canada becomes a partner in an international wheat cartel one can only wonder how it will prosecute domestic price fixers with any moral authority. While Transport Minister Otto Lang, the minister responsible for the wheat board, balked at the term "cartel" used by U.S. Agriculture Secretary Robert Bergland to describe the deal, that is exactly what the world's two largest suppliers of wheat did. And it is a measure of Canada's desperation that it would enter into such a cozy scheme.

Until 1975, the boom in wheat prices and other grains made Canadian wheat producers one of the most prosperous groups in the domestic farm economy. Farm cash receipts from wheat rose from $513 million or 18 per cent of all farm receipts in 1960 to $2.463 billion or 25 per cent of all farm receipts in 1975. In the first 10 months of 1976 wheat receipts dropped to $1.791 billion. Put another way, in 1955 Canada supplied 27.4 per cent of the world's export wheat market. By 1975 our share declined to less than 18 per cent of the world total. Our production barely doubled between 1950 and 1976 from 12.6 million tons to 23.5 million tons, while world production nearly tripled.

Wheat exports dominated the Canadian farm economy for many years, but the very thought of such a prosaic commodity makes people yawn. Yet in a country facing a balance of payments deficit approaching $8 billion this year, the annual $2 billion in foreign exchange provided by wheat, especially in view of rising imported oil prices, is of crucial importance to the economy. Given this background, why is the breadbasket of the world settling for half a loaf?

The major reason is increased production and competition from the United States. Forty five per cent of the world's wheat now comes from the United States. In 1955 the U.S. accounted for only 31 per cent of the world crop — only slightly higher than Canada's share at the time. Traditional Canadian markets in Europe have declined. Our share of the European market, excluding Britain, has dropped from 36 per cent to 15 per cent, over the last 20 years. New found dependence on China and Soviet customers, while resulting in huge sales some years, has created wide fluctuations in our trade picture. Canadian production and acreage has not kept pace with major foreign exporters, especially the United States. Some critics also point to the state marketing agency, the Canadian wheat board, saying pricing, storage and transportation policies are 50 years out of date.

The wheat board's giant bureaucracy numbering more than 600, headed by five commissioners with salaries in the $41,000 to $66,000 range, is moving to make some changes, however. Ottawa has already spent $186 million on 6,000 hopper cars, and the wheat board has recommended the purchase of another 4,000 more to move grain. Under the west coast terminal program, private companies are offered incentives to build additional grain handling facilities. But the wheat board has other problems, too. In effect, it is a huge grain speculator which makes pricing decisions independent of world markets. The proposed cartel with the United States will result in more realistic prices, although at what price to Canada's image in the third world? There is also a strange alliance between the board and the Canadian International Development Agency, which buys wheat at a secret price for distribution among poor nations. Since 1970 CIDA has paid more than $625 million for wheat, making it the board's fifth largest customer. Private traders maintain that CIDA could be paying an inflated price for its wheat, an inside deal that might be wasting taxpayers' dollars.

Because of oversupply and declining export markets the price per bushel of Canadian premium wheat fell more than $1 between July and November of 1976. A western farm economy already shuddering under high land costs and the disappearance of the family farm (another mistake of 1960s agricultural policy) may be further eroded unless Canada recaptures some of its old markets or creates new ones. It would appear the government is not making the total effort required to develop our grain sales. Ottawa is quick to blame manufacturers for not being aggressive salesmen abroad, yet there is little evidence that it is doing the same for wheat. Farmers should also be encouraged to cut back on wheat acreage in favor of other grain crops.

International competition is becoming increasingly sharp, and Canada faces new competitors in nearly all of its traditional export markets. British Columbia forest companies complain that high wages are making them uncompetitive on world markets. Canadian wheat exports are down too, although a state controlled agency is responsible for price setting and marketing. There is no simple answer for Canada's declining export picture. High wages, low productivity and indifferent salesmanship from a complacent nation are part of the trouble. Disparate industries feel the same effects, whether government or privately controlled. Forming a wheat cartel with the U.S. may help the problem, but in the end Canadians all must accept less at home if we are to sell more abroad. Until we all get that through our heads the national debt of $43.5 billion will continue to rise.

DAVID MACDONALD

Enjoy Your Coffee Today?

LONDON. — Canada is helping to keep Idi Amin in power in Uganda by direct trade and by consumption of American-produced instant coffee.

Other countries underpinning the chaotic Ugandan economy include the United States, Britain, West Germany, Japan and Italy.

At the same time, Canada and these other countries are sternly maintaining a trade embargo on another African country, Rhodesia, for violating the United Nations charter of human rights. This irony might appeal to Idi Amin's victims, were they alive to savor it.

Thus President Amin need not worry about the years-long power-dive into which he has put the Ugandan economy by arbitrarily executing business leaders, civil servants and cabinet ministers, and overspending on defence. He can rely on the fiscal lifebelt of coffee earnings provided by his Canadian and other friends.

Almost three-quarters of Uganda's export earnings come from coffee plantations that mainly produce a coarse type of bean known as Robusta. Its importers mix it with fine beans to make instant coffee.

Bought $2.5 Million

This is why no one can point to a jar of Ugandan coffee in a supermarket and speculate that the earth that produced it contains the blood of between 50,000 and 300,000 murdered Ugandans, depending on which intelligence estimate you accept. Ugandan coffee is invisibly mixed in the jar of instant on the kitchen shelf.

The Ugandan national budget of 1974-75 showed a deficit of $22 million in this country with almost non-existent gold and foreign exchange reserves. But this was amply covered by a surplus of $114 million in the country's trade with Canada and other countries.

Figures available from the Canadian high commission in London show that in 1975 Canada imported Ugandan goods worth $2,647,000 of which coffee made up $2,356,000. Uganda bought only $201,000 worth of Canadian goods. The pattern was believed to be similar for 1976 although figures were not available in London.

Small as this may appear, it is important to remember how much instant coffee in Canada is imported from the U.S. Figures supplied by the United States embassy in London show 1975 imports from Uganda of $51.6 million, including $50 million worth of coffee. Uganda imported $8 million worth of manufactured goods from the U.S.

By 1976, the U.S. was importing from Uganda $79.8 million of goods, including $79 million worth of coffee.

The United States is Uganda's biggest export customer but Uganda is, for Britain, the biggest single source of imported coffee.

IDI AMIN
. . . foreign exchange supports him

British government figures show that 1975 imports totalled $39 million, including $23 million worth of coffee. Uganda imported $17.7 million of British goods. By 1976, the import bill from Uganda was $55 million, of which coffee formed $41.65 million.

A foreign office Uganda expert discounted the effect of foreign trade by describing Uganda as having a subsistence economy. In fact, only 30 per cent of the Ugandan economy is of the subsistence or barter type, a low proportion for the average African state.

It is also argued in some quarters that such amounts count for little in the total trade picture of the three countries discussed. A counter-argument is that if the amounts are so insignificant, why be involved in them if they keep a butcher in power?

It is not hard to demonstrate the weakness of the Ugandan eocnomy, which was one of the potentially strongest of all former colonial economies when the British handed over in 1962.

Coffee is the main item but there also are cotton, tea, copper and sugar, all in demand overseas.

It may be hard to believe, but President Amin has managed to lose his country extra coffee earnings when coffee is so scarce worldwide and commanding such a high price.

Late last year, a full two million bags of coffee had to be stockpiled inside Uganda because of a lack of rail transport and border feuds with neighboring Kenya and because Uganda did not have the foreign exchange to buy new coffee bags. The scale of this economic loss can be judged by noting that total 1975 Ugandan coffee exports amounted to 3.2 million bags.

Sauce for Gander?

The general coffee marketing system has been so damaged by disappearances of key officials that some coffee is being sold by Ugandan farmers directly to neighboring countries' buyers.

The sugar industry is near collapse. Annual production of 152,000 tons when Idi Amin took power in 1971 plunged to 44,000 tons by 1974 and has since become negligible. The European Economic Community's lone convention with third world countries had allotted an annual quota of 5,000 tons of Uganda sugar to be exported to common market countries. Uganda failed to make its last quota so the common market is cutting the quota back.

Cotton production has slumped from 78,000 tons in 1973 to 5,000 tons in 1974 and 43,000 tons in 1975. Main problems are due to lack of spare parts and absence of skilled personnel who were either executed or expelled. Common market plans to help technically and financially are in abeyance pending an end to the activities of President Amin's killer squads.

The president's finger tip hold on the edge of the economic precipice, therefore, would seem to be strengthened by his profitable international coffee trade.

It is an open question why sauce for the white supremacist goose of Rhodesia should not be sauce for the black tyrant gander of Uganda too.

Charitable Fund

It is commendable that Premier Bennett is going to look carefully for an agency to disburse aid to the Vietnamese children. Past history has taught us that through dishonest and greedy officials in these "foreign" countries, the money does not always fall into the right hands.

I only wish the federal government had been as cautious before giving the handicapped persons increase of $22.50 per month to Mr. Vander Zalm. This fund was kept secret for six months and is still being withheld.

Perhaps Mr. Bennett could look into this matter carefully too, since it hits closer to home. — Victorian.

One of the Group

As requested at one of our general meetings, I am writing at this late date about an editorial about the Pacific Life Community on Jan. 11, to object to the labelling of Jim Douglass as our leader.

I am glad that you are making an effort to print good news, which I certainly consider news of our community to be. In fact it is only by the power which comes from learning to resolve problems among us that we are able to face with equanimity the fearsome spectre of the $40 million Trident project.

The fact that we resolve these problems together and thereby discover our own equality as human beings is the basis of our objection to labelling Jim Douglass as our leader. He is a person who, like the rest of us, has talents to offer to a common task. He tries, like the rest of us, to use them to the best of his ability. Who should expect less of themselves? — Ian Gibson, Pacific Life Community 29 Menzies Street.

Seat Belt Insurance

There is absolutely no need for any legislation to force auto-users to wear seatbelts. We have the vehicles to control the use of seatbelts through insurance rates of ICBC and B.C. medical plan.

Car insurance will be reduced 25 per cent for wearing seat belts, increased 25 per cent for not wearing them.

B.C. medical plan — same thing. Basic rate reduced for wearing them. Basic rate increased, 100 per cent for not. For those casual passengers who are covered through other people's insurance — if they are in an accident with no seat belt worn, the coverage of the driver for that passenger is void but not for the driver. The medical plan coverage would show an automatic increase for that person's coverage the following July.

A simple sticker from ICBC will be issued and displayed in the vehicles covered, coverage for seat belt wearers only! Please fasten your seat belts. — Jeanie Hutchisnon, 4023 Grange Road.

Accountability

Recently, there has been much question as to how credible our present government is. They keep saying that they have introduced restraint and accountability into all departments of government.

Presently before the house is a bill to increase B.C. Hydro's borrowing capacity by approximately half a billion dollars. The present outstanding debt of B.C. Hydro is in access of $3 billion. This debt is, or could be greater than the total amount of monies budgeted for government expenditures 1977-1978.

This is a poor example of how restraint is practised, especially when the economic climate of our province is not too great. On one hand they say to practise restraint, while on the other they increase our debt quite excessively.

The thing to remember here is that the government guarantees repayment of that loan, so that if we do not pay for it by increased Hydro rates, then we pay for it through our taxes, so we pay for it one way or the other.

They say they are accountable, but all Mr. Wolfe said when he introduced the bill was that the money was needed to meet expenditures. What expenditures? Maybe they should restrain from some of these expenditures and not place the people of B.C. in so much debt. Just what proof do we have that these expenditures and who provides it?

If we look over the speeches and make note of the promises made in those speeches by government members, we would find that they have reneged on many of them. They appear to have no intention of fulfilling them, and yet they say they are accountable to us. If that is so, then let them answer why they have reneged on their promises, and why they have deliberately issued misleading and contradictory statements to the public.— James Bates, 306-929 Esquimlat Road.

Condominiums

With reference to the article in your edition of Feb. 10, regarding a speech made by Mr. J.-P. Daem at a meeting of the Housing and Urban Development Association and his subsequent remarks to your reporter regarding condominiums.

I have known Mr. Daem for some years and know his interest in condominiums, so felt that his remarks had either been printed out of context or some qualifying points had been omitted. I have tried to contact Mr. Daem without success so decided that I must write and qualify his remarks, at least as regards condominiums in Victoria.

I agree with his remarks regarding the developers and there have been a number of such instances in the Victoria area. Consumer awareness is not restricted to condominium buyers, and purchasers of any residence or any large item for that matter are, or should be aware that sellers now have a certain amount of responsibility for what they are selling.

The "over-democratization" he refers to presumably means that we are all subject to control by four levels of government, federal, provincial, municipal and regional, and now purchasers find they are subject to bylaws, rules and regulations of the condominium project. This is inevitable, of course, as each tier of government passes down the rights to rule on specific subjects. This system may appear to be over-control, but it has proven itself over the centuries and while we may think that certain laws, bylaws, etc., are wrong, that does not mean that the system is wrong. Condominiums must have their own bylaws to suit their own circumstances, and this is where the real estate industry often falls down. Sometimes they do not advise purchasers that they are subject to bylaws and in some instancers they have not even divulged that there will be maintenance charges to be paid. They also often advertise carefree living, inferring that all one has to do is sit back and let the place run itself. There are some who do this of course, but all they are doing is to let some other people run their property for them.

His statement that purchasers discover they are nothing more than tenants with rules, regulations and a homeowner's association exercising the same type of control that the landlord exercised is certainly not understood by this association. Any bylaw or regulation in force in a condominium has to be voted on by all the owners in a democratic manner and is not thrust upon them by any outside person. They are intended to allow all owners to live in a comfortable atmosphere with the peace and tranquility they should expect. It is a very satisfactory thing that they very rarely have to be exercised, but they must be there in case any owner or tenant decides to exercise what they term their freedom but which is really licence.

The only reason I can think of for the remark that about 40 per cent of condominiums will go "belly up" and will become prime targets for urban renewal is that developers have overbuilt. The result of this has too often been that the developer, who still retained control, rented the ones unsold, and this situation may have continued for some years. When the permanent council of owner occupiers finally took over, they found that very little had been done in the way of repairs and maintenance, even preventative maintenance to such things as elevators and pool equipment, and there was no money in the reserve account to cover these necessary expenses. This has happened to some of our own members, but in spite of the fact that lawyers have found some loophole whereby developers have managed to evade responsibility, the owners have had sufficient responsibility to enable them to overcome these difficulties. I can assure you there is no chance of any of our members becoming a target for urban renewal. — L. W. Jones, President, Greater Victoria Strata Corporations Assocation, 5-1701 McKenzie Avenue.

Maritime Reunion

This spring, May 19 through May 22, 1977, Central Kings rural high school is celebrating its silver anniversary. Events planned for the weekend include class reunions for all graduating classes, a reunion dinner and dance, an outdoor field day, a barbecue, a variety show, and many, many more special events. Graduates will have an opportunity to meet with former classmates, teachers and administrators, as well to participate in any and all the events planned in conjunction with the silver anniversary of the school.

Our address is the Central Kings Homecoming, Box 292, Kentville, Nova Scotia; or phone (902) 538-3135 or (902) 542-3436. Any assistance that could be given our committee would be greatly appreciated. Detailed information regarding the anniversary plans, inlcuding a schedule of events, lodging facilities, graduating class representatives, etc. will be mailed out immediately.—Kathy Fraser, General Chairman, Central Kings Silver Anniversary, Kentville, N.S.

Matter of Trust

Canadian security and that of the United States are interdependent, based and entwined with friendship and mutual respect! President Carter is a man and a Democrat. In reassuring his people following release of CIA Hussein covert activities, he said: "Place your trust in me". He said facts concerning facts publicized must remain secret.

One of the mottos of the United States is In God We Trust.

In a democracy both government and opposition have a right to access to facts. What's sauce for the goose is sauce for the gander.

We as Canadians have more than a passing interest in both sides of the coin. President Carter has stated Canadian-American ties will be strengthened. CIA activities in British Columbia have been rumored. Mr. Trudeau has stated "in case of political problems, I will come to the United States for help."

President Carter's request for "trust" seems in conflict with the motto In God We Trust. My grandpa used to say, in the wild west: "Son, when a man asks you to trust him, stand back and cock your six gun."—Fred Miller, Jr., Victoria.

How Banks Help Pull Canada Apart

By DOMINIQUE CLIFT
Montreal Star

Unlike the Bank of Montreal or the Royal Trust, the Royal Bank of Canada is not doing it on the sly. It called a press conference to announce the three major departments would be moved out to Toronto. They involve investments, international money markets and corporate marketing and development. The reason given is that these banking functions can be most efficiently performed out of Toronto where most of the action is already taking place. Bank officials said the move was not politically inspired.

Most members of the Parti Quebecois government will probably accept these statements at face value. They are quite aware of the fact that for the last 20 years industrial and financial activities have tended to become concentrated in Toronto, and that there are demographic and economic factors at work over which the provincial government has little control.

* * *

Government members are also aware that language tensions in Montreal as well as political tensions throughout the province, although they are not the original cause of this trend, have now reached the point where they contribute to accelerating it, at least as far as Quebec-based operations are concerned.

Hence the Royal Bank decision comes as no real surprise and in itself is not a cause for resentment. But what riles the Parti Quebecois government now, as it did the Bourassa government earlier, is the political use that is being made of straightforward business decisions. Businessmen are always saying that the linguistic and political climate is driving away investment, but it is a rarity to hear a company justify moving out of Quebec on those grounds.

PARIZEAU . . . 'galling'.

The issue is not the Royal Bank's decision. It is the federal legislation governing the Canadian banking system whereby it becomes impossible for any major bank to operate effectively and competitively away from the centre of the action, which now happens to be Toronto.

The Canadian banking system was designed to serve two distinct purposes. The first one is to ensure institutional security to prevent failures in periods of recession and protect the savings of depositors. The second one is to channel savings in a manner which will support national development policies. Unlike the United States, Canada has sought to encourage the growth of powerful banking institutions with branches across the country but with highly centralized direction.

The result has been an ample supply of investment funds for national purposes. But it has also serious problems for provincial or regional initiatives. According to Finance Minister Jacques Parizeau, there is something galling about a situation where banks, trust companies and insurance companies use the savings of Quebec residents to dictate terms and policy to the Quebec government.

Premier Levesque sees it the same way. One of the key aspects of his program for independence is to recover legislative control over all categories of financial institutions. "This would allow us to break the stranglehold in which the old British-inspired banking system of just a handful of 'majors' has always kept thepeople's money and financial initiative", he wrote recently.

* * *

In the great Confederation debate that got under way last November following the Parti Quebecois election victory, Prime Minister Trudeau often makes the point that Canada has an unusually high degree of decentralization. He usually refers to the fact that such things as education, health, welfare and even civil law come within provincial jurisdiction, a situation which theoretically allows for full community participation.

There is no doubt that Canada enjoys a relatively high degree of decentralization of government functions. However, successive federal governments have sought to compensate for this by coming out with national policies which would favor a greater concentration of industrial and financial activity.

* * *

The Bank Act is only one example of this type of policy. The structure of freight rates across the country has helped to promote the growth of manufacturing activities in central Canada and to force onto outlying areas a marked degree of economic specialization in agriculture and in raw materials. Similarly, communications, support for the arts, federal-provincial cost-sharing programs, have all helped to overcome the fragmentation which the constitution would otherwise have imposed on the country.

That the federal government's economic and fiscal policies have been eminently successful in cementing the country together and overcoming the handicaps of the constitution, there can be little doubt. The protests that are now coming from Quebec and which have given rise to separatist sentiments will testify to that. And so will the growing regionalism which is apparent in the policies of Premier Peter Lougheed in Alberta and Premier Bill Bennett in British Columbia.

* * *

The protests are coming in from every part of the country — except Ontario. Every other province has had the sorry experience of seeing well-apid jobs and their supporting services being taken away from them and transferred elsewhere. There has been a steady economic and cultural impoverishment which in many Canadian areas, particularly Quebec, has become politically unacceptable.

The concept of what Canada should become has traditionally been embodied in the federal government's economic policies, much more so than in constitutional documents or charters of rights. Unavoidably, there has been a strong tendency to neglect the social and political impact of these policies as they contributed to widening regional disparities. National economic policies, therefore, seem to have reached a point where they are counterproductive and achieve opposite results from what was originally intended. They have become divisive rather than unifying.

There may be many French-speaking people in Quebec who will never believe that the Royal Bank's decision was purely an economic one. And there may be quite a number of English-speaking people here who will claim that the decision should teach Quebec a lesson. But misconceptions and misrepresentations of that kind only go to show the extent to which national policies have become unrealistic and dissociated from the very people they should be designed to serve.

Slum-Dwellers Building on Hope

By ROGER MANN

LUSAKA, Zambia — Almost every black African city suffers from decaying, overcrowded slums and a critical shortage of housing for low-paid wage earners. But in Lusaka, the Zambian capital, the people themselves are solving the low-cost housing problem with such creativity that they have won the assistance of their government and international agencies.

"Slowly by slowly I'm building my family a five-room house," said Charles Maswelili, 31, a mechanic's helper who has spent the past 13 years living in a variety of one-room shacks in Lusaska's John Howard squatter area.

"Food is dear these days and I don't earn so much money," Maswelili added, "but I have a loan and have already built two rooms out of concrete bricks."

While working-class African slum-dwellers from Nairobi to Lagos feel hopelessly trapped in overcrowded shantytowns of filth and poverty, Lusaka's squatters are optimistic about their future.

With no other accommodation available, rural Zambians who flocked to Lusaka in the 1960s for jobs and a better life drifted into the now-sprawling squatter compounds that encircle the city and built their own houses — many of them just one-room shanties made from scrap wood and metal scrounged from junked cars.

At first these unauthorized settlements were threatened by the government, which hoped to house the people in low-income projects. But by the early 1970s, with almost half of Lusaka's 400,000 residents living precariously insecure existences in squatter compounds, the government realized that even the most ambitious building program could never accommodate them all.

Ending their denunications of the squatters, who were unfairly blamed for Lusaka's soaring crime rate, the Zambian press and government finally noted that the squatters had not only built their own houses and landscaped their plots, but had also formed cooperative markets, credit unions, rudimentary schools and created some of the country's most democratic and responsive branches of the United National Independence Party, Zambia's only political party.

In the compounds, locally elected party leaders acted like traditional chiefs and, in the absence of any civil authorities, they solved disputes and enforced standards of building and behavior.

The years of official neglect however, had left the squatter compounds — hitherto considered merely temporary shelter — overcrowded and without any sanitation or clean drinking water. The incidence of disease, especially in children, was very high.

"We realized that it was much cheaper to give the people loans to improve the shanties they had already constructed themselves than to build new houses for them," said Richard Martin, deputy director of Lusaka's Housing Project Unit. "Titles to their plots and inceased basic services such as piped water was the only other inducement the squatters needed to upgrade their homes and neighborhoods and feel a real stake in the future," Martin added.

"Values are changing so fast in Lusaka that even the squatters consider the suburban way of life ideal," Martin said. "People spend their weekends puttering around, fixing up their houses and planting trees. Where the squatters were previously embarrassed to admit that they lived in places like Chawama and John Howard, now a new sense of community pride has emerged."

With a $20 million loan from the World Bank, the squatter compounds are also profiting from new roads, clinics and schools, all planned and some even built by the residents themselves.

UNICEF is helping to train 50 community development workers who will assist squatters in Lusaka and other Zambian towns to upgrade their neighborhoods. UNICEF is also supporting children's clinics in the compounds and nursery schools held in community centres built by the parents themselves.

What It's Like to be a 12-Year-Old Boy

By GARY LAUTENS

Many of us have, were, or know, a 12-year-old boy. In case you've forgotten what a 12-year-old boy is like, let me refresh your memory.

A 12-year-old boy doesn't like to eat the cereal that comes with the plastic rocket launcher.

A 12-year-old boy always has a friend whose mother lets him keep gerbils in a cardboard box in the basement.

A 12-year-old boy never wants to grow up and be an accountant.

A 12-year-old boy cannot read without putting his feet up on the back of the chesterfield.

A 12-year-old boy when asked why his teacher wants to see his mother or father replies, "Beats me."

A 12-year-old boy has feet that sweat a lot.

A 12-year-old boy can bruise your forehead, step on your foot, knock over an end table, and spill your coffee just while giving you a goodnight kiss.

A 12-year-old boy hates it when the Bionic man embraces a woman, or any of that other mush.

A 12-year-old boy always leaves just enough milk in the pitcher so somebody else has to get up and refill it.

A 12-year-old boy likes to look at himself in the mirror, and make faces, when he's sure nobody else is watching.

A 12-year-old boy will never walk along a sidewalk when there's a ledge handy.

A 12-year-old boy takes French because his parents say he has to.

Of Geese and Men

By PAUL ST. PIERRE
The Sun

KLEENA KLEENE — Mr. Gansemann was a goose who lived with Tex and Ingborg Hansen at Clearwater Lake. He came into this world, like all of us, not knowing what it was all about and left it having had some good times, some bad times and some puzzling. With geese as with humans, we never know what is in store for us. He did the best he could, given his particular personality.

His home since adolescence was the Hansen ranch.

Tex Hansen, who is now 73, had cowboyed for just about every ranch west the Fraser before taking up this place in his middle age and beginning to raise his own horses and cows.

At this time he also decided he should have a wife to go with it, but his life as a cowboy and sometime prize fighter had not provided him any clear idea about how you went about this. The sensible thing seemed to be advertising, and this he did.

* * *

Ingeborg Holm, a German war widow who had been for many years a dramatic soprano in the German Opera Company, saw his advertisement in Wilhelmshaven, began correspondence and in 1955 came over with her young son and married Tex.

After throwing his saddles out of the living room, breaking him of the habit of putting ketsup on his morning hotcakes and making a few other adjustments to him, she began learning to keep geese, chickens, horses and cows. She knew nothing of anything common or useful in the Chilcotin then, having lived all her life in Hamburg and other cities.

This brings us to Mr. Gansemann, the gander.

He proved a good family man, but his first wives were flighty. Ingeborg did everything for those females she could but they would sit the eggs for only a short time and then trot off to Clearwater Lake to swim, preen and leave the kids to look after themselves.

Mr. Gansemann got a more stable mate. She chose to nest on the woodpile and was carried away by a Bald Eagle before her husband's distracted gaze. He lamented terribly, but time will not turn back for tears.

When he had offspring, the Hansens gave two of them to Dr. Doug Van Der Meen, who lives nearby on One Eye Lake. One died. The other, which turned out to be another gander, became so ill-tempered that the doctor's patients became fearful and plaintive and the goose was sent back to the Hansen ranch.

Mr. Gansemann then had two wives, both setting. He would have nothing to do with his son. Neither would the wives.

The young gander began to follow Ingeborg around the yard like a dog. One day, when she paused in her long labors to sit and admire the morning light over Finger Mountain, the gander began picking up sticks and stones and laying them in a circle around her.

* * *

Then he went into a courting dance.

He courted this big, statuesque blonde lady all that summer. The other geese pretended they did not know him. It became clear that the kid was hopelessly mixed up and he went into the pot.

A baby crow named Mr. Jacob came to live but he flew away when he grew up and didn't come home for six years, at which time he came with babies. Mr. Jacob had been a girl.

Mr. Gansemann plugged along. He and his wives raised families, year by year, for the Hansens and never were discouraged when all their children became roasts and down comforters.

During nesting season, Mr. Gansemann spent almost all his hours beside the nests, chasing off all intruders. He allowed himself only a little time each morning to run up to the back door to let Ingeborg pat his head and feed him. He liked to talk to her, briefly, in the mornings.

A coyote or a fox snatched away one wife of a morning and Mr. Gansemann was a long time forgiving himself. He was glum, and picked at his food. The mourning period was hard for everybody on that place.

* * *

One night in autumn, when Mr. Gansemann was 13 years old, he did not come one evening when he was called. The Hansens looked for him by flashlight but could not find him in the dark.

Next morning, they found him sitting disconsolate in the swamp at the lake's edge.

Ingeborg picked him up. This was a familiarity he had never permitted her since he was a very young goose.

They brought him into the house but he said little and that night he died.

It had been, all in all, a fair life. Some of his wives had been flirty and one of his kids turned out goofy but he had gone on to the end. He made some friends and he had left some kind of a mark on his world. He is remembered.

Another gander has taken his place, but he is remembered.

Tex and Ingeborg, the cowboy and the opera star, have celebrated their 25th wedding anniversary in the aging brown log cabin beside the blue lake in the purple hills of Chilcotin. Life goes on.

VIA Formed to Operate Canada's Passenger Rail

Times News Services

VANCOUVER — The federal government has created a new Crown corporation to operate all passenger rail service in Canada, Transport Minister Otto Lang said Monday.

Lang said the new company, VIA Rail Canada Inc., "will contract with Canadian National and Canadian Pacific for the actual operation of trains on the property of either railway company."

Plans and budgets of the new corporations will be subject to government approval.

Lang said VIA will gradually take over CN and CP routes and operate as a subsidiary of CN.

The company will be run by a board of directors made up of representatives from CN, CP, the government, business and labor, said the minister, and aims to improve rail passenger service while reducing the levels of public subsidy.

"We have concluded that a single company is the most effective mechanism to manage rail passenger service," Lang said.

"Existing services will be brought progressively into the new organization and facilities consolidated to save management and overhead costs," he told a transportations conference at the University of British Columbia.

Lang said the government will decide "over the next year or so," which routes will be retained under the new company.

A company spokesman said there would likely be a reduction in the number of passenger trains "to remove duplication."

The transport minister said "the federal government will negotiate contracts with VIA over a period of time for the operation and management of railway passenger services on a route by route basis."

Jack Horner, progressive conservative transport critic and MP for Crowfoot, said in Ottawa the approach taken by Lan gis "letting CP. Rail off the hook completely in their statutory obligation to provide a passenger service for people across the country."

The VIA plan would leave both existing railways as all-freight operations.

The government is getting little in return, Horner said, and would have been wiser to set up a Crown corporation without the contracting system planned with CN and CP.

Les Benjamin, Ne wDemocratic Party transport critic and MP for Regina Lake Centre, said he is glad the new corporation will be publicly-owned.

Benjamin said $1 billion should be spent over the next two or three years on rail passenger service, but he is afraid the government will take the attitude that "we will get by with what we have."

National Debate Urged Soon on Energy Future

Strong

TORONTO (CP) — Maurice Strong, board chairman of Petro-Canada, has called for an immediate national debate on Canada's future energy uses.

He suggested the debate take the form of a public inquiry or commission similar to the commission on environmental and social impacts of the proposed Mackenzie Valley pipeline headed by Mr. Justice Thomas Berger.

Strong told the Toronto Board of Trade on Monday that such a debate must be begun swiftly.

"If we don't start now we face the very real prospect of a collapse of the world economy on a scale more devastating than the Great Depression of the 1930s."

He said all segments of Canadian society must be part of the energy debate because "we will be deciding on the very nature and future direction of our society as a whole."

Strong predicted the world's oil supply will be unable to meet energy demands between 1985 and 1995.

He said steps to conserve energy must be taken immediately, including moderating the use of heat and light intransit and increasing the efsulating homes, using mass ficiency of energy use.

He said Canadians are among the world's most wasteful energy users.

Strong also called for a concerted effort by government and industry to increase the availability of alternate sources such as solar, wind and biomass energy.

He said he supports the federal government's policy of gradually increasing the domestic price of crude oil by but warned that the government might have reduced Canadians' sense of urgency by cushioning the blow of large, immediate price increases.

Strong critized oil companies which, a hew years ago, said Canada had plenty of hydrocarbons for export and now say "that we must now decide qlickly on the pipelining of gas from the far North "or else."

He also said the business community has not used its capacity to help publicize the benefits of conservation.

A text of Strong's speech was released in advance of delivery.

Veterans Waiting

OTTAWA (CP) — Some veterans have been waiting as long as 18 months for accommodation in residential hospitals, a Progressive Conservative MP from Newfoundland said Monday.

Because of these delays, Jack Marshall asked Veterans Affairs Minister Dan MacDonald to halt temporarily the transfer of veterans hospitals to provincial control.

McDonald replied that all hospitals have long waiting lists and that veterans must wait like others.

MacDonald said initial steps of transferring the federally-controlled hospitals to provincial governments were successful.

Third World Comes First—MP

OTTAWA (CP) — Robert Muir said Monday the Liberal government is showing more concern for Third World countries than for his native Cape Bretoners.

"Do not talk to Cape Bretoners about the breakup of Canada because Canada shows more concern for the under-privileged in other parts of the world than it does for the human misery that has become part of their way of life," said Muir (PC—Cape Breton-The Sydneys).

He added that people in his area are losing their homes because jobless benefits are running out and costs are high.

He said people are starving in Canada and he criticized members of his own party who apparently are saying off the record that government proposals to amend the Unemployment Insurance Act — called callous and unfeeling by Muir — are acceptable.

He spoke during continuing Commons debate on a government bill which, among other things, would stretch to 12 weeks from eight the time a person must work before becoming eligible to collect unemployment insurance payments.

The government says the money saved will be used to fund job-producing programs. As the bill was debated Monday, it was announced that unemployment benefits last year totalled $3.362 billion, an increase of six per cent over the previous year.

Derek Blackburn (NDP—Brant) said the government and Conservatives are too concerned about alleged abuses of the unemployment insurance program and not enough about the fact that there are one million people in Canada out of work.

NWT Town Votes To Banish Booze

YELLOWKNIFE, N.W.T. (CP) — Lac La Martre is going dry while Snowdrift has decided not to ration alcohol.

Plebiscites were held in both Northwest Territories communities last Wednesday.

Lac la Martre joins Rae-Edzo, the only other N.W.T. community to have banned alcohol. Rae-Edzo's vote last summer made that community the first in decades to change its liquor status to dry.

In Lac la Martre, 76 air miles northwest of here, 72 of 98 eligible voters cast ballots. Fifty-seven of them were in favor of prohibiting the sale, transportation and possession of alcohol in and within a 15-mile radius of their community.

In Snowdrift, 125 air miles east of here, 62 of 124 eligible voters turned out. Thirty-two of them — 52 per cent — voted to ration alcohol but in order to prohibit or ration alcohol 60 per cent of the voters must favor the move.

Tom Lockhart, Snowdrift settlement secretary, said residents were aware of the plebicite but 21 per cent of the eligible voters were outside the community when the vote was held. Howereyer, he believes the vote was a fair indicator of what the people want and the results would have probably been the same had more voted.

Snowdrift residents were voting on whether to ration alcohol to a limit of one a month of each of the following or any combination of te followint up to three: a 25-ounce bottle of liquor, 12 bottles of beer, a 26-ounce bottle of wine.

Town to Pay Over Protest

CAMPBELLTON, N.B. (CP) — Mayor William Macrae of Campbellton said Monday city council has agreed to pay wages lost by 37 city employees who each received one-day suspensions for participating in the Oct. 14 day of protest.

"This decision is prompted by financial responsibility rather than good legal advice," the mayor said.

"As responsible legislative and civic administrators we do not feel we have a mandate to go on a crusade which would cost 15 to 20 times the amount settled for."

Adrian Charette, a representative of the Canadian Union of Public Employees local 76, said last week that the grievances over the suspensions would be referred to arbitration unless they were resolved by Monday.

The 37 employees have been without a contract since Dec. 31 because the grievances had not been resolved.

ONT. HIKING BOOZE COST

TORONTO (CP) — The prices of most brands of spirits and wines sold by the Liquor Control Board of Ontario will increase by about five per cent on April 1.

About 1,700 of the 2,250 listings of the LCBO, including most Canadian products and all imported spirits and wines, are affected.

"The increases in imported products are the result of higher prices charged to the LCBO by suppliers and carriers and fluctuations in exchange rates," the LCBO said.

$2 MILLION FINES SOUGHT IN FIXES

TORONTO (CP) — Fines totalling $2 million were proposed by a Crown Attorney Monday as a penalty against three companies found guilty of conspiring to lessen competition in the sale of light bulbs between 1959 and 1967.

Prosecutor Edgar Sexton called for a fine of $1 million against Canadian General Electric Co. Ltd. on grounds the firm had a similar conviction before and had been shown to be the leader in the introduction of a national sales plan eventually followed by Westinghouse Canada Ltd. and GTE Sylvania Canada Ltd.

Sexton said Westinghouse should be fined $600,000 and Sylvania $400,000.

The companies were convicted last September under the Combines Investigation Act that now calls for a maximum penalty of five years' imprisonment for company officials and a maximum fine of $1 million.

At the time of the offences the act provided for an unspecified fine set by the judge.

Sexton said light bulbs sales of the three firms rose to $42.3 million from $26.7 million over six years. The market shares held by the companies remained fairly steady at about 45 per cent for CGE, 27 per cent for Westinghouse and 23 per cent for Sylbania.

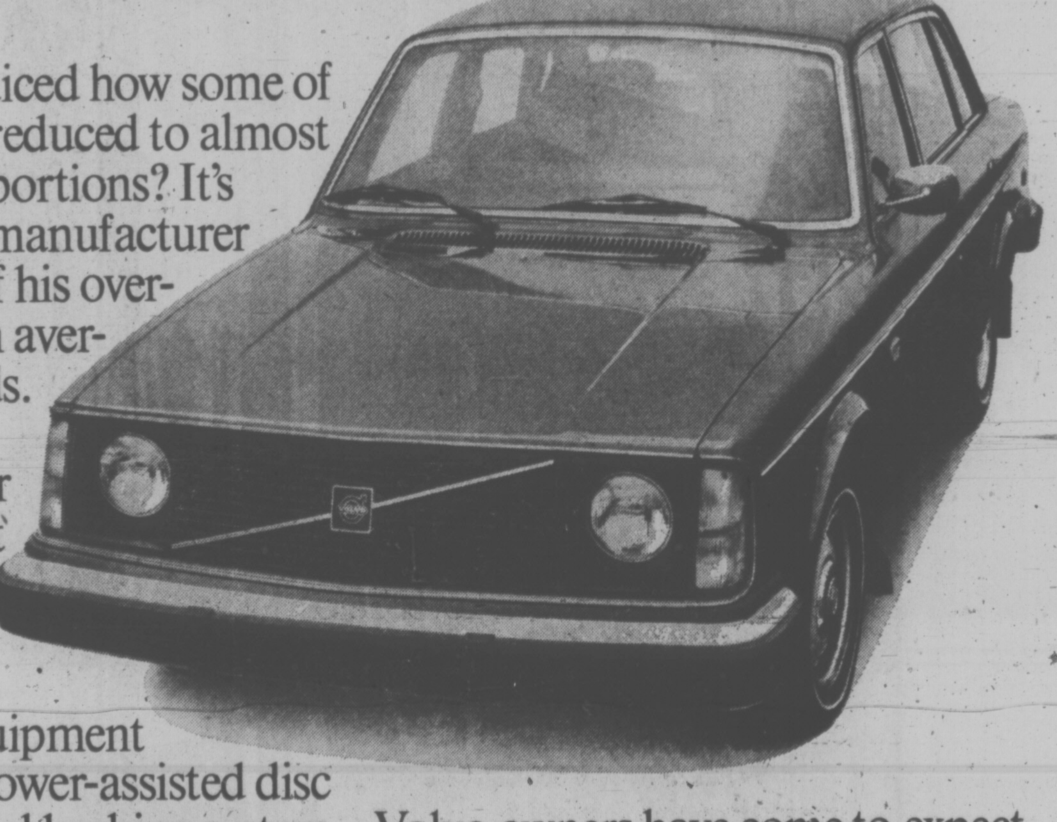
BIG CARS ARE COMING DOWN TO VOLVO'S SIZE...NOT UP TO VOLVO'S STANDARDS.



Have you noticed how some of the fat cars have reduced to almost Volvo-esque proportions? It's true. One major manufacturer has cut the size of his over-size models by an average of 700 pounds. But try as they might to copy our lines, they haven't managed to duplicate our features.

Standard equipment like four-wheel power-assisted disc brakes. And a dual braking system in which each circuit operates on three—not two—wheels. Plus orthopedically-designed bucket seats. And a 12-outlet heating/ventilation system. They're on every Volvo we sell or lease. But they're absent from Detroit's slimmed-down models.

Then there are the little things Volvo owners have come to expect which other car buyers expect to pay extra for.

Like a heated driver's seat. Steel-belted whitewall radial tires. And tinted glass all around.

All of which suggests it doesn't make much sense to buy a sensible-size car unless there's a Volvo inside it. See us for both. © 1977 VOLVO CANADA LTD.

Gypsy Jury Starts Deliberations

Crown and defence lawyers gave their addresses to the jury Monday in the B.C. Supreme Court murder trial in Victoria of 30-year-old John Edward Aitken.

The assize jury of eight men and four women was to begin its deliberations today after being addressed by Mr. Justice Harry McKay.

Aitken, a beer parlor waiter, is accused of first-degree murder by causing the death of Marie Alice Monique Nardelli (Gypsy) Dhillon, 30, while committing rape.

The mother of three was found, beaten and strangled, on a grassy slope between Anson Crescent and the beach at Macaulay Point in Esquimalt on Sept. 9.

Crown counsel J. W. Anderson, who was assisted by Armand Petronio, told the jury the prosecution had presented what in law was described as a circumstantial case.

This was not entirely unlike a jigsaw puzzle, he said, but it was for the jury to decide if the pieces fitted together.

He said the prosecution had presented "certain pieces of evidence" from which it believed the jury was entitled and justified in drawing certain inferences.

He added that proof beyond a reasonable doubt (a requirement in a criminal case) "is not proof beyond perfection."

As evidence of rape, he mentioned her missing panties, which were never found; that Mrs. Dhillon was the subject of a "savage beating" around the time of death, which was consistent with lack of consent; external and internal injuries in the vaginal area; and presence of blood in the vagina was not consistent with intercourse with her husband a day earlier and the spermatozoa and blood were attributable to sex after that she had with her husband.

Anderson also said she wasn't a virgin or menstruating.

He said blood was found in 11 locations in Aitken's motorhome and one location contained blood of a type consistent with Mrs. Dhillon's and that found on her dress, and that such a blood type occurred in approximately nine of every 1,000 persons.

He said scalp and pubic hair "similar" to Mrs. Dhillon's was found in the motorhome, as was a broken fingernail with the same type of polish as that worn by Mrs. Dhillon.

Because of her high blood alcohol content, bordering intoxication, she was probably capable of only a limited response to her attacker.

He said Aitken was the last person seen alive with Mrs. Dhillon, she was "clearly" in the motorhome, and the Anson Crescent area wasn't widely known to the general public "but it is to scuba divers, of which group the accused is one."

The area also was "not far" from the Halfway House beer parlor, where both were seen in the evening of Sept. 8, and 707 Esquimalt Road, where Aitken lived, he said.

Mrs. Dhillon's bluejean jacket was not with her when she went to her apartment with Aitken to change, and was not found in her apartment later.

But that jacket, or a similar jacket, was found under her body off Anson Crescent.

Anderson said expert witnesses had said a plaster half-cast and bandage worn by Aitken because of a previous work injury were suitable to cause the strangulation, asphyxiation and death of Mrs. Dhillon.

He said Aitken "clearly" changed his shirt during the evening.

As to Aitken and his wife going to Mexico for a vacation after the death, he said there was "no significance" to this because apparently the trip had been planned for some time.

And as to questions about the time of death, he said the experts said they didn't have much detail to work with.

Defence counsel Gordon MacDonald, who was assited by Lyman Robinson, said it was impossible for Aitken to do all the Crown alleged in the time Anderson spoke to the jury (about half an hour).

He said Aitken and Mrs. Dhillon left her apartment at approximately 9.30 p.m. after she changed from blue jeans to a dress, according to the testimony of her room-mate, Theresa Vickson.

Said MacDonald: "9:30 p.m. is when the clock starts, as far as this case is concerned." After that, she was not seen alive again.

But Aitken was back at the Halfway House "about 10 o'clock" and picked his wife up from work at 10:15 p.m., spending the rest of the evening, that night and the following morning at home.

He said Aitken didn't have time, between 9:30 and 10 p.m., to drive Mrs. Dhillon from her home on Dowler Place to Anson Crescent, murder her while committing rape, change his shirt and return to the Halfway House.

As for the time of death, he recalled one expert witness who said rigor mortis would be complete in nine hours.

Yet, Esquimalt police Sgt. Doug Sproxton said at 11:25 a.m. Sept. 9 when he was at the scene, rigor mortis was starting to set in, said MacDonald.

Taking this back nine hours produced 2:30 a.m., so that at 2 a.m. Mrs. Dhillon was still alive.

"That does not fit with the Crown case," he said.

MacDonald said the burden of proof upon the Crown was to put together a jigsaw of guilt beyond a resonable doubt and inconsistent with any other rational explanation.

Although the Crown mentioned 11 bloodstains in Aitken's motorhome, he said, a number were of an insignificant amount and only one was of blood of a type Mrs. Dhillon had.

He said the amount found might be consistent with backhanding a hitch-hiker (an explanation Aitken gave his wife) but, MacDonald said, Mrs. Dhillon's dress was "covered in blood ... a bloody mess."

He noted that this bloodstain was found close to the engine and that an expert witness said one of the studies she relied on indicated mistyping of blood could occur owing to heat.

MacDonald said there was no evidence Aitken had any scratches or injuries other than the previous work injury to his hand, and no blood was found on the bandage or cast.

As to the testimony that Mrs. Dhillon's blood combination was found in nine of every 1,000 persons, MacDonald submitted that her statistics were not valid and she was outside her expertise, which was identification of blood types, not statistics.

He suggested the jury should ignore this "completely," but even if it was accepted, the expert witness indicated at least 2,000 people in Greater Victoria would have such a blood combination, and she couldn't disagree with a suggestion that 50,000 might have it.

He said there was nothing to indicate a broken fingernail found in the motorhome had "any significance whatever."

The expert witness couldn't physically match the broken nail with any of the 10 fingernails taken from Mrs. Dhillon's hands at the autopsy.

The jury had been told the broken nail had orange-colored polish, but MacDonald asked the jury to look at color photos of the dead woman and he suggested those nails were "not remotely orange."

He said the most one expert could say was that some hair samples from the motorhome were "similar" to Mrs. Dhillon's, but not matching.

MacDonald said it didn't make sense to have willing or unwilling sex in the front passenger bucket seat of the motorhome when there was a bed in the back, but nothing was found by investigators in the bed area.

He suggested Aitken showed "an innocent mind" by going first to Sproxton to tell him of his planned vacation in Mexico, then going and returning, with police knowledge.

Aitken had given an explanation to his wife at the time that he drove Mrs. Dhillon to her apartment so she could change to go out for the evening, then dropped her off downtown, returning to the Halfway House.

"My submission to you is that the Crown's case does not stand up. There is a reasonable doubt here," MacDonald said.

BEFORE THE JUDGE

The charge was read to McDonald by a justice of the peace Saturday in connection with a Friday night incident at the Quintro Manor Apartments, 3800 Quadra, during which 33-year-old Al Laukanen, of suite 103, was wounded in the abdomen by a .303 rifle shot.

McDonald, whose eyes were mostly shut or focused on the ceiling during his brief appearance in court, twice turned down offers by Judge Fred Green for legal counsel.

"I'm not guilty of that charge," McDonald said after clerk Tony Gobbett read it.

Green accepted Crown counsel Robert Mulligan's motion for a one-day remand so that a psychiatrist could examine McDonald at Wilkinson Road jail, where he is being held.

★ ★ ★

Larry Stuart Ross, 26, of 921 Rankin, Esquimalt, was remanded until today on a charge of possession of cocaine for the purpose of trafficking.

Crown counsel Fleming Hansen applied for the one-day remand because Esquimalt police are still investigating the case following the Sunday arrest.

A 20-year-old Nanaimo resident was sentenced to 21 days in jail after pleading guilty Feb. 16 to three counts of possession of stolen property.

Green, who ordered a pre-sentence report for William Raymond Cook, said he took into consideration the three months Cook had spent in jail since the charges were laid Nov. 25, 1976.

Court was told Cook was checked by Port Alberni RCMP and found with a knife, clock, calculator and prescription pad taken in break-ins in Greater Victoria.

A charge of possession of a dangerous weapon was stayed after 53-year-old Arthur Kenneth Fisher, of 323 Michigan Street, pleaded guilty to assault causing bodily harm.

Mulligan told the court Fisher was refused service shortly before 1 a.m. Feb. 5 at the Bastion Inn beer parlor, 1140 Government, because of his intoxicated condition. During the ensuing argument, court was told, Cook stabbed waiter George Brooks on the right side of the abdomen with a small knife.

A criminal record dating back to February, 1947, was alleged by Mulligan, and Green remanded Fisher until March 24 for a pre-sentence report.

Drivers fined for drinking-driving offences were: Joseph Steven Kuper, 20, of Sooke, $400; and Brian William Dunsmuir, 30, of 3353 Wascana, $100.

McALLISTER
. . . they're coming out of their shells

Social centres are doing a great job but many senior citizens need economic independence so they will be in a position to choose a lifestyle of their own

Wanted: Choice For the Elderly

James Bay New Horizons Centre . . . 1,000 members and still growing

By

Paul Nicholson

(Second of two parts)

Senior citizens are people too.

They deserve a better fate than being ignored by today's youth-oriented society.

And there are people out there making the effort to wheedle senior citizens out of their lonely rooms and into the mainstream of life.

Projects involving New Horizons, Silver Threads, church groups and community associations are beginning to convince governments and young folk that seniors deserve more in their declining years.

The worst thing that can be done, however, is to lump the elderly together, says Mary Pankowski, project co-ordinator and executive secretary of the James Bay New Horizons project.

"They're just people. There's as much variety as any other group."

Opposition leader Dave Barrett, a former social worker, agrees.

He says too much attention is focussed on organizations and services grouping seniors together when what they need is economic independence freeing them to make a choice.

Barrett says pensioners may indeed choose senior citizen groups, but they need access to a range of options.

Retired social worker and educator Clare McAllister says more of the lonely old are being brought out of their shells, but she cautions the overly exuberant against prying into their lives.

Some older people have no interest in an active social life, she says, and are utterly content being left alone at home with their books or music.

One such senior interviewed by the Times is Stanley Morisse, 79, who lives alone in a bachelor apartment in Fairfield.

A retired tailor, Morisse is a Greek who grew up in Turkey. He is fluent in five languages and can "get along with a few others."

He is a confirmed communist and has written a lengthy memoir ranging from his view of the Turkish rule before the First World War through his conversion to communism and his fights as a labor organizer in the garment district of Hamilton, Ont.

He reads the Greek scholars in the classic original language and likes to compare parts he has translated to English with those by university-educated translators. (He feels he translates in a much more readable manner without losing the poetry.)

But Morisse has little companionship in the pursuit of his intellectual hobbies.

He visits a few friends, goes to see a relative in Vancouver occasionally and has worked as a volunteer interpreter with the Greek Centre Society, but admits he misses the intellectual stimulus.

He feels the intellectuals in town don't want an outsider.

When asked if he would consider joining an old age pensioners' group, he shrugs and says: "What would I do there?"

And yet, such activities are so important to others. The growth of the James Bay New Horizons centre stands as vivid testimony for the need for social centres for senior citizens.

The group began organizing in 1973, and recently moved into its permanent centre on Menzies at Superior.

Membership has climbed to 1,000 — fully 25 per cent of all seniors in the area.

New members are brought in by friends, relatives, people living in the same apartment complex and often the lonely with little social contact are encouraged to join by the public health nurses — one of the most important sources for reaching the lonely, co-ordinator Mrs. Pankowski says.

"Those she brings us usually come back," but she admits there are a number who refuse even the urgings of the nurse.

Many have never really had a chance to enjoy life, he says. They worked long hours at hard jobs, and now they are retired, they are too poor to enjoy themselves.

Since the breakdown of the extended family (three generations in the one home) to the so-called "liberated" nuclear family, the vast human potential of the elderly is not being utilized, Barrett says.

He sees seniors doing research for universities, consulting for any number of projects or aiding social agencies, (Big Brothers works, why not Big Grandfathers?).

Why can't they work in areas that need so much more help such as with young people having difficulty fitting into the school system or with native Indians?

This particular generation also lives in dread of "charity," says Mrs. McAllister the retired social worker. Many have to summon up courage to take advantage of price reductions for seniors such as the bus pass system.

As age takes its toll another fear arises. What if partial or full care is needed?

Mrs. McAllister says boarding homes with partial care are the answer for a lot of disabled elderly, but there just aren't beds available.

Extended care facilities, too, should be nearby.

Human Resources Minister Bill Vander Zalm "with his black snake whip" has the wrong attitude, Mrs. McAllister says.

If he changed his policies he could save money in the long run, she feels.

Funds received by low income groups are quickly returned to the economy because they have to spend every cent to survive.

A renewed interest in the elderly by the young is also helping — even in little ways. Mrs. McAllister sees a marked change from the cold stares she received in the streets a few years ago to cheerful smiles from today's youngsters.

At the New Horizons centre, Mrs. Pankowski says one of the most important aspects of the projects is that the participants are asked to use their skills.

She says relocation is also a problem until the person has put down roots. Once the person is asked to use his former experiences, it gives him a feeling of belonging.

"People are now saying James Bay is home, and that's a good attitude."

Mrs. McAllister agrees. In one of several booklets she has written about problems of the elderly for the University of B.C. Centre for Continuing Education she writes:

"Above all sovereign remedies for a bitter sense of loneliness is the finding of some other person who needs the love and useful service of the person feeling keen bereavement."

Escort someone to a function, she suggests, it is much less painful for the shy or unsure; share transport; make the invitation relaxed and casual, talk of your own pleasure with the group and emphasize that the person is wanted along to increase everyone's pleasure.

But if you don't succeed in bringing someone into your group, Mrs. McAllister writes, maintain your social contact with the person.

The human is a social being and even the occasional telephone call may be meaningful.

TOWN TALK

While seeking information on international rail travel we called a Zenith number to talk to Amtrak, the government-sponsored U.S. organization to "get people back on trains."

We wanted to know how far south a traveller could go by rail from B.C. The man said as far as Ciudad Hidalgo, Mex.

According to Thomas Cook Ltd., which has been in the travel business about 130 years, you can get mid-way through Guatemala without leaving the rails, and we think we'll buy that.

After all, can you trust Amtrak when a recorded voice tells you everybody's busy, but don't hang up because "this announcement will be followed by a brief period of recorded music," which turned out to be 30 seconds of dead air?

Stanger, manager of the Quintro Manor Apartments, 3800 Quadra, was in his suite when his next-door neighbor, Barbara Kaukanen, rushed in to say someone had just shot her husband, Al, 33, and that the three-year-old daughter Laura was still inside the room with the gunman.

Stanger ran to the apartment, kicked open the door, and saw Kaukanen lying on the floor bleeding from a chest and arm wound.

A man with a rifle was standing nearby and Laura was leaning over her stricken father crying.

Stanger grabbed the girl and shielding her body ran to his apartment where he called an ambulance and police.

He then went outside and was trying to enter the Kaukanen apartment through a window when help arrived. A suspect was charged later.

Is there some unwritten rule that says university lectures have to have titles incomprehensible to us plain folks?

What fisherman or gardener for example (and that takes in most Victorians) would turn up to an open biology lecture being given Friday at UVic with the title, "Inerspecific interactions in aquatic oligochaeta and their associated microflora."

On the other hand they might be quite interested in the subject according to the appended translation — "or why worms clump."

A few truck drivers were taken aback in Seattle Monday when a woman waved them down and offered free daffodils.

They broke out into smiles, however, when the woman explained she was B.C.'s Provincial Secretary Grace McCarthy and she sure would like them to come up to Victoria some time.

Amazing Grace also handed out daffs to taxi drivers and bus passengers as part of a three-day tourist promotion sponsored by Victoria Chamber of Commerce.

But the surprise hit of the visit was a spontaneous highland fling danced on the stage of the Eames Theatre at Seattle Centre Monday afternoon. The dancer was Mayor Mike Young. It was such a hit he repeated the performance at an evening show.

Shakespeare's "sea of troubles" seems to be engulfing Victoria Symphony Society at the moment but not all the difficulties are internal — nor insoluble.

Recently guest voilinist Igor Oistrakh cancelled his entire Western Canada tour which included the next pair of Victoria Symphony concerts.

But symphony management worked fast along with other orchestras involved to obtain violinist Albert Markov as a replacement.

Another outstanding Russian, Markov was first prize winner in the Montreal International Competition for violinists. He will play the Beethoven D Major Concerto on March 13 and 14.

Ottawa has a new assistant deputy minister of consumer and corporate affairs, Hugh Bardon, who graduated as a chartered accountant in Victoria in 1957.

He joined the department of national revenue in 1958 and became a leading authority on tax reform before moving to consumer and corporate affairs in 1973. His appointment is effective April 1.

First Test Of H-Bomb Recalled

A ceremony recalling the first hydrogen bomb test was held in Centennial Square at noon today by the Pacific Life Community.

It was on March 1, 1953, that the 15-megaton bomb was detonated on Bikini Atoll in the South Pacific.

The Pacific Life group marched around Victoria singing and performing brief dramas illustrating the plight of H-bomb victims.

The purpose of the ceremony is to remind people of the suffering that arose from the test that displaced the island's entire population, and to support the growing movement towards independence from U.S. control among the Pacific Rim people, a spokesman for the group said.

City Ready To Sell Off Surplus Land

By PAUL MOSS
Times Staff

Or how about a regular-size lot to build your dream home?

Then watch for the ads as the city of Victoria hits the property market in a big way this year, disposing of numerous pieces of land which are not needed for parks, road widening or other community purposes.

For the first time today, city aldermen were presented with a comprehensive inventory of all the city's land holdings accumulated over more than a century.

Ald. Bob Wright, who tabled the report this morning with the land-use planning and zoning committee, said it had taken several months to prepare by city land commissioner Ken Wilkins.

Included in the list, Wright said, are several parcels which the city doesn't need now and is not likely to need in the future.

Some are as small as one foot in width, which Wright recommends should be offered for sale to adjacent property owners interested in consolidation.

Other larger parcels of land could be offered for sale to the highest bidder, with the funds used to replenish the city's land sales fund.

(After recent acquisitions the fund is now all but depleted).

As some of the bigger pieces of land are still below the allowable minimum size for single-family housing, Wright suggests council consider reducing its minimum lot size restrictions in such cases.

Where waterfront property is offered for sale, the city should require a 20-foot-wide easement above the registered high-water mark for public access, in keeping with established policy on rezoning applications and land-use contracts.

The committee referred the report to the land management committee for further study and implementation.

Sidney to Pay for Growing Up

Sidney will have to pay for its own police services after April 1.

Council got the word Monday in a letter from Attorney-General Garde Gardom.

Gardom said because the town's population now exceeds 5,000 (it was 6,000 in the 1976 census) it will have to provide its own policing.

It can either retain the RCMP on a contract basis which, according to town clerk Geoff Logan, the majority of aldermen seem to favor, or it can establish its own municipal force.

Up to now the RCMP have carried out policing in the town, with the costs paid entirely by the province.

Logan, in an inerview today, said he has no idea what cost will have to be borne by the Sidney taxpayers but warned they would be "fairly substantial."

He estimated annual police costs at between $150,000 to $200,000.

He said the province is considering giving some assistance but details of the subsidy proposal have not been worked out.

"Until we know how much assistance we're going to get we won't be able to say what effect this will have on the mill rate," he said.

He said he expects council will be faced with the propect of either having to cut other services or increase taxes to pay for the police service.

"It's too early to say what will happen . . . . everything is up in the air right now."

"We knew we'd be faced with this issue sooner or later," Logan said.

He said he made tentative inquiries to the attorney-general's ministry early last fall and was told the town would be given lots of notice about the change in responsiblity.

However, he said the only official notice he got was the Feb. 23 letter from Gardom in which the minister said the change could be effective April 1.

Last December, Mayor Dick Leigh campaigned for retention of the RCMP, a view shared apparently by the majority on council.

Logan said he hopes to schedule meetings between the RCMP and council sometime later this week to discuss what a contract would entail and the cost.

If an arrangement has not been completed by April 1, RCMP will continue carrying out policing in the town, as in the past.

March 19 Vote On Sooke Parks

Ratepayers in Sooke will vote March 19 on a regional board proposal which would make purchase of parkland more feasible without raising taxes.

Sooke director Charles Perkins said today the current levy for parks and recreation is a half-mill for each for a total of one mill.

Perkins said that if the change is approved by voters, the board would be given borrowing power against the one-half mill for parks, meaning it could borrow up to about $160,000 for buying land, to be repaid from the same half-mill levy.

At present the board has only the $19,000 or so each year available for such land purchase and it's not enough to do much, he said.

Young to Run Again

Members of Victoria city council are apparently pleased with Mayor Mike Young's announcement Monday that he will definitely seek re-election next November.

His statement was warmly welcomed, even by several aldermen who had admitted they would be candidates for mayor if Young decided to step down.

One of them, Ald. Murray Glazier, said today: "Council was showing signs of getting a bit raggedy, with some aspirations showing.

"I am personally very pleased and I hope that council will now settle down, anticipating another two years of his leadership."

Although he intends to offer himself for another term Young said he will retire from municipal politics in 1979.

At that time, Glazier said, he will run for mayor.

Similar comments concerning 1979 mayoralty aspirations came from the constantly-feuding pair, Ald. Bob Wright and Ald. Ron Mckenzie, who both expressed satisfaction with Young's decision.

If Young had departed this year, McKenzie said he definitely would have run against Wright "to save the city from him."

Under a new biennial election system, all nine city council seats will become vacant this November.

Mexico Forecasts Oil Bonanza

The formerly reticent men who run the state oil monopoly, Pemex, now are publicly saying Mexico has enough oil to rival Middle East oil producers.

Jorge Diaz Serrano, director-general of Pemex, unexpectedly outlined the golden future at a luncheon last month.

"As for how much crude oil and natural gas are going to be produced in Mexico before their total extinction—that is, how big Mexico's total hydrocarbon reserves are—we estimate, and believe, the figure is far bigger than the 60 billion barrels recently mentioned by the international press," he said.

He compared that figure with world reserves of 700 billion barrels—of which the 13 members of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries (OPEC) have about two-thirds.

"On current knowledge, when the world has hydrocarbon problems, Mexico will be one of the privileged countries which has hydrocarbons in greater abundance and for longer than the rest."

Mexican oil will be fairly cheap to produce for the foreseeable future. Industry sources said it cost about $2 a barrel to produce, but it now sells overseas at $12.65.

Until last December estimates of proven reserves in Mexico were static at 6.3 billion barrels. Then, Pemex put its figure for proven reserves up to 11 billion.

But Diaz said 60 billion barrels is a minimum figure as "the grand total of the commodity which the country will have until it is used up, under future economic and technological conditions.

Albertans Form Separate Party

CALGARY (CP) — Albertans may have a home-grown political party to consider during the next provincial elections.

At a meeting in Calgary on Monday, members of the Independent Alberta Association voted to form a political party to be called the Western National Association (WNA) to field candidates in the next provincial election.

About 30 association members accepted a committee report recommending formation of the new party, the goal of which is that "no government shall be permitted to govern Western Canada unless its powers are limited by a written cosstitution approved by 75 per cent of all Western Canadians."

Doug Low of Edmonton, committee chairman and president of the new party, said the WNA would seek Alberta's independence from Canada only as a last resort.

"The West has been effectively disenfranchised under the guise of representation by population," Low told the meeting.

He said the WNA will seek solutions to the problems that cause western alienation.

Low also said his committee recommended entering politics at the provincial rather than federal level to avoid dealing with pressures from the Eastern Canadian establishment.

Later in the meeting, members voted to keep the association alive as an independent research group.

WNA executive member Tim Davis of Calgary said the present Canadian political system "treats us (the West) like a colony of the old British empire."

Despite objections from some of those at the meeting, Davis defended the committee's recommendation that Western Canada be governed by a U.S.-style political structure headed by the British monarchy.

But he added that Western Canadian independence "is only the last resort as far as all of us are concerned."

Salvador Under Siege

SAN SALVADOR (AP) — El Salvador, Central America's smallest country, was under a state of seige today after troops and police routed thousands of demonstrators demanding a new presidential election.

Authorities said at least five persons were killed and 78 wounded.

President Arturo Armando Molina's right-wing government said a special session of the national legislature approved the government's proclamation of the state of siege late Monday after a week of demonstrations in San Salvador, the capital.

Some individual rights were suspended, and persons accused of espionage, subversion and rebellion will be subject to military trial, the broadcast said.

The government said its candidate, Gen. Carlos Humberto Romero of the National Conciliation party, won by 812,281 votes to 394,661 and denied the fraud charges.

Troops and police using machine-guns, automatic rifles, tear gas and water jets cleared the plaza early Monday.

Toronto Prices Slightly Higher

TORONTO (CP) — The Toronto stock market was moderately higher in light mid-afternoon trading Tuesday.

Volume of trading by 2 p.m. totalled 1.23 million shares compared with 1.24 million at the same time Monday.

Among industrials, General Motors gained 1 to $74½, Husky Oil ⅝ to $23¼, Massey-Ferguson ¾ to $20¾, Inco A ½ to $32½ and Canadian Tire A ½ to $37.

Steetley Industries dropped ½ to $9, Hudson's Bay Co. ⅜ to $15⅞, Consolidated Building 13 cents to $2.52, S.B. McLaughlin Associates ⅜ to $5⅛ and Pancana Industries five cents to 95 cents.

Patino N.V. was up ¾ to $16¼, International Mogul Mines A ⅜ to $11¾ and Brunswick Mining and Smelting ¼ to $5⅝. Agnico-Eagle Mines fell ½ to $5⅝ and Camflo ⅜ to $11⅞.

Asamera Oil rose ¾ to $10¾, Canada Northwest Land ¼ to $7¼ and Merland Exploration 10 cents to $4.00. Quasar Petroleum was down ¼ to $6⅛ and Numac Oil and Gas ¼ to $13.

New York

An exchange spokesman said the fire was minor, but the trading floor had to be evacuated because of smoke.

The halt occurred at 10:24 a.m., and it was not immediately known how long trading would be suspended.

Gainers outnumbered losers 5-to-3 among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Some analysts saw an early upward swing, following through on Monday's late rally, as a result of internal market forces.

"Inflation has been weighing on it for a long time, and the inflation story is beginning to wear a little thin," said John Smith of Fahnestock and Co.

However, he said, brokers were still uneasy over a $69.8 billion federal budget deficit as approved by House-Senate conferees. Sony Corp. topped the active list, down ⅛ to $9½.

On the American Stock Exchange, International Banknote fell ⅛ to 73¼.

Montreal

MONTREAL (CP) — Prices continued to move broadly higher in light to moderate afternoon trading on the Montreal Stock Exchange Tuesday.

IU International Corp. was up ¼ at $13, Royal Bank ⅜ at $24½, Canadian Pacific Ltd. ⅛ at $17, Bell Canada ¼ at $49⅛. Imperial Oil A ¼ at $22¼ and Bank of Nova Scotia ¼ at $20¼. Bank of Montreal fell ⅛ at $14⅜.

London

LONDON (CP) — Prices dipped slightly in light trading on the London stock market today. The Financial Times index was down .03 to 410.4 by the close of trading. Leading equities recorded sharp gains, while gold issues were easier. Canadian stocks moved lower in light trading.

Continental Can Cans Can for Group Name

TORONTO (CP) — Continental Can Co. of Canada Ltd. has decided to change its name after 40 years to the Continental Group of Canada Ltd.

N. C. Darrach, president, said today the new name will better reflect the company's diversified operations.

Since 1959, the company has been diversifying so that it now has heavy investments in paper products, packaging and the automotive field.

For example, its automotive parts division operates plants in Brampton and Amherstburg, both in Ontario, and in Montreal.

In all, the Continental Group operates 25 plants in Canada, employing about 5,000 people.

CHICAGO (AP) — Grain futures were generally firm on the Board of Trade today.

Wheat futures, which fell nearly 17 cents a bushel in heavy, late liquidation the previous session, were up more than eight cents. Some of the demand in the wheat pit was set off by reports of damage to the winter wheat crop in the Southwest by last week's strong winds.

The May wheat option made the biggest decline the previous session and was the most attractive to buyers today. Pit sources said spreaders were drawing the option more into line with other months.

As wheat attracted speculative demand, soybean futures turned firm after a mixed opening. There was a gain of about five cents a bushel that later was trimmed under profit-taking. Meal and oil futures, however, showed only small gains.

A government report on export inspections was considered constructive on soybeans and corn but somewhat bearish on wheat.

Corn and oats trade was very slow and relatively light, compared to the other major pits. Prices generally moved in the direction of wheat, however.

Crestbrook

Crestbrook Forest Industries Ltd. reports an unaudited net profit of $1.6 million or 16 cents a share for 1976, compared to a net loss of $1.9 million or $2.47 a share in the previous year.

Last year's earnings included a $704,000 item representing a reduction in income tax by application of previous years' losses. The company's sales were $60.8 million in 1976, up from $44.6 million the previous year.

CITY OF VICTORIA

NOTICE TO RESIDENTS OF JAMES BAY

The City is currently undertaking a study of the James Bay area to determine the adequacy of the water distribution system. Over the next three weeks flow tests will be undertaken which may result in the temporary but harmless discolouration of water. Such discolouration should clear if the tap is left to run for a short period. Consumers to whom the colour of the water is of vital importance (such as a laundry) will be notified in advance of operations in his vicinity if a request for such notification is received at the office of the undersigned, City Hall, Victoria, B.C., 385-5711, local 266.

J. D. Sansom, P. Eng.,
City Engineer and
Water Commissioner.

More Favorable Taxes Sought by Mine Firms

VANCOUVER (CP) — J. Harvey Parliament, the new president of the B.C. Mining Association, says the association will attempt to get more favorable tax treatment from governments.

Parliament told the association's annual luncheon that the present Social Credit governmentt in B.C. has put the province on a businesslike basis and removed the destructive royalty system imposed by the former New Democratic Party administration.

The president of Newmont Mines Ltd., which owns Granduc Operating Co. and Similkameen Mining Co., said that until a year ago relations with the provincial government existed in an "atmosphere of confrontation."

He said the differences with government still exist over the level of taxation and the association believes in co-operation — not confrontation — in developing mineral potential.

Parliament said mineral production is important to the B.C. economy, but the industry needs stability and confidence in government to attract the large capital sums needed to finance new mines.

He said the main factors holding back mining now in the province are high capital and operating costs combined with the low price of copper.

The capital cost of placing a mine in operation has doubled in the last five years, he said, and operating costs, despite increases in efficiency, have increased at about the same rate.

CHARGEX CARD CHANGES NAME

TORONTO (CP) — The Chargex credit card system, the Canadian division of an international bank card network, will soon have the additional word Visa appearing on its cards.

Sponsors of the system said the name Visa was chosen for its standard pronunciation in most parts of the world, in order to provide international identification for card holders.

Twenty-two countries participate in the international network and use a variety of names, such as Chargex in Canada.

All are expected to have the word Visa included on the blue, white and gold cards by October.

Sponsors of the plan in Canada are Banque Canadienne Nationale, Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce, Bank of Nova Scotia, Royal Bank of Canada and Toronto Dominion Bank.

Provincial Banks Expands to Paris

MONTREAL (CP) — Provincial Bank of Canada, a Quebec-based chartered bank, has confirmed it has completed negotiations to buy a 20 per cent share in Paris-based Banque de l'Union Occidentale from the Banque Worms Group.

Details will not be available until the transaction is approved by French monetary authorities, a Provincial Bank spokesman said.

But Provincial's international vice-president said the money involved is not great because the Paris bank is a small one with assets of about 700 million francs or $150 million.

"What is important is the relation with Worms, which has assets of roughly $3 billion," Gilles Mercure said.

He said that because of the Worms Group's traditional involvement in merchant banking, "the leverage of assets is different from that of a Canadian bank where operations are about half in commercial and half in retail banking. Compared with a Canadian bank, you can double its assets because it is all commercial."

The Banque Worms Group owns 74.3 per cent of Banque de l'Union Occidentale and will still have a majority share after the deal. The group is involved in banking, insurance, metallurgy and maritime transportation.

TAX TIPS '77

The following income tax tips are provided by Revenue Canada. Readers wishing additional information may contact the Victoria office of Revenue Canada by going to 1415 Vancouver Street or by phoning 386-2176.

Q. I operate a restaurant and buy fish directly from the fisherman. Am I required to deduct and remit Unemployment Insurance premiums on his behalf?

A. A fisherman is not insurable for any sale of fish he sells directly to restaurants. Therefore, no employee and employer premiums are required.

Q. How do you determine the earnings from which the fish buyer will establish the insurable earnings of a captain-owner for purposes of calculating his Unemployment Insurance premiums?

A. The earnings of the fisherman who owns the boat or gear used in making the catch and who is a member of the crew, is for any week considered to be the greater of:

(1) Gross returns of the catch

(B) 25 percent of gross catch or

(2) $50.

Q. On occasion, fish are bought from boats where boat expenses are not known until the boat returns to home port. How should I, as the buyer, handle this situation?

A. Generally, before you can determine the insurable earnings and the premium deduction required for members of a crew, the declaration made to you as the buyer must include boat expenses. The Income Tax Department recognizes the problems created when the boat expenses are not available at the time the catch is sold and under these circumstances, the department is prepared to accept reasonable estimates of the boat expenses.

Q. My wife shares in the catch as a member of the crew. Can she be insured? I am also a crew member.

A. The wife of a fisherman is not insurable for a catch by a crew of which her husband is a member. The wife's share must be added to the husband's earnings for the purpose of calculating his insurable earnings.

Q. How does one determine the insurable earnings of a fisherman's helper who is paid on a share-of-the-catch basis?

A. The fisherman must declare to the buyer the share arrangement. The actual monies paid to the helper in accordance with the share arrangement are the amount on which a premium for Unemployment Insurance is required. This is subject to the minimum and maximum insurable earnings for the pay period.

business

Pine Point

Pine Point Mines Ltd. reports earnings of $9,311,000 or $2.06 a share for the year ended Dec. 31 compared with $16,860,000 or $3.73 a share for 1975.

J. H. Salter, company chairman, said lower earnings were due to a reduced volume of lead concentrate sales and higher production costs related to increased stripping activity.

He said ore reserves decreased by approximately three-quarters of the tonnage milled.

IBM

Increased exports and higher sales and rental of data processing equipment helped boost 1976 profits for IBM Canada Ltd., company chairman Lorne K. Lodge reports. Net income was $79,067,158 compared with $69,817,080 for 1975. Lodge said the value of exports to 98 countries in 1976 was $196,606,397 compared to $163,900,028 the previous year.

Cominco

Cominco's consolidated net earnings for 1976 were $47.7 million or $2.66 a share, compared with $73.6 million or $4.34 a share the previous year, the company reports.

F. E. Burnet, chairman and chief executive officer of the Vancouver-based mining and manufacturing company, said sales were $725 million compared with $707.3 million in 1975.

In spite of improved sales volumes for all major products, he said, earnings were affected by lower prices for most metals and fertilizers, coupled with continued escalation of wages and other operating costs.

Earnings before income and resource taxes on the company's potash operation in Saskatchewan amounted to $2.7 million. Taxes amounted to $7.2 million resulting in a loss of $4.5 million. Discussions with the Saskatchewan government have not as yet resulted in any alleviation of this oppressive taxation, the company said.

Laurentide

Laurentide Financial Corporation Ltd. reports consolidated net earnings of $6.1 million or $1.19 a share in 1976, up from $5.5 million or $1.04 a share in 1975.

The company said its consolidated income totalled $421 million in 1976 compared with $388 million in the previous

CBS

CBS said that in the fourth quarter, its earnings rose 34 per cent, to $47.89 million, or $1.68 a share, from $35.67 million, or $1.25 a share, from the same 1975 period. Revenues rose about 15 per cent to $660.15 million from $574.72 million.

For 1976, earnings rose 33 per cent to $163.99 million, or $5.75 a share, from $122.90 million, or $4.30 a share, in 1975. Revenues rose about 15 per cent to $2.230 billion dollars from $1.938 billion.

CBS said its broadcast group's sales rose 20 per cent and exceeded $1 billion for the first time last year. Its records group reported a 16-per-cent rise in sales and earnings. Its Columbia group reported a 12-per-cent rise in sales and a 22-per-cent rise in profits, while its publishing group had a 35-per-cent profit rise on a six-per-cent sales increase.

Finning

Revenue of Finning Tractor and Equipment Co. Ltd. for the year ended December 31, 1976, was $199,795,000 as compared to $173,812,000 for 1975, an increase of 14.9 per cent, the company reports.

Net income was $8,609,000, up from $7,942,000, an increase of 8.4 per cent. This represents $2.17 a share as against $2 a share for the previous year.

J. D. Frazee, president and chief operating officer, said in a news release the final quarter of the year showed improvement.

Profits Should Be Defined in Cash

TORONTO (CP) — Accountants have permitted corporations to stray too far from the cash definition of profits, says Gordon Sharwood, president of Sharwood and Co., Toronto, a merchant-banking operation.

The result has been to mislead the general public about corporate performance, Sharwood says.

"I think the figure shown as profit at the bottom of the revenue and expense statement should come as close to representing the change in the cash balances from year-end to year-end in the corporate balance sheets as it can," he said in a speech prepared for delivery to the Society of Industrial Accountants.

Sharwood said that among the components of net national income as reported by Statistics Canada, the only one that is different from cash income is corporate profits.

"I think it is important to appreciate this in the current controversy over shares of national income because it is clear that the corporate sector does not feel it is getting enough but it seems to be inarticulate in how to say so."

Who's going to stop Oak Bay?

That's the question being asked in high school boys' basketball circles after the pairings became known Monday for the start of the 27th annual Vancouver Island championships.

The eight-team tournament starts Thursday at University of Victoria's McKinnon Gym.

Don Horwood's powerful Bays, who wrapped up the Lower Island championship Saturday with a 94-51 romp over Spectrum, will face Esquimalt Dockers, the Lower Island's fifth-seeded team in their opening game.

The other first-round matchups will feature South Island teams against the northern representatives.

It's Cowichan Thunderbirds against Claremont Spartans, G.P. Vanier of Courtenay against Spectrum and Victoria High Totems against Nanaimo Islanders, the North Island's No. 1 team.

Games Thursday and Friday will be played at 3:45 p.m., 5:30, 7:15 and 9. The tournament winds up Saturday evening with the championship finale at 9 p.m.

While the rivals may not be looking for it, Horwood has some news about his Oak Bay team. He thinks they're starting to "come around.'

They've been averaging more than 90 points in league play, and the Bays were in form in the lower Island final against Spectrum.

"Hopefully, they're getting the bugs out of their systems," said Horwood. "I was very pleased with the way they played Saturday. They moved the ball well and played extremely well on defence."

With forward Ken Kirzinger scoring 30 points and guard Craig Higgins adding 28, Oak Bay raced off to a 52-24 lead and never looked back. Harbinder Sanghara topped Spectrum with 20 points.

Claremont, a squad that has started to show some of its best form in recent weeks, took third place by defeating Totems 64-56. Ed Thornberg sparkled for the Spartans with 28 points while Chris Adams topped Totems with 16.

Esquimalt took final South Island berth by defeating Mt. Douglas Rams 42-28 in the playoff for fifth place. It was the lowest-scoring game in the district this season as Rams managed 18 points in the first half and only 10 in the second.

In the North Island playdowns, Nanaimo defeated Cowichan to earn No. 1 ranking while Courtenay beat out Campbell River for third.

Skate Betrays Blues

ST. LOUIS (AP) — A defenceman's skate helped Dennis Maruk score an early goal for Cleveland in the National Hockey League Monday night, but coach Jack Evans insisted the Barons centre earned it.

"You might say it was kind of lucky, but he shot the puck where he wanted it," said Evans on Maruk's behalf.

"This was a game we really needed," Evans emphasized after Maruk led Cleveland to a 5-2 triumph over St. Louis Blues in the only NHL game of the night.

"Our guys have been skating well," he added. "We'd just run into a tough schedule and the puck hadn't been bouncing our way."

The Barons' victory, achieved despite a 32-27 St. Louis advantage in shots on goal, was marred by a collision along the boards which resulted in an injury to referee Dave Newell.

Newell was sent sprawling when he ran into Garry Unger's stick during the opening period and required assistance to leave the ice.

He completed the period but was later taken to hospital where his inuries were diagnosed preliminarily as contusions to the ribs and possibly to the liver. Linesman Neil Armstrong finished as referee.

"It wasn't as much our bad skating as it was their good skating," St. Louis coach Emile Francis said in respect to Cleveland's victory

"They moved the puck against us as well as anyone has all year," Francis said. "They were flying."

Maruk scored his 24th goal of the season in the first minute of play on a pass from behind the St. Louis goal that bounced off Rod Seiling's skate past goalie Ed Johnston.

Early in the second period, Maruk led a three-player rush into the Blues' zone and set up a goal by Al MacAdam. Ralph Klassen and Bob Girard added second-period goals to give the Barons a 4-0 lead before St. Louis got its first score from Red Berenson in the third period.

IT WAS THAT KIND OF NIGHT for St. Louis Blues in National Hockey League game at home Monday against Cleveland Barons. On this play, Bob Plager of Blues goes sprawling after stepping on puck while trying to stop Al MacAdam (25) from getting to rebound in front of goalie Eddie Johnston. Many things went wrong for Blues and they dropped 5-2 decision to Barons, who snapped seven-game winless streak and extended St. Louis losing skein to three. (AP Wirephoto)

HOWE WAITS FOR 900

HOUSTON (AP) — Veteran Gordie Howe is seeking his 900th career goal but says he won't be thinking about it while he's playing.

"I know that if I do my job, the goals will come," said Howe, who scored number 899 for the World Hockey Association Houston Aeros on Sunday in Phoenix. The Aeros play again tonight against Phoenix.

"I want 900 but I don't think about it when I'm on the ice. Right now I want 903 because that means I'll get 20 this season. I haven't had less than 20 since 1949."

Howe's nearest challenger is Bobby Hull, another former National Hockey League player now with the WHA Winnipeg Jets. Hull's career total is 840.

While with the NHL Detroit Red Wings in 1968, Howe became the first to hit 700. And in 1974, his first season in the WHA, he was first to hit 800.

He had 786 goals in his 25 seasons with Detroit and for his four seasons with the now financially-troubled Aeros, he has a 113 total. He last failed to score 20 goals in a season in 1949 when he had only 12 in his third season with the Red Wings. He later had five 40-plus seasons with Detroit. He had a career high 49 in the 1952-53 season.

The Aeros received their first-of-the-month salaries Monday, ending doubt that the current payroll might not be met. The Houston players have agreed to defer two paycheques until the end of the season to help the organization get back on better financial footing.

RUSSIAN PAIR TAKES SKATE LEAD

TOKYO (Reuter) — Defending champions Irina Rodnina and Alexander Zaitsev of the Soviet Union took the lead in the pairs competition of the world figure skating championships after the short program today.

The Soviet husband-and-wife team, making their fifth attempt to retain the title, scored 11.5 ordinals and 34.90 points from the nine judges. Rodnina is after her ninth straight crown in pairs and Zaitsev is seeking his fifth.

Second were Irina Vorobieva and Alexander Vlasov, also of the Soviet Union, with 15.5 ordinals and 34.56 points. Tai Babilonia and Randy Gardner, the American champions, were third with 31 ordinals and 33.45 points.

Giants Get Place In Playoff Chase

Little Giant Bakeries dropped winless Stevens Interiors 73-64 Monday night to capture the final playoff berth and end the regular season in Victoria Senior "B" Men's Basketball League play at Victoria High School.

Bakers, led by a 26-point effort from Bob Vanderford, clinched fourth place when Trilec Installations dropped a 79-63 decision to James Bay Athletic Association.

If Trilec had tied them for fourth place, Bakers still would have claimed the playoff berth for having beaten Trilec three times in five games between the two teams.

Best-of-three playoff semifinals open Wednesday with league-champion Victoria Athletics facing Little Giant at 9 p.m. in Oak Bay Junior High School.

The other series, between James Bay and Oak Bay, gets underway at 9 p.m. Thursday at Lambrick Park School.

Belmont Bounced

Harbor View crushed visiting Belmont 51-27 Monday to capture the third and final playoff berth in the Vancouver Island junior high school girls' basketball championship starting Friday at Parkland High School.

Nancy Duncan fired 16 points to spark Harbor View in the special challenge game for a berth in the eight-team Island playoff. Brenda Hazell led Belmont with 13 points.

VICTORIANS SHARE AWARDS SPOTLIGHT

SEATTLE — Two automobile racing veterans from Victoria, Eric Foster and Johnny Wright, shared the spotlight during the weekend at the second annual awards banquet of the Golden Wheels.

Foster, it was announced, has been elected to the office of vice-president in the international organization.

In addition, Foster was presented with a trophy in recognition of his 50 years of contributing to the sport of auto racing.

Wright, who has been building cars in Victoria since 1930, carried home the Grand Old Car Owners Trophy.

Plans are being made by the Golden Wheels fraternity, which represents Western Canada and most of the United States, to hold the third awards banquet in Victoria next February.

Loser Keeps Crown

In other bouts, Handsome John Anson and Randy Morse took two out of three falls to defeat Lumberjack Luke and Paddy Ryan in a tag-team tussle, The Outlaw outgrappled Gerry Goodvoice, Gama Singh won by default over Black Jack Ruffin and Joe Palordy and Mike Sharpe battled to a draw.

Young Coach for Tigers

Victoria Cougars don't have a monopoly on office developments in the Western Canada Hockey League.

Jim McCrimmon, a former player with the club, was named coach of Medicine Hat Tigers on Monday.

McCrimmon, at 23 the youngest coach in the league, has had no previous experience behind the bench but played parts of three seasons in the World Hockey Association and National Hockey League with Edmonton Oilers, St. Louis Blues and Calgary Cowboys.

Medicine Hat president Rod Carry said Jack Shupe, who served as coach and general-manager since the club's formation, will stay on in th latter capacity.

The move will allow Shupe more freedom to develop younger players within the Tiger system and to scout for the team.

Cougars, meanwhile, face Flin Flon Bombers at 8 tonight in Memorial Arena in what could be the final game for Pat Ginnell as owner-manager.

Ginnell, who moved here from Flin Flon 38 months ago, is reported to be selling Cougars to a Vancouver group headed by hotelman Loren Williams.

Williams is expected to be in Victoria on Wednesday and the deal could be closed at that time.

Unlike last Wednesday's game when the two clubs met in a brawl-filled bout in Lethbridge, only one fight developed and yielded three major penalties and a misconduct.

Calgary led 1-0 after the first period and matched Lethbridge tally in the second frame.

In league scoring statistics released Monday, Mark Lofthouse of New Westminister Bruins has finally cracked the top 10.

Lofthouse began the season on a slow note but recently started to gather momentum. He has climbed to eighth place from 21st in a matter of three weeks by piling up 27 points in his last 10 games.

Bill Derlago of Brandon Wheat Kings has clinched the scoring title with 150 points, 32 more than his closest rival and linemate, Ray Allison.

Derlago leads the league in goals with 82 while Allison is tops in assists with 81. The league record of 90 goals, set by former Wheat King Ron Chipperfield in the 1972-73 season, is within Derlago's reach.

One Unbeaten Rink

HALIFAX (CP) — Myrna McQuarrie of Lethbridge, Alta., danced a jig after four straight wins, while Karen Cole of St. John's, Nfld., thought her rink had finally found some luck as it savored its first win at the Canadian women's curling championships Monday night.

McQuarrie's Alberta crew came out of Monday's second day of action as the only unbeaten rink, following a 12-6 fourth-round win over Jean Skinner of Nova Scotia and a third-round 9-2 victory over Grace Donald of New Brunswick.

Cole led Newfoundland to its first win in four matches with a 9-8 decision over Prince Edward Island.

In other fourth-round games, Ontario shocked Saskatchewan 11-6, New Brunswick upended Manitoba 8-7 and British Columbia took an extra end to steal an 8-7 verdict from Yukon-Northwest Territories.

In earlier third-round games besides Alberta's triumph over New Brunswick, B.C.'s Heather Kerr stole a 6-5 win over Newfoundland; Nini Mutch of Toronto took a 7-6 win over Donna Alexander of Yellowknife; Crystal Brunas of Prince Albert whipped Carole Topp of Montreal 13-2; and Dorothy McKenzie of Winnipeg stopped Phyllis Drysdale of Charlottetown 14-6.

McQuarrie was in a close match with Nova Scotia's Skinner in the fourth round Monday night and trailed 4-3 after four ends. But a miss by Skinner and McQuarrie's last-rock draw produced four for the western team in the fifth end and Alberta stole four more points over the next two ends to put it out of reach.

Newfoundland's Cole built a 6-2 lead after three ends of her round four match with P.E.I.'s Drysdale and then buried a rock in the 10th end that the Charlottetown skip missed with a takeout try.

"We're lucky we built that lead," Cole said afterwards. "If we can get a few more breaks this week and just curl our games as well, we can finish with a decent record."

Canada Wins Opener

QUEBEC (CP) — Canada opened defence of its world junior curling championship with a tight 7-5 victory over Norway Monday night in first-round play at Laval University.

Skip Bill Jenkins' Charlottetown rink took an early lead at 3-1 before the Norwegians, skipped by Loen Sjur, rallied to take a 5-4 edge after eight ends, but Jenkins grabbed three in the ninth and coasted home.

In other first-round play, Sweden, finalists with a Calgary rink last year, whipped West Germany 14-5, France dropped the United States 12-8, Italy dumped Switzerland 9-7 and Scotland squeezed past Denmark 8-6 with five points in the last two ends.

Bears, Colts Grid Winners

Four Oak Bay Peewee Football League teams scored a total 89 points Sunday at Henderson Park and six players accounted for the bulk of the scoring.

Jamie Love scored three touchdowns and Mark Frazer added, two to help Bears to a 30-25 victory over Rams. John Campbell accounted for all the Ram scoring with four majors and a single.

John Johnston's three touchdowns and one by Scott Shaffer enabled Colts to defeat Lions 27-7. Clay Kirby scored all seven points for the Lions.

Hooey Defeated In Legion Event

SUMMERLAND — The Dave Simpson rink from Vernon will represent British Columbia in the national Legion curling championships to be held in mid-March at New Glasgow, N.S.

Simpson beat Gordon Hooey of Victoria at the B.C. championships in Summerland Monday. Nineteen rinks took part in the event, representing all B.C. Legion zones.

Oulton Wins Playoff

In the sudden-death playoff forced by the tie, Oulton downed Williams 11-5 and then went on to top MacKenzie 8-7 in an extra end.

Oulton finished 8-2 in the 11-rink league, McGowan was second at 7-2-1, MacKenzie third at 7-3 and Williams, who finished in a tie for fourth with Dave Falkins, qualified for the playoffs with a 6-4 record because he had defeated Falkins.

Dolphins Want to Shake Losing Image

Frank Hindle acknowledges there is room for physical and technical improvement, but Victoria Dolphins' head coach wants a turnabout in attitude.

That could restore respectability to Victoria's entry in the Big Four Junior Football League this season.

The Dolphins have gone without a victory in each of their last three seasons, and Hindle, who came out of retirement to return as coach last year, wants to shake the losing image.

"It has been firmly decided that negative attitudes, from top to bottom, will not be tolerated this year," said Hindle.

"A good start was made last year in that direction."

The campaign gets under way in August but the 1977 squad already has launched pre-season preparations, the earliest in history. Weekly gym sessions are being held Wednesdays in the Mt. Douglas gym. Outdoor workouts will start next month.

More intensive workouts, including a two-week, full-dress practice, will start in May.

In addition, Hindle expects most of his prospects will participate in a B.C. Lions' development camp, scheduled March 12-13 at Centennial Stadium.

Early emphasis will be on quarterbacking and offensive line play.

A good nucleus of returning players, plus "enthusiastic response" from prospective newcomers, prompts Hindle to look towards this season with optimism.

Hindle is particularly high on the quarterback situation, headed by the returning Don Frenette.

Rookies Bob McKeachie and Andy Jankowski, along with bantam league graduate Mark Townsend, also give Hindle cause to smile.

Still, Hindle would welcome more players—"with or without experience"—to the pre-season workouts.

Penticton Winger Rates Rare Tribute

PENTICTON (CP) — It's a rare occurrence in junior hockey when a player has his sweater number retired, but that is what happened to Gordie McKay of Penticton Vees on Sunday night.

Citizens of this Okanagan community 160 miles east of Vancouver paid tribute to the 19-year-old right winger at the Vees' closing regular season game. McKay didn't disappoint his followers as he scored four goals to run his record-setting total to 79 for the season in the British Columbia Junior Hockey League.

Junior players Bruce Affleck of St. Louis Blues and Grant Mulvey of Chicago Black Hawks learned some of their hockey here before eventually making it to the National Hockey League.

McKay has played here for four years and will leave behind a fistfull of records in the BCJHL, a Tier Two league under the umbrella of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association.

The five-foot-eight-inch, 160-pounder's 79 goals easily smashed the single-season record of 65 set last season by Perry Schnarr of Kelowna Buckaroos in a similar 68-game schedule.

McKay also established two other league records this season: Most career goals, 208, most career points, 374.

College hockey will be the next step for McKay, who has accepted a scholarship in the United States at the University of North Dakota, presently rated in the top 10 American schools in the sport.

"This (1976-77) would have been my draft year and, if I didn't get a shot at the pros, I could see myself turning into a hockey bum," McKay said in a recent interview.

"Now I've got the scholarship . . . I'm looking forward to four years in a highly competitive league and, even if I never get a shot at pro hockey, I'll come out of it with a college education."

McKay joined the Vees when he was 15 and was used as a checking winger in his rookie season. He gave some indication of his scoring ability the next season with 58 goals and added 54 more last year despite missing five weeks because of an ankle injury sustained off the ice.

He returned to his home town when he was 16 for a brief tryout with Kamloops Chiefs of the Tier One Western Canada Hockey League, but was forced to return to the BCJHL because of his lack of size.

"Looking back on it," he said, "coming back to Penticton was the best thing that ever happened to me."

"I really can't believe it," he said. "People in this town have been so good to me.

"This is something I'll remember the rest of my life."

McKay's scoring records may not stand long, however, if teammate Kevin Maxwell elects to remain here for a few more seasons.

Maxwell, a 16-year-old rookie from White Rock, set a new single-season scoring record this year with 148 points, including 66 goals.

Like many youngsters before him, Maxwell has indicated that he will return here next season and possibly play university hockey after that.

Dairyland Tournament A Success

That was the final summation by officials of the unique Dairyland minor hockey tournament held at Juan de Fuca Arena at the weekend.

Restricted to bantam house players who were selected on the basis of good sportsmanship, the jamboree drew 204 players from all South Vancouver Island leagues.

Twelve teams were selected from the overall pool. Three teams formed one division and points were awarded on a divisional basis rather than to teams.

Red and Green divisions finished in a tie for top honors, each with 11 points. Blues wound up with eight while the Yellows earned six points.

Rebel Crew Boosts Lead Over Tigers

Rebels I extended their lead over idle Tigers I to three points Sunday by defeating Rebels II 5-1 in a first division match of the Vancouver Island Men's Field Hockey Association.

In second division play, Marketmen upset first-place Rebles III 2-1 and UVic blanked Rebels IV, 5-0.

On First, March Along With Moving-Day Crowd

Notes, Quotes and the Short Approach . . .

When most of their shops close for the winter, Canadian Professional Golfers Association members head for sunnier climates and participate in their winter classic . . . They've played Las Vegas, Florida and, most recently, Phoenix . . . If it comes off, next November's classic might be played in Japan . . . And if that happens, you can bet on some of those CPGA eyes popping . . . The course they're after in Japan is a 108-holer . . . You've got it right . . . It has six 18-hole layouts . . . All 108 holes have two greens, one groomed for summer play and one for the winter . . .

George Bigelow is back and doing his thing at Victoria Golf Club after several weeks in New Zealand . . . The former Canadian seniors champion, now 67, created quite a stir when he scored a 69 at Auckland Golf Club . . . They lined up to play with George, and that prompted Auckland Star columnist Michael Brett to devote a full column to the visiting Canuck . . .

Traditionally, May 1 is supposed to be moving day . . . But from the movement in and out of district clubs, today is moving day in golf . . . As reported Saturday, Bill Penny takes over from Dick Silverberg as head professional at Glen Meadows . . .

But there's more . . . Doug Long, who held the same post at Uplands for several years, takes over today as manager at Royal Colwood . . . He succeeds Peter Simpson, who announced late last year that he plans to return to England . . . Colwood also is looking for a new greens superintendant because Colin Softley showed up at Richmond today for his first day on the new job . . . Gary Scramstad, Bob Hogarth's former assistant, reported to Norm Jackson at Nanaimo . . . Also starting new duties today is Darcy Weston . . . A former assistant "super" at Oak Bay, Weston is Gorge Vale's new head of the greens . . .

Not filled but vacant is the pro's job at Mt. Brenton . . . Veteran Ernie Tate is gone and the Chemainus club is looking for a replacement . . . Neil Murray, a former assistant at Cowichan who went up-Island to Eaglecrest last summer, is reported to be first in line for the Mt. Brenton job . . . More recently, Murray was recognized as the Yul Brynner of the car-selling set . . .

Colwood's Mike Mousseau and Brian Gandy won the district's open buttons Sunday by defeating Gorge Vale's John Fraser and Lex Sutcliffe, one up . . . Button play will end March 13 because the first event on the 1977 playing calendar, the City Intermediate championship, is scheduled March 19-20 . . .

Some changes already are evident, and there could be more in store for the nine-hole Prospect Lake course now that Mike O'Donnell has moved in as executive managing director, chief cook and ball-seller . . . The new clubhouse is ready and the ambitious Irishman wants it known that the old name (Gregarah) is out and heretofore it will be recognized as Prospect Lake Golf Club . . . With thousands of dollars at stake, $87.50 doesn't sound like much . . . But that's the figure that convinced me that Cec Ferguson is going to give his sponsors a fair shake while he follows the tour trail . . . Ferguson won $87.50 last October for finishing second in a long-driving contest in Southern California . . . That payoff doesn't have to be recognized as "official earnings," and many others might have pocketed the cheque as loose change . . . Plus which, who in Victoria would know? Ferguson endorsed the cheque and passed it along for deposit into the syndicate's fund . . . You have to admire his sense of fairness . . .

Hosts Take Most

Host club rinks captured three of the four top prizes Sunday in the White Ensign mixed bonspiel at Esquimalt Curling Club.

Results:

"A" EVENT: 1. Al Paterson, Doreen Doherty, John McKnight, Sally McKnight (Esquimalt); 2. Fred Zacek (Playland); 3. Bill Prior (Playland); 4. Len Becker (Racquet Club).

"B" EVENT: 1. Nils Sjoberg, Kay Carver, Robert Carver, Shirley Sjoberg (Esquimalt); 2. Howard Ward (Esquimalt); 3. Bruce Walker (Playland); 4. R. Bennett (South Delta).

BOB BELL HEADS GOLF COMMITTEE

Bell, elected Monday night at the annual general meeting at Gorge Vale, succeeds Gord Millin of Royal Colwood. Millin, who has held the post for the past two years, declined to run again because of involvement as a director of the Royal Canadian Golf Association and the B.C. Association.

Bill Halbert of Colwood was elected vice-president.

Gorge Vale's Leo Derman returns as secretary for a 26th consecutive year and Bob Peters of Colwood remains treasurer.

Committee chairmen appointed were: Ian Holroyd of Gorge Vale, juniors; Derek Rhys-Jones of Colwood, buttons, and Fred Worthington of Cedar Hill, inter-club competition.

First tournament of the 1977 season will be the intermediate championship, to be played March 19 at Cedar Hill and March 20 at Uplands.

Qualifying round of the Vancouver Island Open is April 3 at Victoria and the match-play tournament winds up with the finals at Gorge Vale on May 1.

Other dates include: City junior championship, June 29 at Oak Bay and June 30 at Cedar Hill; City Amateur, June 4 at Glen Meadows and June 5 at Colwood, and the Centennial Foursomes, June 19 at Oak Bay.

LIONS SIGN QUARTERBACK

VANCOUVER (CP) — British Columbia Lions of the Western Football Conference Monday announced that the first player signed in 1977 is Gary Keithley, a 26-year-old quarterback who was drafted second by St. Louis Cardinals in 1973.

Keithley, six-foot-three and 215 pounds, spent two seasons as a backup quarterback with the Cardinals and was a training camp cut with Seattle Seahawks last season.

PLAYOFF SCENE IN JUNIOR LOOP IS CONFUSING

LANGLEY (CP) — Abbotsford Flyers and Merritt Centennials meet tonight and Wednesday at Abbotsford in an effort to unscramble the confused playoff situation in both divisions of the British Columbia Junior Hockey League.

BCJHL spokesman Ron Livingstone said the games are makeups for postponements Sept. 27 and Feb. 17 between the teams.

The other eight teams in the BCJHL concluded their regular-season schedules Sunday, with Merritt two points behind fourth-place Kamloops Braves in the Interior Division and Abbotsford tied with Bellingham Blazers for fourth place in the Coastal division.

Livingstone said Abbotsford has a superior goals-for and goals-against record to Bellingham and likely would gain the final playoff berth in the Coast Division even if it loses twice to Merritt.

The Centennials, however, have a similar goals-for and goals-against mark to Kamloops and a split between Abbotsford and Merritt could produce yet another playoff Thursday between Merritt and Kamloops.

Meanwhile, two best-of-seven division semi-final series begin tonight, with Penticton Vees at home to Vernon Vikings and Maple Ridge Bruins playing at home against Langley Lords.

Penticton finished second in the Interior Division — 10 points back of Kelowna Buckaroos — and Vernon was a distant third.

Nanaimo Clippers, who finished 27 points ahead of second-place Maple Ridge, likely will play Abbotsford, beginning March 4 at Nanaimo.

Spare Skips Rink To Trophy Victory

Carmel Marshall took over for an injured skip and piloted the Marg Brillinger rink to a victory in the Greater Victoria women's curling championship for the Le Lacheur Trophy.

Marshall, the registered "spare," stepped in after Saturday's second round at the Playland club when Brillinger was unable to continue because of a knee injury.

She guided the Esquimalt quartet, which also included Onilea Crothers, Shirley Riches and Pat Clement, to first place in the "B" side of the draw and into Sunday's final against Barb Odeh, the "A" side winner.

The Brillinger crew wrapped up the final in two games, scoring 10-2 and 9-7 victories over the Racquet Club foursome of Odeh, who was curling with Lorraine Gardner, Mary Law and Ruth Shorting.

AFRICANS TO TEST YOUNG

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — Andrew Young became president of the United Nations Security Council for March today, and his fellow blacks from Africa were preparing a test for him and the Carter administration.

Young, after a month as the new chief U.S. delegate to the United Nations, succeeded James Murray of the United Kingdom in the monthly alphabetical rotation of the council presidency among the 15 member nations.

The Africans are planning to seek a council debate starting March 21 or soon after in which they will introduce a resolution calling for a mandatory embargo on arms shipments to South Africa to discourage its apartheid policy of racial segreation.

The United States joined France and Britain in 1975 and in 1976 in vetoing resolutions calling for a binding arms embargo although for years it has observed a council resolution calling for a voluntary ban on arms shipments to South Africa.

Young told a reporter recently that he will recommend that the United States support a mandatory arms embargo. But he said he does not know whether his government will follow his recommendation.

U.S. Backs Indian Claims

WASHINGTON (WP) — The U.S. government agreed Monday to back scaled-down Indian claims for several million acres of land in Maine.

The justice department announced in a federal court in Portland it would support litigation for a substantial share of the two Indian tribes' claims, although the amount of land involved has been reduced through negotiation.

Although exact figures could not be determined Monday, the claims could total at least five million acres.

Maine's congressional delegation, however, insisted it would proceed with legislation to extinguish the tribal claims, although leaving a door open for the Indians to be compensated through civil suits.

Meanwhile, the White House moved into the growing controversy of tribal land claims for the first time by saying President Jimmy Carter would soon appoint a special representative to mediate the dispute within the next few months.

Several observers said the ultimate resolution must come from Congress in the form of a sizable sash settlement for the Indians with federal funds. In the end, they predicted, very little, if any, land would be transferred to Indian ownership and no small landowners would be required to surrender title to their properties.

That cash solution, it was said, probably would become a model for settling similar existing and potential Indian claims in other states.

The two Maine Indian tribes — Penobscots and Passamoquoddies — originally had claimed rights to 12.5 million acres they say were illegally taken from them in violation of a 1790 act of Congress. A federal court has substantially upheld their claim and ordered the U.S. government to fulfill its trust relationship to the two tribes.

Initially, the interior department had agreed to defend 10.5 million of the Indian's claims, but that amount, the justice department said Monday, has been reduced through negotiations with the Indians.

The government now will support claims solely for land actually used and occupied by the tribes in 1790. That would exclude from challenge most of Maine's populous and financially valuable coastal territory previously claimed by the Indians.

Agent Says Korean Gave Bribes to Congressmen

Washington Post

WASHINGTON — The federal investigation of South Korean influence buying here has been broadened by allegations that the Korean Central Intelligence Agency gave $600,000 in cash to a local Korean-American businessman to distribute to U.S. Congressmen.

FBI agents have been told by Kim Sang Keun, the KCIA official who agreed last November to co-operate with the FBI, that he gave the cash in 1975 and 1976 on instructions from Seoul to Hancho C. Kim, a Korean-born Washington businessman who is also a trustee of the American University.

Sources close to the federal investigation said that, according to Kim Sang Keun's account, Hancho Kim was supposed to pass the money in large amounts to several congressmen not previously suspected of being targets of South Korean bribes. The names of these congressmen could not be learned, although Kim Sang Keun has provided names to federal investigators.

In an appearance before a federal grand jury and in an interview last October with The Washington Post, Hancho Kim denied any wrongdoing and said he had nothing to do with South Korean influence buying here. He also specifically denied allegations about the $600,000 in an interview published in The Washington Star Monday. But, in response to new inquiries from The Post this week, Hancho Kim's lawyer instructed him to refuse further comment.

At the time of the alleged cash transactions, according to the sources, the KCIA was trying to establish a second conduit for money and gifts to U.S. officials, paralleling that allegedly provided by globetrotting South Korean businessman Tongsun Park.

No 'Massive Epidemic' Of Drug Deaths in U.S.

WASHINGTON (WP) — A major study of thousands of hospital parients has found that no more than one patient in 3,000 dies because a doctor prescribed wrongly — evidence, the study's director says, that "we don't have a massive epidemic of people dying from drugs."

The study by Jane Porter and Dr. Hershel Jicj of Boston University Medical Centre is published in this week's issue of the journal of the American Medical Association.

Jick's previous figures have been used by critics of medicine to charge that adverse reactions to prescription drugs kill 29,000 American hospital patients a year.

But his newest data indicate that the deabh toll may be no more than 9,000, and one-fourth of those are probably preventable.

"I think very serious reactions are about as infrequent as one could possible expect, given the enormous amount of exposure to drugs," Jick said in an interview.

This does not mean that over-prescribing or wrong use of drugs does no harm, he added. One of medicine's strongest critics — Dr. Sidney Wolfe, director of Ralph Nader's Health Research Group — pointed out that the new Porter-Jick study does not include many classes of people who are sickened or killed by drugs.

Nonetheless, Jick is a leader in the 10-year-old Boston Collaborative Drug Program. Financed in large part by the National Institutes of Health and the food and drug administration, it has been called the nation's largest, most thorough effort to measure drug-induced injury.

Joggers' Blood Creates Problem

DENTON, Tex. (UPI) — Blood tests of joggers show enzymes similar to those found in tests of heart attack victims, according to two researchers.

North Texas State University's Dr. Robert Kaman, a biochemist, and Dr. Robert Patton, a physiologist, said Monday the similarity can create problems for doctors in diagnosing real seizures.

They said their experiments were an attempt to solve this problem:

The significance is if exercise can cause the same types of blood enzyme patterns as those following heart attacks, there is a real possibility of confusion in making proper diagnosis," Kaman said.

Kaman said for example a runner may faint from the heat during a marathon race on a hot day, but later, at the hospital the enzyme levels are found increased and a heart attack is diagnosed.

The test checks the levels of the CPK and LDH enzymes in the blood. If the two enzymes are elevated, the immediate diagnosis is a heart attack, Kaman said.

New York Fiscal Talks Break Down

NEW YORK (WP) — Negotiations between New York City officials and the city's banks and unions on how to solve the latest chapter in the city's continuing fiscal crisis broke down Monday, amidst bitter recriminations.

The stage appeared set for a new test next week over whether the city can stay out of bankruptcy.

At the closed meeting, representatives of the banks appeared to come up with new preconditions for gaining their co-operation in a solution. The unions walked out. And an angry Mayor Abraham D. Beame later accused the banks of "putting a gun to our heads" and of bringing the city "very, very close if not to the brink of defaults."

The city will start running out of money to pay bills from vendors on Monday. Unless it settles the current impasse and gets a cash infusion from union pension funds, the banks or the federal government, it will be unable to meet a payroll on March 11, and also will face default on a $64 million debt service payment three days later.

The immediate problem involves new rules under which New York City would raise money to pay off $1 billion in moratorium notes.

Canada has a new citizenship act

It became effective February 15, 1977.

The day that you acquire your Canadian Citizenship, with all its privileges and obligations, will be a proud one for you.

Water Expert's Funeral Today

Rev. John Travis officiated at the ceremony at McCall's chapel.

Then water resources minister Ray Williston said of Paget on his retirement as deputy minister in 1969:

"If it were ever necessary to elect one technical specialist who had to be named as primarily responsible for all the basic technical decisions made in conjunction with the power developments on the Peace and Columbia Rivers — his name would be Art Paget."

Paget, who retired after 22 years because of ill health, was also a member of the Pollution Control Board and served on the Canadian advisory committee on water resources research.

Following his retirement, he was persuaded to remain in the service as a consultant for two years.

Born in Saskatchewan, Paget was a civil engineer for two years in Vernon, after being discharged as a captain in the Royal Canadian Engineers in 1945.

He served as comptroller of water rights from 1954 to 1964 when he was appointed deputy minister. He chaired the Pollution Control Board until mid-1968. He also served as a member of the B.C. Energy Board, as well as vice-president of the Canadian national committee of the international committee on large dams.

He is survived by his wife, Norma; three sons, Noel, Norris and Neil and nine grandchildren as well as nieces and nephews.

Yarrows Zoning For First Time

Waterfront land occupied by Yarrows Ltd. shipyard for the best part of a century is on the way to being rezoned for the first time by Esquimalt council.

Aldermen received a bylaw Monday drafted by the municipal Advisory Planning Commission designating an M3 heavy industry zone for lands now owned and operated by Yarrows.

Mayor Art Young said he did not know how Yarrows property has escaped original zoning in the municipality, but council now believes zoning is necessary to maintain control of the land or in the event of sale.

He said council agrees with the industrial designation and is aware that any unzoned land in the municipality must automatically be ragerded as R1 single family dwelling.

At the same time there may be aspects of the proposed bylaw that would hinder the shipyard in the conduct of its day-to-day operation — such as the restriction on noise — and aldermen agreed to ask Yarrows to submit its views before a public hearing is called.

Further study of the draft also will be given by council's land, zoning and housing committee.

Council was told Central Mortgage and Housing Corp. had approved all 11 projects submitted as municipal improvement projects under Neighborhood Improvement Program funding, which will amount to a federal share of $235,000.

In other business, council agreed to a municipal cleanup of household discards — everything but car bodies — in late April.

Trail Man Named To Oak Bay Post

The new municipal administrator in Oak Bay is James R. Craven of Trail.

Mayor Brian Smith said Monday night Craven, administrator of the Kootenay-Boundary regional district for the last two years, will start March 28.

He succeeds Stewart Fleming, who leaves Oak Bay shortly for a similar position in Kelowna.

Craven was accountant in Powell River municipality from 1962 to 1966, then assistant treasurer for North Cowichan for two years and then treasurer for Port McNeill for a year before becoming administrator of Squamish minicipality from 1967 to 1975.

Craven will, in addition, assume the duties of municipal clerk when Jean MacQueen retires in about a year, Smith said.

LOCKOUT NOTICE SERVED ON CUPE

KAMLOOPS (CP) — The Okanagan Mainline Municipal Relations Association, representing 10 municipalities in the interior, Monday issued a 72-hour lockout notice to the Canadian Union of Public Employees.

The municipalities will be free to lock out civic workers represented by the union noon Thursday.

Kamloops CUPE workers are still at work despite the expiry of a 72-hour strike notice they sent to their municipality. The association has said any strike action will precipitate a lockout.

A spokesman for the association said neither side is willing to change its stand on the issue of ratification. The association has also said the union has rejected a proposed six per cent wage increase. The union says the association is attempting to whittle away benefits won in earlier contracts.

No further meetings are scheduled in the Kamloops negotiations but attempts are being made to set up meetings in the other nine areas. A strike or lockout would be illegal before mediator Ken Albertini files his report with the provincial labor minister Kamloops CUPE workers have asked Albertini to file his report immediately.

BCFP to Save Rhodos

DUNCAN — B.C. Forest Products will preserve a rare rhododendron grove alongside Port Renfrew Road near Shawnigan Lake.

Chief forester J. V. Toovey has told Cowichan Valley Regional Board the company will continue its program of maintaining the site and retaining the residual growth timber.

"At the same time," he said, "we are providing second growth plantations on the periphery which will eventually supply the partial shade required by the rare specimen."

Name Game Legal: Mair

MAIR . . . an invasion

Consumer Services Minister Rafe Mair said Monday he can find nothing in the Trade Practices Act to prevent Eaton's department store from renting names and adresses of catalogue customers to junk mail firms.

Mair, who said earlier he would ask his staff to investigate the situation, said the meaning of the act "would really have to be stretched" before his ministry could do anything about it.

The store's catalogue sales department closed last year and its list of the names of 2.75 million Canadians is being rented to the junk mail firms without the knowledge of the customers.

"Eaton's is clearly wrong. They are invading peoples' privacy," Mair said.

Although his ministry can't do anything, Mair said if he were one of those customers whose name was being rented out "I'd send a good stiff letter to Eaton's."

"That's all I can suggest, that the customer launch a complaint," he said.

$1.2M PAID VICTIMS

Victims of crime in B.C. were paid a total of $1.2 million in 1976 under the Criminal Injuries Compensation Act.

The annual report, tabled in the legislature Monday, reveals that 430 people, including 20 in Victoria, were awarded sums from just over $100 to just under $15,000.

The act was established in 1972 to compensate victims of crime in B.C. or to compensate relatives of people killed as the result of a crime.

Of the 529 applications from around the province, 95 were disallowed for various reasons, including insufficient evidence to indicate a crime had occurred, and rulings that the victim had contributed to his or her own injury.

Included in the awards made to Victoria residents was compensation of $650 to a 69-year-old woman who was thrown heavily to the ground during a purse-snatching incident. The woman sustained two broken ribs.

'High Seas' Curbing Ferries' Capacity

The federal government is investigating changing the designation of the Strait of Georgia from "high seas" to "protected waterway" which would allow B.C. ferries to carry more passengers, Transport Minister Jack Davis said Monday.

Davis, answering a question in the legislature, said he asked Ottawa for a ruling last July but has heard nothing.

A change in the designation could as much as double the passenger capacity on B.C.'s stretch ferries.

The number of passengers allowed by federal regulations is linked directly to the number of crew members and the number of crew members is set according to the designation given to the waters the ferry must go through, Davis said.

Under federal regulations a B.C. stretch ferry must have a minimum of 31 crew members. Davis said a similar-sized ferry travelling through comparable waterways on the Washington State ferry system must have only 14 crew members because the Washington route is designated as an "inland waterway."

He said the crew complement would remain the same on the ferries, but it would give the ferry system the leeway to load extra foot passengers on board.

The new designation would solve the problem of turning away some foot passengers because the limit has been reached, Davis said.

"Those days are rare, but this would give us the freedom to carry those extra people," he said.

The "high seas" designation is the same as if the B.C. ferries had to travel clear across the Atlantic or Pacific oceans, the minister said.

Canada has no provisions for a "Protected waterway" designation, but Davis said it could simply adopt the criteria set out by the United Nations Law of the Sea conference.

B.C. TRAFFIC MISHAPS DIP 1%

The number of traffic accidents in B.C. decreased by one per cent in 1976 from 1975 figures.

Statistics released Monday by the Motor Vehicle Branch show the number of fatalities during the year declined 12 per cent, but the number of injuries was up less than one per cent.

The total number of reported accidents — those involving death, injury or property damage of $200 or more — was 84,158 in 1976, one per cent down from the 85,601 reported in 1975.

The number of persons killed was 630, down 12 per cent from 717 in 1975. The number of injured was 25,239, up .9 per cent from 25,003.

Fishboat Burns, 2 Rescued

Two Nanaimo herring fishermen were airlifted to Victoria General Hospital Monday after the 36-foot gillnetter, San Pedro caught fire and sank off Port Renfrew.

Skipper Sven Royle, 26, suffered shock and minor burns to his hands. Deckhand John Halmgrin, 25, was uninjured. It was Halmgrin's first herring season.

Royle, headed for Ucluelet, said there was an explosion which triggered the fire. He thought it could have been caused by a gas leak.

He said he was lifting a hatch when it happened. He was thrown in the water and Halmgrin threw him a lifejacket.

The two were taken aboard a passing fishboat and then transferred to the Canadian coast guard cutter Rider.

Earlier on Monday, another sea rescue was carried out north of Port Hardy.

Battling high winds and rough seas, the fishing vessel Plouton had another fishing vessel, the Darlene Jean, under tow, when the tow line wrapped around the Plouton's propeller, immobilizing both boats.

The coast guard cutter Ready, an armed forces' fixed wing Buffalo aircraft, a Labrador and the Bull Harbour lifeboat were despatched to the scene, about 30 miles north of Bull Harbor.

The lifeboat was finally able to tow the Darlene Jean into Bull Harbor while the Ready towed the Plouton into safety.

She immediately had to turn around and go to the aid of the 185-foot tugboat Pacific Challenger which had broken down with an empty log barge in tow.

BEEPING TARGET carried by Bill Tate points the way for blind skier Dorothy Yucha, 26, of Erie, Pa., who competed in the 100-mile Lachute-Hull, Que., cross-country marathon. Miss Yucha stays on course by following the sound of Tate's electronic beeper.

Protection Ferry Run Stops Again

The 350 residents were cut off again Saturday but Armstrong said he'll honor an agreement with the school board to carry students to Nanaimo.

The ferry was first stopped last fall when Armstrong said the service is uneconomical without a subsidy.

Service has been resumed temporarily several times since then, but Armstrong said from now on it will run only for students, emergencies and charters.

Question Period Clamps Vowed

Speaker Ed Smith gave notice Monday he intends to make opposition MLAs and government cabinet ministers toe the line during question periods in the B.C. legislature.

He said it had been brought to his attention that there has been "far too much latitude taken in the posing of questions and in the answers thereto.

"There has been too much latitude and liberality," the speaker said.

After a rowdy question period last week, during which the government accused the opposition of not asking questions and the opposition accused the government of not answering them, Smith was asked by both sides of the house to clarify the rules.

Question period is the 15-minute period at the beginning of each day's legislative sitting during which opposition MLAs can question cabinet ministers on government business, within the limits of certain traidtional rules.

The is no rule which says cabinet ministers must answer questions.

Smith reiterated the traditional rules that the questions must not be speeches and that both questions and answers should be brief and to the point.

Questions, he said, which are not "urgent and important" should be filed with the house for the minister concerned to answer in written form.

After seeking "co-operation and adherence to the rules; the house entered question period and Smith promptly ruled three questions out of orders.

Amphetamine Pills Are Dangerous

By LESTER COLEMAN, MD

I've been taking amphetamine pills for dieting. I take them on and off when my weight is up. I just learned that my blood pressure is high and I wonder if it's dangerous for me to take those pills now.—Mr. T.S.E.

Dear Mr. E.:

Amphetamine ("speed") pills are dangerous whether you have high blood pressure or not. They are particularly dangerous to those who have high blood pressure, arteriosclerosis, or any type of vascular or heart condition.

A great many cases have been recorded of heart attacks and strokes precipitated by amphetamine and related drugs. It is now accepted that any drugs that increase the metablic rate or the blood pressure are hazardous.

What confuses me, Mr. E., is that you, as a mature man, must certainly have been reading some of the warnings that have been issued about "speed" pills. This obviously did not dissuade you from finding some illegal means of acquiring them.

The amphetamines are now listed as "dangerous drugs" and con no longer be purchased legally through your pharmacist.

I'm also certain that your doctor did not prescribe them. That means, therefore, that you have been buying them illegally and, by your dependence on them, and persistence in using them, you are risking your health, and possibly your life.

Is excessive oiliness of the scalp a cause of dandruff? I spend half my life trying to get rid of dandruff.—Miss R.Z.

Dear Miss:

The annoying problem of dandruff has occupied the attention of doctors for a long time. A recent re-evaluation of the problem by Dr. James J. Leyden, of the University of Pennsylvania, makes him believe that excess scalp oiliness is not the cause of dandruff.

He also suggests the idea that a yeast organism is the cause of dandruff has no validity. Dr. Leyden says, "Frequent shampooing with any agent will remove the scales as quickly as they form. Detergent shampoos do an even better job of making dandruff less visible. If necessary, shampooing once or twice weekly with such agents as selenium sulfide, zinc pyrithione or salicyclic acid-sulfur will be beneficial."

Right of Privacy

DEAR ABBY: This letter is in response to HARD LESSON, the woman who bluntly turned away a lonely but unwelcome neighbor who rang her bell. LESSON later learned that the woman committed suicide after being turned away.

We agree that the situation was handled rather coldly, but we feel it is vital that this woman, as well as the rest of your readers, not feel responsible for the actions of others.

HARD LESSON had the right of privacy, and we respect her for making her wishes known. It is unfortunate that the outcome was so tragic, but the implication that the suicide was the result of her assertiveness is offensive to us. We assume that because you ran that letter without comment, you agree with the implication.

We are not endorsing lack of consideration, aggressiveness or lack of concern for people. But we are stressing the importance of honesty, personal responsibility and a right to meet one's own needs.—ASSERTIVENESS TRAINING GROUP.

DEAR GROUP: You make a valid point that deserves to be shared with my readers. However, your assumption that I agreed with the implication because I ran the letter without comment is incorrect. I frequently permit readers to express their views, even though they differ from mine.

DEAR ABBY: I go to the barber shop once a week. I am bald on top, and all I ever need is a little trim around the ears and a bit of clipping on the back of my neck, so it takes my barber exactly six minutes to give me a haircut. I pay the standard price, of course.

Now, the man who has a full head of hair and has saved up a month's growth takes about five times as much of the barber's time as I do, yet we both pay the same price for a haircut. Why?

I think barbers should charge according to the amount of time they spend with each customer. I would appreciate your opinion, and the opinion of others.—BALD, BOTHERED AND BEWILDERED.

DEAR BALD Considering how much a haircut (even a little trim around the ears) does for a man's morale, it's a bargain at any price. Don't split hairs.

DEAR ABBY: I am 15 and have a question. Do you think pupils should have to work all day in school and then take home a load of homework to do at night?—CHEATED BY HOMEWORK.

DEAR CHEATED: That's a loaded question. How much is a "load"? The learning process can't be squeezed into a five-day, 35-hour week.

DEAR ABBY: I have always believed in God, and in His goodness, but I am now having doubts.

There are 365 days in every year, yet on my wedding anniversary, the most joyous day of the year for me, God chose to take my beloved mother from this earth. So now, instead of celebrating my anniversary, it has become a day of sadness and mourning.

Then I had a son. On his 10th birthday, God chose to take my beloved father from me. Again, a happy day was turned into a sad one.

Have you any words of comfort for me, Abby? I feel as though the Lord has punished me, but for what, I do not know.

Another thing. People describe themselves as "God-fearing Christians." I have read the Scriptures and can find nothing in them that says we should FEAR God.

So, when people want to describe themselves as "good Christians," why do they say they are "God-fearing" Christians? — HAVING DOUBTS.

DEAR HAVING: Read the Book of Job again and restore your faith in the Lord. According to my dictionary, "God-fearing" means "devout."

The Old Testament tells us (in Ecclesiastes) to "Fear God and keep His commandments."

DEAR ABBY: My grandmother died recently and left me her collection of antique clocks from all over the world. Most of them are in working order.

I hate to appear ungrateful, but I don't have any special interest in clocks, and I have had several good offers from clock collectors. Some members of my family have told others that we should keep the collection in the family, but no one in the family has offered to buy it from me.

Any suggestions? — TICK TOCK.

DEAR TICK: Tell your family that the collection is for sale, and offer it to them first. If you get no takers, sell the clocks to a dealer and tell your family that it took too long to wind up the estate.

indoor gardens

By LYNN and JOEL RAPP

Dear Lynn and Joel: Could you please tell me what to do for the tiny bugs in the soil of my houseplants? I guess they're some kind of mite. Should I just transplant into new soil or is there something I can buy to get rid of them? Thank you.—H.B.

Dear H.B.' When mites, or mealybugs, or any other houseplant pest works its way into the soil of a plant and lays eggs, it must then be treated with what is called a "systemic"— a particular pesticide that is mixed with water and placed directly into the soil of the plant.

There are several available on the market, but the most easily available is called Malathion. We always recommend two things when using a systemic: take the plant outside for the treatment and use the systemic half-strength.

(We once received a letter from a botanist chiding us for recommending the use of these poisonous chemicals half strength: "Don't you think the manufacturers know how much you should use when they put the label on the bottle?" Yes, and we also know that they know the more you use, the quicker you'll have to buy a new bottle, so please, use only half-strength.)

When you've finished the treatment, wait a couple of weeks to see if it has worked and, if not, then it's probably best to transplant into a fresh, clean pot with new, sterilized potting mix. Oh, and don't forget to wash your hands after you finish your Malathion. Not to get the dirt off —to remove the poison.

Slick Tips and Handy Hints

- Experts say that a temperature between 140 and 160° F is best for scalding a chicken before picking. If you test the water with a dairy thermometer and maintain it in this range while doing the job, you'll find the work much easier — and the results far more satisfactory — than when using water that's either hotter or colder
- You'll find it easier to start wood screws if you first punch holes for them with an ice pick.
- Many folks who've tried it know that ordinary cornmeal is a wonderful skin cleanser. For a morning or afternoon pick-me-up, try this: Lather your hands with mild soap, sprinkle some coarse meal into the suds, and gently scrub your face and neck with the combination. The slightly abrasive action will remove dead skin tissue, clean the pores, and leave the skin fresh and revitalized.
- Believe it or not, there's an easy way to keep your bathroom mirror from fogging up in the morning. Just scribble an "X" on the dry glass with a bar of soap before you take your bath or shower, then rub the "X" with a towel until it disappears. The thin layer of soap left on the mirror's surface will prevent condensation for the next four or five days.
- If your red cabbage turns purple or blue while it's cooking, add a small amount of vinegar to the cooking water and the vegetable will turn red again.
- Oddly enough, a tiny bit of salt sprinkled on a sour grapefruit has the effect of making the fruit taste sweeter.

ALICE: SHE CERTAINLY IS A DRIVER

VOVINA, Calif. (AP) — Alice Muyler Ramsey, who became the first woman to drive an automobile across the United States back in 1909, is still travelling and driving.

She came home recently from a seven-week cruise to New Zealand and Australia. En route, she celebrated her 90th birthday in Honolulu, receiving a congratulatory letter from J. B. Creal president of the American Automobile Association (AAA).

Mrs. Ramsey, a great-grandmother, still has her driver's license but now limits her motoring to trips to her hairdresser and similar errands around town in her eight-year-old Mercedes-Benz.

She has never had an accident in more than 70 years of motoring. In recognition of this and her early cross-country feats, the AAA a few years ago gave her a plaque hailing her as "Woman Motorist of the Century."

Her 1977 travel plans include visits to a daughter in Florida, a son in Massachusetts and her alma mater, Vassar College in Poughkeepsie, N.Y.

Mrs. Ramsey was 21 when she made her pioneer transcontinental trip in a new four-cylinder, 30-horsepower Maxwell, leaving New York on June 9 and, after driving 3,800 miles, many of them muddy, arriving in San Francisco on Aug. 7, 1909. Three women accompanied her but did no driving.

She has since driven across the United States more than 30 times and has also toured most countries in Europe by automobile, visiting Yugoslavia and Portugal in 1971.

The Corner Store Is Back

family

By NORMAN CRIBBENS

SUNDERLAND, England (CP) — Seven young housewives are bringing back the old-style corner store with its friendly white-aproned assistants and tempting displays of fresh food.

They have launched a small company, Little Women Ltd., to run the double-fronted store, which will specialize in over-the-counter sales.

"There will be none of this trying to get customers to buy more than they need or more than they can afford," said Margaret Elliott, who will operate the store with six of her neighbors.

"We will sell small portions, like quarter-pounds of butter, single pounds of sugar and small packets of tea and coffee. And there will be lots of loose goods. We want to get away from mass-produced, pre-packaged goods and the impersonal way they are sold in many big stores.

The wives, all under 32, say that if their store is successful they may open others like it.

Their biggest problem was raising the initial capital of about £8,000 ($14,000).

"It's amazing how much prejudice there is against lending money to women," said Mrs. Elliott, a mother of two. "But we finally convinced the local bank and several private investors that there is room for a genuine old-world corner store. Now it is up to us to show what we can do."

Her husband Peter, a 29-year-old carpenter, converted some disused premises into a store and built a staff nursery behind the shop. While some wives man the counters, others look after the group's 10 pre-schoolers.

Customers' children can also be accommodated in the nursery and toys are provided for them.

"Many families in this area have promised us their support," said Barbara Latimer. "We're all pulling together and I am sure we can make a go of it."

Grade 12's Fun —Bet On It

VANCOUVER (CP) — Students in two Grade 12 classes at Vancouver Community College get out the cards and poker chips before they look at any textbooks every Thursday morning.

They play a game called Education 21, invented by their teacher, Ed Forbes.

"I played cards for many years and I always noticed the sustained enthusiasm of the players," he said. "The idea came to me that maybe we could tie this high degree of motivation to the learning process."

He designed the game last June and said the students get so interested in it they often forget their coffee breaks.

Each player starts with 10 chips, he said. Players cut the cards and the highest card deals—ace counts as 11 points, face-cards count as 10.

The dealer gives each player a card face down and one face up, and betting takes place on the strength of the up card. A player with a five or lower card can drop out of the betting.

The bottom card is turned over and the player with the highest card count selects a problem from a list to be given to the players.

Players have five minutes to complete the problem and the first player finished presents his answer If he is incorrect, the second person finished has a chance, and so on down the line.

Before the winner can take the pot, at least two others have to understand the solution and, if there is no winner, the person giving the problem takes the pot.

The player taking the pot now deals the cards again to select another player with the highest card count. The game can be played for 10 rounds or varied as desired.

No money is used in the game because its object is to get a class discussion on physics going, said Forbes.

"It keeps their interest going because they're always anxious to play the game, plus the fact that they work under pressure before someone takes the pot."

Forbes said many students who were having trouble with physics now are doing well because they have become motivated to work at it. And it can be adapted to any course.

"You can use it in maths, chemical equations, grammar or punctuation. It's really just a method of motivating students to become inolved in the studying process."

WIRE SOLVED HEAVY PROBLEM

HAMILTON, Ont. (CP) — Frans Lutgens is a compulsive eater and the habit made his weight balloon to 270 pounds.

Operating a snack bar didn't help his desire to shed pounds for he would nibble on french-fries along with his customers.

He finally decided he must lose weight so he had his jaws wired shut and in four weeks lost 35 pounds.

Cystic Fibrosis, or CF, is the most serious lung problem of Canadian children. One in approximately every 1,000 babies is born with the disease.

The gravest effects of CF result from the abnormal mucus which is produced in various organs. In CF, thick mucus clogs the bronchial tubes and interferes with the baby's breathing. It also plugs up pancreatic ducts and thereby prevents digestive enzymes from reaching the small intestine.

Only 10 years ago, CF was considered a rare, fatal disease. Today, there are many teenagers with CF and even some adults.

The 56-page illustrated "Cystic Fibrosis — A Handbook For Parents" explains what the disease is and how parents can help their afflicted child. It points out that assistance is available for families with a CF child. The doctor who makes the diagnosis can refer the family to the local CF teaching centre for training or to obtain equipment necessary in the home.

Two other pamphlets, a six-page "Teacher's Guide To Cystic Fibrosis" and a four-page folder "For Nurses — Cystic Fibrosis" are also available.

For any of these publications write to: Canadian Cystic Fibrosis Association, 401-41 Eglinton Avenue East, Toronto, Ont. (Quebec readers please contact: Quebec Cystic Fibrosis Association, c-o 68 Bayview Avenue, Pointe Claire, Que. H9S 5C3). Please allow at least two to three weeks for delivery.

Heart Attack Fells Benny's Rochester

Anderson

WOODLAND HILLS, Calif. — Eddie Anderson, whose gravel-voiced irreverence as Jack Benny's chauffeur "Rochester" made him the first black to win a regular network radio role, died of a heart attack Monday at age 71.

Anderson died at the Motion Picture Home and Hospital, where he was admitted in December for a heart condition, hospital officials said.

"Rochester" was a fixture on the Benny radio and television series for 23 years, since he appeared in what was supposed to be a one-shot role on Easter Sunday, 1937.

For a show based on Benny's move from New York to Hollywood, the writers invented a brash Pullman car porter to bedevil Benny on the trip West.

The audience response was so enthusiastic he was made a permanent part of the series, as Benny's all-purpose servant and general ego deflator.

For decades, the series drew laughs from Benny's frustrations with Rochester, the ancient Maxwell car he was supposed to tend, his drinking and social habits and general lack of awe about his employer.

Anderson, like Benny with his exasperated "Well!", could bring on a roar of laughter by the timing of a simple line, such as his trademark "What's that, boss?"

"I never played an Uncle Tom," Anderson said after a later generation of black performers criticized him for playing a servant.

"The scripts always called for me to get the best of Benny. The fact I played a valet had nothing to do with it. Arthur Treacher played those roles and nobody ever criticized him for it."

Anderson said he owed his distinctive voice to a job hawking newspapers in San Francisco when he was 12.

"We thought the loudest voice sold the most papers," he said. "I ruptured my vocal chords from straining them."

GLENN VICTIM OF SILVER GANG

Washington Post

WASHINGTON — A gold pair of cuff links from Lyndon Johnson and a tie clasp and other mementos from Soviet cosmonauts were among an estimated $30,000 worth of silverware, jewelry and medallions stolen Saturday from the $150,000 Potomac, Md., home of Senator John Glenn, police said Monday.

Glenn, the former astronaut who became the first American to orbit the earth in 1962, said the haul included at least 40 of his most cherished family heirlooms and medals from his career as an astronaut and navy flyer, many of which he had planned on giving to a museum.

Police said they believe the theft, which occurred just five days after the 15th anniversary of Glenn's pioneering space flight, may have been the work of a gang that stole over $1 million in valuables from wealthy Washington-area residents last year.

Montgomery, Md., and Fairfax, Va. County police believes the same thieves also are responsible for the burglaries last weekend of four other homes in affluent sections of the two counties.

The thieves, known as the "silver gang" because of their penchant for silver and other valuable metals, are believed responsible for a number of burglaries up and down the East Coast from New York to Florida, police said.

"They didn't break up the house," Glenn said Monday, "But they took many things of great sentimental value to me and my family. These things are really irreplaceable."

The similarity between how the silver gang ransacked homes in the area last year and how the Glenn home and the other homes were burgled had been noted almost immediately by police.

Allies Accused Of Killing Hess

WEST BERLIN — The son of former deputy Nazi leader Rudolf Hess accused the four wartime power Monday of making a concerted effort to murder his father in West Berlin's Spandau prison by denying him medical attention for crippling stomach pains.

A spokesman for the four powers confirmed earlier Monday that the 82-year-old Hess, Hitler's one-time deputy who has been serving a life sentence since 1947 for war crimes, slashed his wrist, elbow and leg in an attempt to kill himself. He previously attempted suicide after his capture by the British in 1941 and again in 1959 in Spandau.

Wolf Ruediger Hess, told a news conference that "what is happening in Spandau at the moment is the slow, planned and agonizing murder of my father."

He accused the Western allies — Britain, France and the United States — of failing to back statements that Hess should be released.

Monday's Allied statement was released through the French military mission.

The statement said Hess, the only prisoner in the 600-cell jail since 1966, tried to kill himself but lost little blood and was given immediate treatment.

The younger Hess said his father attempted suicide because of the psychological strain of being alone for so many years and by three weeks of unbearable stomach pains without proper treatment. He said there was a serious risk Hess would again try to kill himself.

A Nightmare In Jamaica

CALGARY — A seven-day nightmare ended Monday for two men after they were released from their "dungeon-like" cells in Jamaica.

Tom Pike and Tom Burdan flew to Jamaica on a holiday and on arrival at Montego Bay last Monday, the two were searched and their possessions seized.

Pike said they had exchanged more than $2,000 in Canadian funds into Jamaican currency at Toronto airport before arriving at Montego Bay.

"We didn't know it was illegal to bring Jamaican currency into Jamaica," Pike said.

The pair were immediately jailed on currency charges.

Pike said that other than bread and water they were served in jail, they received littl variety in food and no protein.

A police official said the men each paid a $350 fine out of the $2,000 in confiscated money that was returned to them. Pike and Burdan now are free enjoying the remainder of their holiday.

Dozy Rapist

NEW ORLEANS — The Louisiana Supreme Court has upheld the conviction of a man who fell asleep while attempting to rape a woman. Rayfield Hoffman was found asleep in the victim's bed, naked except for underwear around his knees. A hammer was found in the bed near his feet.

Rock Guitarist Richard On Heroin Count

Richard

TORONTO — Keith Richard, lead guitarist for The Rolling Stones, was free on $1,000 bail today pending a court appearance March 7 on charges of possession of heroin for the purpose of trafficking.

Richard, 33, an original member of the popular British rock group, could be sentenced to life in prison if convicted.

Last month he was fined in Britain for possession of cocaine and LSD.

Richard was arrested by the Royal Canadian Mounted Police Sunday in a raid at The Harbour Castle Hotel, where members of the Stones rented 20 rooms under assumed names.

RCMP drug unit spokesman Ron Belanger said about an ounce of heroin with an estimated value of $4,000 was seized in the raid.

"It wasn't pure," he said. "It was what we'd call 'street heroin.'"

Charged along with Richard was Anita Pallenberg, 34, described as his steady girlfrind for the past six or seven years.

She was charged with possession of heroin and will appear in provincial court in Brampton, Ont., March 3.

She was released on her promise to appear in court.

Miss Pallenberg also was arrested last Thursday at Toronto International Airport and charged with possession of hashish, a marijuana derivative.

At the time of her arrest, police said, a blackened spoon was confiscated for analysis.

Belanger said the result of the laboratory test sparked the RCMP raid on the Stones' hotel rooms.

A spokesman for the group, press agent Paul Wasserman, said the Stones will stay in Toronto to finish recording the album.

ROLLING STONE

By CHARLES YOUNG

Ten years after his draft exile in Canada, Jesse Winchester is going home to the U.S. in April. His management people have scheduled him for an appearance on NBC's Weekend and are pushing appearances on Saturday Night, in the White House and in the Tennessee Legislature.

Rolling Stone, Time and Country Music magazines have been approached for covers.

A tour of showcase clubs, kicked off by a major party for industry people, will be followed by another tour with a big act such as the the Eagles or Jackson Browne. The release of his new album, Nothing But a Breeze, is scheduled for release with his arrival.

Asked for a comment at his quarters in Montreal, Winchester said, "You seem to be a lot better informed on this than I am. I hope to make my first foray home private and personal. I don't want a big brouhaha about 'Jesse Comes Marching Home' or any of that garbage."

Phil Spector is producing a new Leonard Cohen album. Bob Dylan, Allen Ginsberg and Ronee Blakely have been singing background vocals on new Cohen originals such as Iodine and Don't Go Home ... Larry Levine who engineered all of Spector's work from He's a Rebel to Black Pearl is also working on the album.

"He's a weirdo now," said Levine when asked if Spector had changed much over the years. "He's a product of everything that's ever been written about him."

Sources close to the movie Sergeant Pepper have been leading the "top secret" at Hollywood parties that all four of the former Beatles have agreed to appear in the flick.

So classified is this information that even the Beatles have not been told.

"It's news to me," said Paul McCartney in London. "I know nothing about it."

Roy Harper, the English rocker and long-time friend of Pink Floyd, Led Zeppelin, etc., almost had to delay a tour of Britain when he caught a rare (in humans) flu-like virus called toxoplasmosis while giving mouth-to-mouth resuscitation to a sheep. Harper's flock had been having a rash of stillbirths and the musician was trying to save a ewe in labor.

Gus Dudgeon, producer of Elton John, walked out halfway through his second attempt to produce the new Eric Carmen album, Boats Against the Current. The first stab came last October when Carmen and his hometown Cleveland band flew to England to record at Dudgeon's favorite Marquee Studio.

"We spent $60,000 and 16 abysmal days desperately trying to disprove that the band wasn't happening in the studio," Carmen said.

So they formed a new band with Nigel Olsson, Dave Winter, Richie Zito and Richar Rising and tried to record at the Crystal Studio in Los Angeles.

Then one night Carmen brought in Bobby Keyes for some sax overdubs which Dudgeon already had booked Jim Horn to do two days later.

"Gus seemed too think Bobby was Beelzebub," said Carmen of the explosion where Dudgeon announced he was quitting and stomped out of the studio. "He's always been real nice to me."

Dudgeon has returned to England and Carmen, now producing himself, is working day and night to have the record ready for April release.

Station WPAP-FM in Panama City, Florida, reports that one day after playing In the Mood by the Henhouse Five Plus Too, a rendition of the Glen Miller classic that is clucked by chickens, they received a phone call from a farmer who said he had been working in the yard with his radio on.

His group of German shepherds went berserk when they heard the song, tore down the fence around the man's chicken coop and killed 10 of his 12 chickens. The station said it was considering dropping the song from its play-list.

The Bridge Expert

By FRED KARPIN

It has been illustrated in this column in the past that one of the most difficult things for the average bridge player to overcome is the natural tendency to win a trick whenever the opportunity presents itself. After all, one says to himself, the name of the game is "win tricks."

Especially does this frame of mind prevail when a suit is led and declarer can capture the trick by trumping. Why give a trick away when one can capture it?

In today's deal we have a case in point. It will be observed that the success of declarer's contract depended on whether or not he declined to win a trick that he was in a position to win if he chose to.

The bidding:

West	North	East	South
1 ◊	1 ♠	2 ◊	4 ♡
5 ◊	5 ♡	Pass	Pass
Pass

Opening lead: King of ◊.

When this deal arose, declarer ruffed West's opening lead of the diamond king. After drawing trumps, he cashed dummy's ace and king of spades, hoping to fell the queen. When the queen failed to drop he led a third spade, East's queen winning. East then shifted to a club and West cashed two club tricks to hand declarer a one-trick set.

Declarer committed an error when he ruffed West's opening lead of the diamond king. If he had looked ahead, he would have recognized that the danger to his contract lay in East's procurement of the lead with the spade queen, for if this happened, South's king of clubs would be in jeopardy.

South should have discarded a spade on the diamond king, conceding the trick. West would then have continued with another diamond, which South would ruff. The ace of trumps would be cashed next.

Now the ace and king of spades would be played, after which a third spade would be ruffed, as East's queen fell. Both of dummy's remaining spades would now be winners. A trump lead to dummy's queen would then be made, and declarer would discard his two clubs on the board's two high spades. Thus, by playing "safe," declarer would make an overtrick. But, evidently, the urge to trump a king with the three of trumps just couldn't be resisted by declarer.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

Astrological Forecast for Wednesday, March 2

By SYDNEY OMARR

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Challenge is on horizon — prepare by being thoroughly grounded in basics. Insist on security. Refuse to give up something of value for a mere promise or empty compliment Maintain balance, self-esteem. Older individual respects you but you must stand tall for principles.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Good news may be cause for celebration. Member of opposite sex figures in picture. Be ready for change, variety, opportunity for travel. Another Gemini, a Virgo and Sagittarian could be part of scenario. Accent on short trip, message, unusual reading material which provides information and inspiration.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Emphasis on costs, art objects, luxury items, vacation talk, plans. Family situation comes into focus. If reasonable, mature and "loving", you pave way to contentment, happiness. The choice is your own — it is either intrigue or the vibrancy of knowing that you mean something real to one who can give as well as receive.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Lunar cycle is such that circumstances favor your efforts. Means timing is on target. You bristle with energy. You are sensitive to needs of public. You are present; you know when something of importance is to occur. You will remember this day.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): You find where you stand: you solve a mystery. Spotlight on hospital, institution, backstage activity. Aura of glamour prevails, even while visiting someone temporarily confined. Cancer, Capricorn figure in picture. You make breakthrough which results in financial reward.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Accent on desire and how to fulfill it. Conscience is cleared — you get rid of burden you should not have carried in first place. Added recognition is due — an aggressive associate or friend cuts through red tape for your benefit.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Emphasis on prestige, road to the top, achievement. Cooperate in civic project. Exercise independence of thought, action — you can lead without being "bossy". Your vitality now will attract to you allies who pave way to success. You may plant seed which results in your election to public office.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Favorable Moon aspect coincides now with journeys, publication, long-range projects, the breaking down of language barriers. Follow through on hunch. Your sense of what is to be is on target. Aquarian figures prominently.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): What had been a "job log-jam" is removed. Progress replaces apathy. You receive news which could put you in mood to celebrate. Very fine — but remember recent resolution concerning moderation. Gemini, Sagittarius persons figure prominently. Co-worker, associate shares philosophical concept.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Accent on time, observation, legal technicalities, major commitments, including partnership and marriage. You may be asked to review, revise, to rebuild on a more solid structure. Time is on your side; be agreeable.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Study Aquarius message. Basic material deserves, even commands your attention. Leave flashy displays to others. For now, concentrate on what must be done to improve service, to streamline techniques, to eliminate delays. All of this will come into clear focus — if you so permit.

IF MARCH 2nd IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you are moody, sensitive, temperamental, fond of food, cooking, eating — you draw to you individuals born under Cancer and Capricorn. June will be your most important month of 1977, a year in which you consolidate, marry, go into business, have additional family responsibility. In April, you remodel or beautify surroundings — and you could change residence.

Which Cabbage to Plant?

When the home gardener opens a seed catalogue at Cabbage and finds six pages devoted to 50 varieties, there is a feeling of frustration and a temdency to settle for the variety with the most attractive name.

For the present we are interested in only the extra early, early, and their hybrids, which reduces our selection to eight varieties.

Among these are three not suited to the home garden. They are commercial strains of the "one cut" type, which means the entire crop is ready to harvest at one time.

This is ideal for the commercial grower. A field can be harvested in a couple of days and shipped to market, and the field prepared for another market crop without delay.

Not so for the home gardener, unless the crop is grown for processing, for the average home needs but one cabbage a week, not one dozen in two days.

Another factor affecting our choice is size. Among the eight early varieties we find heads ranging from 2 lbs. to 16 lbs. each, and maturing periods from 61 to 78 days.

It might be worth mentioning that in the case of cabbage and related plants (broccoli, cauliflower, kale, sprouts) the number of days to maturity is from the time of transplanting to the open garden.

For the total time from seeding to harvest we add six weeks for the February-March sowings and five weeks for the midseason and maincrop varieties sown in May-June.

Among the newer introductions the home gardener's choice is more or less limited to Early Greenball (63 days) 2½ lbs., and 4 inches in diameter, and Emerald Acre, considered to be the best tasting cabbage, averaging 3 lbs., and 4½ inches in diameter. These sizes are ideal for home use.

Among the hybrids, Hybrid Emerald Cross has many good points excepting for the statement "a high percentage can be cut at one time, with entire crop harvest in one week." It might be useful if sowing or transplanting is done at intervals.

While many gardeners prefer to buy cabbage plants for their needs there are several advantages to growing from seed.

First and foremost the gardener can grow the variety particularly liked by the family, and not be compelled to accept the choice of the grower. Most suppliers seem to lean to the commercial "One-cut" varieties.

Number one seed assures 100 per cent germination, and the seed is viable for four years, so that the annual cost is minimal.

The gardener can sow four to six seeds as a start and repeat in a week or ten days, thus spreading the time of harvesting. The chief complaint of the family cook is that the gardener has too many cabbage ready to eat when other vegetable crops are at their prime. In most gardens more cabbage bolt to seed than are consumed by the household.

The few seeds needed now can be sown in a clay pot and put into a warm place where the soil temperature will be around 22 degs. Celsius. Germination should take place in about four days, after which a temperature of 10 to 15 degs. C. suits the seedlings.

Aftertransplanting, the seedlings can be grown on in a greenhouse with supplemental heat for clear frosty nights, or the plants covered with layers of newspapers at night and the paper removed at sunrise each morning.

A coldframe is also suitable with thick mat covers at night for frost protection, but the plants will take a little longer to reach planting-out size.

Communist Rift in Italy

By SARI GILBERT
Washington Post

ROME — The recent flareup of dissent within the Soviet Union and Eastern Europe is bringing the Italian Communist Party under increasing pressure to better define its stand on civil liberties in this country and leading to growing criticism over its alleged failure to do so.

Although the Italian Communists have always been cautious in their relations with the Soviet Union, and in recent months have shown more restraint in their dealings with Eastern dissidents than the French Communist Party, the latest events have given the impression that the party is backtracking.

Western Europe's largest communist party, and its most powerful both in votes and in the sense that the party provides essential support to the minority Christian democratic government, the Italian Communists are widely considered the founders of Eurocommunism, a brand of communism that aims to combine socialism and democracy.

Because of their verbal commitment to Eurocommunism and their past outspokennes against the 1968 invasion of Czechoslovakia and for autonomy from the Soviet Union, expectations regarding the Italian Communists' support for Eastern Europe's dissidents have been high.

As a party whose votes come mainly from Italians fed up with 30 years of Christian Democratic rule, the Communists' support for a Christian Democratic government has created confusion and some disaffection among its followers.

Despite a commitment to the Italian government's austerity plan, whose success theoretically hinges on the need to cut Italy's excessively high labor costs, the party has been unable to convince the powerful leftwing unions to give up an inflationary system of automatic cost-of-living wage increases.

Inside sources say party membership in the industrial north fell off by 10 per cent in the first weeks of the year. Most of the dropouts have been older workers schooled in the Stalinist period. A riot following an attempt by the party's top labor leader to convince striking Rome University students to return to their classes indicated tha party's influence over Italian youth may also be waning.

So, it did not come as a surprise when, in a major speech to Communist workers in Milan at the end of January, party secretary Enrico Berlinguer downplayed dissent in the East, only briefly mentioning "certain illiberal characteristics of the political regimes of some countries of Eastern Europe."

Such criticism, he said, would not lead the Italian party to deny the "decisive historic function" of the 1917 October Revolution, the progress of the Communist countries and their "struggles for peace." Long excerpts from the speech were reprinted in the Soviet Communist Party daily Pravda.

Barlinguer said on a nationally televised program that he saw no reason for an ideological break with Moscow. He said he disagrees with Spanish Communist leader Santiago Carillo that the Soviet Union is not a socialist country but a dictatorship of one stratum over the entire society.

Communist leaders insist there has been no change to their basic position of independence from Moscow, commitment to Western democracy and acceptance of the NATO alliance.

Well-informed Italian observers said it was likely that the Communist's current internal weakness had convinced them that a return to their traditional ties might be advisable.

An unprecedented front-page article on dissent in Eastern Europe that appeared in the Communist daily Unita on Dec. 29 was followed by sharp criticism of the Czechoslovak government's treatment of the signers of the Charter 77 manifesto.

Italian Communists condemned the expulsion of singer Wolf Bierman from East Germany. They deplored new arrests of Soviet dissidents. The Italian Communist publishing house decided to publish dissident Roy Madvedev's book "Was the October Revolution Inevitable?" Six top Italian party intellectuals signed a petition in favor of the Czechoslovak dissidents that inside sources say had the leadership's tacit approval.

The party is clearly caught in a bind. Its traditional caution in public comments about the Kremlin reflects a desire to avoid alienating its own pro-Soviet elements. Some well-informed observers also suggest that party leaders fear Moscow's ultimate weapon — stimulating a party split, definitively ending the Communists' dream of becoming Italy's No. 1 party.

"Our continued criticism of the Eastern regimes would have a major impact there, so we must be careful," one Communist senator confided.

Little Damage From Old Oil

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (UPI) — Long-range adverse environmental affects are not evident from the 145 million gallons of oil dumped into Atlantic waters during the early months of the Second World War, according to a study by three ocean engineers.

The study may dispel present-day fears of disastrous environmental effects of the 7.6 million gallon Argo Merchant oil spill, which engulfed the Nantucket Shoals area last December.

In an analysis of the wartime ship sinkings, MIT researchers concluded tankers sunk by German submarines off the East Coast spilled 20 times as much oil as the Argo Merchant, with little negative environmental impact.

The ocean engineers said spills off the New Jersey coast in 1942 caused little damage. In interviews with area residents, the researchers were told excellent fishing continued during the war years and healthy fish and bird populations existed, despite the fact that three tankers sank there.

The analysis, supported by a grant from the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration's Sea Grant office, showed the wartime oil spills dumped many times more oil than the Argo Merchant into waters from Block Island to Key West.

It said 100 ships, many carrying petroleum products to Boston and New York ports, were sunk starting in July, 1942.

"Our results showed the Cape Hattras area of North Carolina . . . saw the greatest volume of oil spilled over the longest period of time." said researcher Brad Campbell.

Edward Kern, another MIT researcher, said area residents confirmed that about 160,000 thousand barrels of oil from three spills drifted out to sea.

"Near Cape Hatteras the Gulf Stream would tend to carry oil slicks out to sea, away from coastal habitats," Kern said.

Trees Mark Jubilee

LONDON (CP)— Part of the ravages of Dutch elm disease, which destroyed nine million elm trees in Britain in the last few years, will be made good by a charity which has been started to mark the Queen's silver jubilee. The Queen's Trees has been registered as a national charity and will encourage the planting of commemorative trees.

Poison Lingers in Italian Town

SEVESO (Reuter) — Fear, confusion and anger mark the Italian town of Seveso seven months after a chemical factory explosion spread a cloud of deadly poison over the surrounding countryside.

Visitors receive contradictory information about what is being done. Citizens complain angrily of government inaction.

One woman died of liver cancer and doctors do not rule out the possibility her death was at least partly coused by dioxin. Two baby boys have been born with malformations —although the poison has not been officially blamed.

Most new-born babies appear to be clinically healthy, doctors say. But the long-term effects of dioxin will not be known for generations.

Seven months after the explosion citizens say the poison is still spreading. It has entered schools and public buildings and has been swept into other areas by heavy rains or by the wheels of cars and trucks.

Some mothers keep their children at home while others let them play near the polluted zones. The schools have been closed and reopened after being cleaned.

"It's terrible to live with this fear; with this invisible enemy all the time," one woman said. "I wash the floor three times a day. Each time I grab an apple, I scrub it and think 'Is that stuff still there?' "

Adding to the fear is the prospect of a huge incinerator to be established in the middle of the polluted area, to burn all material contaminated by dioxin.

"An incinerator of this kind will kill Seveso," Mayor Francesco Rocco warned. Damage done by the Icmesa accident is already enormous, he said. "People lost their homes and it may be years before they can return."

Zone A, the worst hit area, is divided into seven sections according to the degree of pollution. The most contaminated section is in the factory vicinity where up to 5,000 micrograms of dioxin a square yard has been measured, a thousand times above the danger limit.

Anti-pollution workers now are removing a layer of several inches of earth from the gardens and cleaning the interiors of all houses. All collected material, including several thousand tons of earth, will be burned in the incinerator.

Dioxin is believed to disintegrate at a rate of 50 per cent a year. "In 15 years there will be no dioxin in the area," one scientist said.

But this seems small consolation for the people of Seveso and neighboring towns of Meda, Cesano Maderno, Seregno and Desio, who have been warned that dioxin can cause liver problems and fetal and genetic damage years after it is consumed.

TRAVEL DISPUTE CANCELS TV SHOW

TORONTO (CP) — Television technicians at CBC went back to work at several Toronto program locations Monday after the corporation agreed to talk over a transportation allowance complaint that had brought about a brief work stoppage earlier in the day.

Taping of an edition of the lunchtime Bob McLean Show for showing today was cancelled because of the dispute.

A union spokesman said that under the CBC's contract with the National Association of Broadcast Employees and Technicians (NABET), cameramen and other technicians are to report for work each day at corporation-owned bases, and then receive both a time allowance and travel expenses to get to remote locations, if their programs are being produced there.

The McLean show is set in rented studios in Metropolitan Toronto that had come under this clause as had the King of Kensington comedy series, produced at another studio, and some film projects done at still another studio.

Recently, the network declared the three sites to be CBC locations which cut off the time and travel allowances, the union spokesman said.

The technicians showed up for work Monday at CBC's main studio but refused to report to the McLean studio a few blocks away.

Ozone Layer Damage Reduced—Scientists

WASHINGTON (AP) — Scientists say some of the chemicals thought to damage the atmosphere's protective ozone layer apparently break down before causing harm. But the amount destroyed probably is too small to reduce the overall problem greatly, they add.

Scientists at the U.S. commerce department's National Bureau of Standards said in a report released Saturday they discovered that two implicated fluorocarbon chemicals and another related one break down when absorbed by sand and bathed in sunlight.

Dr. Pierre Ausloos said this previously unsuspected breakdown of fluorocarbons illustrates that there may be other unknown processes in nature that affect the amount of fluorocarbons reaching the upper atmosphere.

But Ausloos said he does not believe the process he and Dr. Richard Rebbert discovered has more than a minimal effect on the total amount of fluorocarbons dumped into the air.

Concern about fluorocarbons has increased since 1974 when Dr. Mario Molina and Dr. Frank Rowland of the University of California said computer studies indicated the chemicals used as aerosol spray can propellants and refrigerants reached the upper atmosphere.

Once in the stratosphere, Molina and Rowland said, high energy solar radiation decomposes the chemicals releasing fluorine atoms that destroy ozone.

Ozone shields the earth from high energy solar radiation and scientists fear its depletion would lead to increases in skin cancer, changes in vegetation and animal life, and possibly affect climate.

Last September, the National Academy of Sciences released a report saying that while more study is needed, all indications are that fluorocarbons are depleting ozone and that some regulation of use would almost certainly be necessary.

Since then, the Food and Drug Administration, the Environmental Protection Agency and the Consumer Product Safety Commission have taken steps to ban many fluorocarbon uses within two years.

Fluorocarbon manufacturers say such action is premature and should await further study. Chemical companies say unknown reactions, like the one discovered by Ausloos and Rebbert, might reduce th threat.

But a member of the National Academy of Sciences panel who studied the problem and is aware of the new Bureau of Standards study said most new data since the academy report strengthens arguments that there is no unknown factor lessening the problem.

Ausloos said the discovery that low energy solar radiation breaks down fluorocarbons bound to sand or quartz is less significant for the fluorocarbons than for a related chemical, carbon tetrachloride.

The two scientists found that the process was 10 times less efficient at breaking down fluorocarbons than at breaking down carbon tetrachloride. Because of this discovery, the scientists believe the process will have little effect on the ozone problem.

"If indeed fluorocarbons were destroyed to a significant extent by the process, then that would mean there shouldn't be any more carbon tetrachloride left on the planet," Ausloos concluded. "But of course, we know that there is."

Flying to Increase

WASHINGTON (AP) — Airline passenger traffic will double by 1988, a recent report by the Federal Aviation Administration showed. The number of domestic passengers is expected to reach 393.2 million persons, up from 195.1 million persons in 1976. International passengers will jump to 35.3 million from 16.7 million.

Saanich Rejects 'Pigeon Loft'

A proposal to build 11 townhouses — whose design was described by Ald. Sandy Noel as "nothing short of pigeon lofts" — was unanimously rejected Monday by Saanich council.

About 130 residents crammed the council chamber to oppose the project, proposed for 1160 Reynolds Road.

One of the opponents, architect R. D. Morgan, 1198 Reynolds, said he did not oppose development of the property but described the design as an "affront to the sensitivity" of nearby residents.

Terry Smallock, spokesman for developer W. A. Hadfield, said 11 three-bedroom units were designed for the site, originally a holly farm, and offered to build a fence around the entire area.

"A fence ... This to me suggests it's something you want to hide. We don't want it," one man retorted.

In other business council approved rezoning to allow a duplex to be built on the southeast corner of Braefoot Road and McKenzie Avenue, providing a letter of intent is received from the developer agreeing to provide a 10-foot road allowance with curbs and gutters.

New Trial on Discharging Barge

VANCOUVER (CP) — The craft "Gulf Aladdin" may have no engines, no crew and no rudder and goes only where a tug takes it, but it still is a ship as far as the Canada Shipping Act is concerned, the B.C. court of appeal ruled Monday.

Mr. Justice A. B. Carrothers allowed a crown appeal and ordered a new trial on an oil pollution charge after ruling that the tanker barge is still "used in navigation" and continues to be ship regardles of whether it is at rest, anchored, tied to wharf or beached.

The crown appeal was launched after provincial court judge W. D. Scow dismissed a pollution charge laid against the gulf barge after oil was allegedly discharged into the waters at B.C. Forest Products' wharf near Crofton.

The provincial court judge had dismissed the charge on grounds that the barge is not a ship because it cannot navigate independently.

Oil Spill Fine $4,000 for CP

VANCOUVER (CP) — Canadian Pacific Ltd. was found guilty Monday of spilling more than 100 gallons of oil into False Creek in Vancouver Oct. 30, 1975.

Provincial court judge Skip McCarthy fined the company $4,000 and gave it until March 18 to pay.

The judge said he took into account that CP and its employees acted quickly to clean up the spill and that the company has since installed a new oil separator on its property to the north end of False Creek.

Judge McCarthy noted, however, that CP Ltd. — one of the largest corporations in Canada — had several convictions relating to pollution offences so the fine should not be so small as to "invite further breaches".

The company had been charged with two pollution counts but Crown proseeutor Harry Wruck entered a stay of proceedings on one count, since both charges stemmed from the same incident.

Wruck said the company did not exercise due diligence to prevent the spill and he said a 1914 oil separator on CP's property was antiquated and not suitable as a pollution abatement device.

The spill occurred after a gasket from a CP Rail locomotive blew up, causing 60 gallons of lubrication oil to leak into a roundhouse and the oil spearator, causing the oil to overflow into the marina.

Defence lawyer Pauline Maughan argued the spill was accidental. She claimed that the separator was adequately maintained in that it was cleaned at one-month intervals.

Kicked by Bolting Jumper, Pedestrian Gets $16,358

VANCOUVER (CP) — Mr. Justice R. P. Anderson of the British Columbia Supreme Court was critical Monday of the Burnaby Horsemen's Association for lack of supervision during a riding event in which a pedestrian walking near the show was kicked by a horse.

He awarded Theresa Marie Girdler $16,358 for serious leg injuries she received in October, 1973, when struck by a horse which bolted after throwing its rider.

Court was told the finish line of the riding event was in a corridor leading to the street. The rider galloped down the corridor and toward the Burnaby street when the horse bolted, throwing her and striking the pedestrian.

Trees Hit By Insects —Report

KITIMAT, (CP) — A company-commissioned report on stunted trees near the Aluminum Co. of Canada's smelter has concluded the trees were damaged by insects, not flrouride emissions from the smelter.

A report prepared last year for the Canadian Association of Smelter and Allied Workers concluded the trees in a 20-mile timber belt north of union report was prepared by fluoride concentrations. The the smelter were damaged by Dr. C. C. Gordon, botany professor at the University of Montana.

The company report, prepared by Reid Collins and Associates Ltd. and released at the weekend, said direct mortality due to fluoride emissions could not be proven."

The study, begun in 1973, found the tree growth rate reduction was 28 per cent in 4,600-acre area and 19 per cent over a larger 12,800-acre area. Trees close to the smelter showed the effect of fluoride concentration, the study said, but the reduced growth rate was "not large."

The report said the entire forest surveyed contained a gross timber volume of 3.2 million cunits worth an estimated $8 million. A cunit is 100 cubic feet of solid wood.

The company study concluded the forest lost 800,000 cunits of timber worth $3.3 million because of insects but only $90,000 worth of timber because of fluoride presence.

Immigrants Apply

PRINCE GEORGE (CP) — Alfonso and Myriam Miranda will leave this central B.C. city within 10 days to apply for landed immigrant status from outside the country, their lawyer said Monday.

Miranda, 25, and his wife came to Canada in February and December of 1975 to escape political persecution in Chile.

Earlier this month, another Chilean family, the Ricardo Leiva family of Prince George, was granted landed immigrant status after being forced to seek self-imposed exile in Spain for six months.

NDP Responsible?

PENTICTON (CP) — Agriculture Minister Jim Hewitt said Monday New Democratic Party critics of a condominium development near an observatory here should have halted the construction themselves when they formed the government.

Hewitt was replying to demands by Dennis Cocke, New Democratic Party member of the legislature for New Westminster, that the provincial government act immediately to prevent a condominium development that would interfere with work at the Dominion radio astrophysical observatory at White Lake, 15 miles south of Penticton.

No Expansion

VANCOUVER (CP) — Mayor Jack Volrich said Monday that he has been told by Transport Minister Otto Lang that the federal government has no plans at present to proceed with the controversial expansion of Vancouver International Airport.

Volrich, speaking after a meeting with Lang, said the federal minister told him airport expansion won't take place unless it is essential and is acceptable locally.

TRIAL DATE SET IN TRUST FRAUD

VANCOUVER (CP) — Francis (Frank) Trebell, former chairman and chief execution officer of Yorkshire Trust Company, will stand trial Sept. 6, charged with 29 counts of theft and fraud involving almost $12 million.

Trebell, with a team of lawyers headed by Allan McEachern, appeared before provincial judge Les Bewley Monday. No plea was entered and an election on the method on which to proceed has yet to be made.

The Crown indicated the trial, or a preliminary hearing if Tregell elects to be tried by a high court judge, will last eight weeks in court.

Trebell resigned last July as chairman and chief executive officer of Yorkshire Trust Company

The total involved in the theft charges is $11,850,000. The fraud charges, each of which relates to the theft charge, aggregate $5.8 million. An additional charge of conspiracy involves $3 million, which is included in the total of the theft charges.

The charges followed a 15-month investigation by the B.C. Ministry of Consumer and Corporate Affairs, which alleges that money was taken from various mutual funds held by Yorkshire Trust and reinvested for private gain.

Assessment Cut On Flood Plain

PORT ALBERNI (CP) — The assessment court of revision ruled Monday that property owners in a flood-plain area of the city are allowed a 25-per-cent reduction in the assessed values of their land.

Court of revision chairman Jack Ellis said the decision applies to all land affected by bylaws which place restrictions on construction and land filling in the flood-plain area.

The judgment of the court of revision says the passage of two bylaws in April, 1976, which effectively prohibit subdivision on the flood-prone land, has "severely restricted the use of properties . . . and values have deteriorated."

The court ruled that land assessments will be reduced by 25 per cent on all properties regardless of whether assessments are appealed.

The court's judgment came after appeals were heard last week on behalf of about 150 residents of the Lugrin Creek flood plain.

Petronella Nalleweg, who with her husband was a principal appellant in hearings last Tuesday, said the assessment reduction is not sufficient.

"Twenty-five per cent is not good enough," she said "We want zero."

She said she will continue to act on behalf of flood plain residents to have the bylaws rescinded with assessments reduced to zero in the meantime.

The bylaws were passed in response to provincial government pressure to limit building and subdivision on flood-prone land.

25c GAS TAX EYED IN U.S.

NEW YORK (AP) — President Carter is considering a proposal that a tax of 25 cents a gallon or more be added to the retail price of gasoline, CBS News reported Monday.

CBS reported authoritative sources said the tax would be the most significant part of the president's comprehensive energy program scheduled to be made public April 20.

There was no comment on the report from the White House.

Quoting an unnamed White House source said to be familiar with White House thinking, CBS said the tax at the gasoline pump would be just one part of an energy program that would surprise people by its toughness

OTTAWA (CP) — Total unemployment insurance payments for 1976 were $3.362 billion, up six per cent from the previous year, Statistics Canada reported Monday.

Statistics Canada said that in 1976 there were 36,190,000 weeks of benefit paid to 2,678,000 claimants compared with 37,327,000 weeks paid to 2,857,000 claimants in 1975.

Average weekly payments in 1976 stood at $92.89 compared with $84.64 in 1975.

Alaska Oil Pact For Cherry Point

Atlantic Richfield Co. and Trans Mountain Pipe Line Ltd. have signed an agreement to transport Alaska oil from Cherry Point, Washington, to Alberta through British Columbia.

The agreement, which would have to be approved by the National Energy Board and American regulatory agencies, involves $125 million in spending to upgrade the Cherry Point dock and to install pumping equipment in B.C. to reverse the flow of oil through the pipeline.

It would mean an increase in supertanker traffic in the Juan de Fuca Strait.

At present, oil flows from Alberta to refineries in B.C. and a small amount goes to a spur line to Cherry Point.

Under the agreement, the pipeline would flow alternately east and west so B.C. refineries would continue to be served by Alberta oil. The quality of Alaska oil is not suitable for B.C. refineries.

The transfer of Alaska oil could begin as early as 1978, the companies said.

Arco will spend $50 million to expand the Cherry Point dock and to build some terminal and pipeline eequipment. The system could carry 10,000 barrels of oil per day once in operation.

Former provincial Liberal leader David Anderson, who opposed the Alaska oil pipeline, said today the Arco-Trans Mountain agreement could be good for Canada — but Cherry Point is the wrong place for the terminal.

Anderson said the Alaska oil should be unloaded at a site west of Port Angeles and then move by a new pipeline around Puget Sound to Cherry Point, where it could join the Trans Mountain pipeline.

Anderson said the time has come for British Columbia to stop using Alberta oil and begin taking supplies from other countries.

"Alberta has only a 15-year supply and it should begin to think in terms of conserving its resources."

British Columbia refineries could be supplied at competitive prices from any number of other countries, he said.

"But the important thing is that no tanker should ever come east of Port Angeles. The oil should be unloaded west of Port Angeles, around Neah Bay, and then move by pipeline from there."

Anderson said if British Columbia continues to use up Alberta oil it will eventually have to go into the world market to buy crude.

"It is better to be buying in the world market now than in a few years time when it will be much more expensive."

Anderson said the national energy board should approve the Trans Mountain-Arco proposal but with the restriction that the oil is unloaded west of Port Angeles, not at Cherry Point.

Proceeding east of Port Angeles greatly increases the hazard of an oil spill, he said.

There has been opposition from environmental groups in both Canada and the United States to the use of the Cherry Point area to unload Alaska oil.

Under the agreement, Arco is expected to acquire a major interst in Trans Mountain Oil Pipe Line Corp., a Trans Mountain subsidiary which owns the pipeline spur line in Washington State.

The Trans Mountain-Arco proposal will compete with one by a consortium of companies to build a $500 million pipeline from Kitimat to Edmonton to transport Alaska oil that way.

B.C. Fed Warns Gov't

The B.C. Federation of Labor — in a surprise meeting today with Labor Minister Allan Williams — warned the government to stay away from anti-union legislation — to avoid "massive and undesirable consequences."

In a 13-page brief to the minister, the federation says it decided to present its views now rather than wait for its tradional annual meeting with the cabinet because it is concerned the government might rush into labor legislation without consultation.

"We are seriously concerned that the submissions of employers' groups and the "kite-flying" in speeches by the premier and other cabinet members may lead to rash and ill-considered changes in labor legislation which could cause massive disruption to industrial relations in B.C.," the brief says.

The federation says it is not threatening but it does predict "massive and undesirable consequences from any legislative attack on the rights of organized workers."

The brief suggests some major changes in the B.C. Labor Code although it admits the code is a great improvement over previous legislation.

NAIROBI, Kenya — President Idi Amin has lifted his order banning U.S. citizens from leaving Uganda. He also has postponed for the seconnd time the meeting to which he summoned all U.S. nationals living in his East African country.

Amin said today U.S. citizens in Uganda "are now free to go anywhere they wish, such as going for holidays or going about their normal business, be it inside or outside Uganda," Radio Uganda reported.

Amin forbade the estimated 240 U.S. citizens in Uganda from leaving the country last Friday and ordered them to meet with him on Monday at the international conference centre in Kampala, his capital.

During the weekend the meting was moved to the Entebbe airport, 19 miles from Kampala, and postponed until Wednesday. And on Monday Radio Uganda announced the meeting has been put off indefinitely, with a new date to be announced later.

Meanwhile, the United States has asked Swiss and other West European charter airlines about the possibility of evacuating Americans from Uganda.

Airline officials said today one such approach was made to BALAIR, the charter company owned by the Swiss national airline Swissair, officials of that company said.

American diplomatic sources said similar approaches have been made to other charter airlines, especially those in neutral Austria and Sweden.

The White House said Monday that the president sent a message to Amin thanking him for his assurances that the U.S. citizens in Uganda were not in danger.

Anti-Vandal Scheme May Hike Local Taxes

Government funding for school anti-vandalism programs is welcome, but a new insurance system announced by Education Minister Pat McGeer could be more costly for taxpayers, Rendina Hamilton, president of the B.C. School Trustees Association, said Monday.

Hamilton said that in the long term, the new system could hit local taxpayers hard.

She said that even though it provides that property owners will not have to pay more than one additional mill in the first year after a loss and not more than two mills in the second year, a series of fires over several years would compound the additional mills and lead to "a very serious situation."

Under the new system, school districts will have a $5 million decuctible clause in their fire and vandalism insurance, and will be responsible for paying part of their own losses.

The government has purchased insurance to cover school losses in excess of $5 million on any single given loss, but the first $5 million will be handled under the normal capital financing plan by which the province pays 50 to 90 per cent of the cost, depending on the district's ability to pay.

McGeer said a special clause in the capital finance plan provided that, even in the event of a major disaster, property owners in the affected school district will not have to pay more than one additional mill in the first

PORTLAND (AP) — Oregon became the first state today to ban the sale of sprays that use fluorocarbons as propellants, but it hasn't decided how to enforce the ban.

Two years ago, lawmakers cited evidence that fluorocarbons damage the earth's protective ozone layer. The law they adopted went into effect today.

Anyone convicted of selling the contraband cans faces a maximum penalty of one year in jail and a $1,000 fine.

The law doesn't prohibit use of the sprays. So anyone who wants to stick with a favorite aerosol oven-cleaner or underarm deodorant can cross the state line to buy it.

Major retail chains began preparing for the deadline some time ago. Fred Meyer Inc., which operates 30 large stores in Oregon, posted signs identifying products known to contain fluorocarbons. All were to be off the shelves today, said Dale Warmon, Fred Meyer vice-president for marketing.

Williams Startled

Labor Minister Allan Williams was "a little bit startled" Monday to hear of the International Woodworkers of America package increase demand of about 30 per cent.

"It's obviously an opening shot," Williams said. "But, yes, I must say I was a little bit startled."

He said this year is the first year the 42,000-member forest union would come under the anti-inflation guidelines, "so they would be limited to eight per cent."

"Either they will reduce their demand significantly or it would be a matter for the AIB (Anti-Inflation Board) to deal with," the minister said.

But, he said, parties in negotiations normally take extreme positions in the beginning and then modify them as bargaining continues.

Negotiations are expected to begin in late March.

The major demands include an across-the-board wage increase of $1 an hour; cost of living adjustment improvements; a guaranteed annual wage; and pension upgrading.

Herring Tendermen End Strike

VANCOUVER (CP) — About 500 tendermen in the herring roe fishery, members of the United Fishermen and Allied Workers' Union, ended their strike Monday following settlement of a contract with the Fisheries Association of B.C.

George Hewison, union secretary, said settlement of the contract meant fishermen members of the union could begin the fishery. They had been on strike in support of the tendermen.

Hewison said the new agreement, favored by a 98 per cent vote, was a breadkthrough. He said tendermen will receive an interim wage increase of $4.50 a day and will receive $1.75 a ton for moving herring from fishboat to fishpacker.

Handicapped Misinformed?

Gibson asked the Speaker to "exercise appropriate discipline" for actions by Vander Zalm which draws the legislature into "disrepute."

Gibson was referring to a letter written by the minister to handicapped people explaining why they have not been given a $22.50-a-month increase in their handicapped allowance.

The $22.50 a month was given to the province by the federal government and such increases are normally passed on to the recipients by the province.

The letter said: "I can assure you that under no cirumstances has this ministry received $22.50 per client, nor have we failed to pass along a benefit provided for that purpose, as some critics have suggested."

Gibson pointed out a paragraph in the letter which said the budget for handicapped people hadn't increased when the federal government provided more income assistance to the province last October because the opposition hadn't had the opportunity to scrutinize the expenditure in the legislature during the budget debate.

Gibson described the paragraph as false and said it was an "attempt to blame this house" for the government's decision to hold back the increase.

Rates paid to handicapped people are increased by order-in-council, Gibson said, and there is no need to ask for the legislature's approval.

If Vander Zalm wants a resolution from the legislature allowing him to pass on the federal increase, he said, the minister should bring one in immediately.

Other attempts to get a definite answer from Finance Minister Evan Wolfe (acting human resources minister in Vander Zalm's absence) met with silence, evasion or rulings by the Speaker that questions were out of order.

Rosemary Brown (NDP — Vancouver - Burrard) asked Wolfe if he'd be prepared to introduce a resolution to pass the $22.50 on to the handicapped. The Speaker ruled out the question.

The premier was asked by Gibson if he agreed the decision to pass on the $22:50 could be made in cabinet, and didn't require house approval.

"Changes are made by the minister," Bennett replied.

Gibson thanked the premier and then asked if he'd ask the minister to pass on the money but he was ruled out of order by the Speaker. He said it is improper to ask one minister

Whip System Falters

By LIZ HUGHES
Times Staff

A breakdown in the legislative whip system Monday resulted in a marathon three-hour speech by Liberal leader Gordon Gibson, a rare Monday night sitting and rumors of continued night sittings at least for the rest of this week.

Opposition MLAs charged the government is not consulting them on the order of house business, and government whip George Mussallem said the opposition is simply trying to liven up debate by its stalling tactics.

The breakdown began early in the afternoon sitting and calls for time-consuming recorded votes came on almost every issue.

The whip system is designed to ensure that debate on government bills and spending estimates flows smoothly. The government whip is supposed to tell opposition the order of debate.

NDP whip Dennis Cocke said the government is deliberately changing the order of business without notice to the opposition, making it impossible to muster arguments. The government is trying to keep the opposition off balance, he said.

Mussallem, Cocke said, had given them only 15 minutes notice of the order of business Monday afternoon.

Food Prices Spurt 2% in Month

OTTAWA (FP) — A 2.1 per cent jump in food prices in the last four weeks has given Finance Minister Donald Macdonald new worries about the removal of income and price controls.

The Anti-Inflation Board reported the spurt in food prices Monday.

The 2.1 per cent increase was an exceptional rise for a single month.

And although that figure is not likely to be repeated in another four week period, officials are concerned that the trend to lower prices which helped inflation fighting efforts last year could be reversed.

They are particularly concerned about widespread drought in the Canadian and U.S. west which, if it continues, could result in short crops and rapidly escalating food prices later this year.

There are also increases projected for oil, totalling perhaps 8.6 cents per gallon this yar.

In addition to other factors, devaluation of the Canadian dollar will make food imports more expensive, and the inflation rate worse.

Some officials suggest that, rather than approaching the target of six per cent inflation in 1977, by year-end it could be running at eight to 10 per cent.

Under those circumstances, some officials argue, it would be foolhardy to start removing anti-inflation controls too soon.

The Oct. 14 date for the start of decontrol is becoming less likely all the time, some officials say.

Macdonald said Monday that Oct. 14 is only one date in a range of options which the federal government is discussing with the provinces, business and labor. (See also story on page 3.)

He said that when discussions are completed, in the fairly near future, the government will make an announcement to remove some of the uncertainty.

Those pressing for a later date, rather than an earlier one, insist that under no circumstances should decontrol begin before Jan. 1, 1978.

The board said fresh vegetable prices have risen by 8.6 per cent in the last four weeks.

Gypsy Jury Starts Deliberations

Crown and defence lawyers gave their addresses to the jury Monday in the B.C. Supreme Court murder trial in Victoria of 30-year-old John Edward Aitken.

The assize jury of eight men and four women was to begin its deliberations today after being addressed by Mr. Justice Harry McKay.

Aitken, a beer parlor waiter, is accused of first-degree murder by causing the death of Marie Alice Monique Nardelli (Gypsy) Dhillon, 30, while committing rape.

The mother of three was found, beaten and strangled, on a grassy slope between Anson Crescent and the beach at Macaulay Point in Esquimalt on Sept. 9.

Crown counsel J. W. Anderson, who was assisted by Armand Petronio, told the jury the prosecution had presented what in law was described as a circumstantial case.

This was not entirely unlike a jigsaw puzzle, he said, but it was for the jury to decide if the pieces fitted together.

He said the prosecution had presented "certain pieces of evidence" from which it believed the jury was entitled and justified in drawing certain inferences.

He added that proof beyond a reasonable doubt (a requirement in a criminal case) "is not proof beyond perfection."

As evidence of rape, he mentioned her missing panties, which were never found; that Mrs. Dhillon was the subject of a "savage beating" around the time of death, which was consistent with lack of consent; external and internal injuries in the vaginal area; and presence of blood in the vagina was not consistent with intercourse with her husband a day earlier and the spermatozoa and blood were attributable to sex after that she had with her husband.

Anderson also said she wasn't a virgin or menstruating.

He said blood was found in 11 locations in Aitken's motorhome and one location contained blood of a type consistent with Mrs. Dhillon's and that found on her dress, and that such a blood type occurred in approximately nine of every 1,000 persons.

He said scalp and pubic hair "similar" to Mrs. Dhillon's was found in the motorhome, as was a broken fingernail with the same type of polish as that worn by Mrs. Dhillon.

Because of her high blood alcohol content, bordering intoxication, she was probably capable of only a limited response to her attacker.

He said Aitken was the last person seen alive with Mrs. Dhillon, she was "clearly" in the motorhome, and the Anson Crescent area wasn't widely known to the general public "but it is to scuba divers, of which group the accused is one."

The area also was "not far" from the Halfway House beer parlor, where both were seen in the evening of Sept. 8, and 707 Esquimalt Road, where Aitken lived, he said.

Mrs. Dhillon's bluejean jacket was not with her when she went to her apartment with Aitken to change, and was not found in her apartment later.

But that jacket, or a similar jacket, was found under her body off Anson Crescent.

Anderson said expert witnesses had said a plaster half-cast and bandage worn by Aitken because of a previous work injury were suitable to cause the strangulation, asphyxiation and death of Mrs. Dhillon.

He said Aitken "clearly" changed his shirt during the evening.

As to Aitken and his wife going to Mexico for a vacation after the death, he said there was "no significance" to this because apparently the trip had been planned for some time.

And as to questions about the time of death, he said the experts said they didn't have much detail to work with.

Defence counsel Gordon MacDonald, who was assited by Lyman Robinson, said it was impossible for Aitken to do all the Crown alleged in the time Anderson spoke to the jury (about half an hour).

He said Aitken and Mrs. Dhillon left her apartment at approximately 9.30 p.m. after she changed from blue jeans to a dress, according to the testimony of her room-mate, Theresa Vickson.

Said MacDonald: "9:30 p.m. is when the clock starts, as far as this case is concerned." After that, she was not seen alive again.

But Aitken was back at the Halfway House "about 10 o'clock" and picked his wife up from work at 10:15 p.m., spending the rest of the evening, that night and the following morning at home.

He said Aitken didn't have time, between 9:30 and 10 p.m., to drive Mrs. Dhillon from her home on Dowler Place to Anson Crescent, murder her while committing rape, change his shirt and return to the Halfway House.

As for the time of death, he recalled one expert witness who said rigor mortis would be complete in nine hours.

Yet, Esquimalt police Sgt. Doug Sproxton said at 11:25 a.m. Sept. 9 when he was at the scene, rigor mortis was starting to set in, said MacDonald.

Taking this back nine hours produced 2:30 a.m., so that at 2 a.m. Mrs. Dhillon was still alive.

"That does not fit with the Crown case," he said.

MacDonald said the burden of proof upon the Crown was to put together a jigsaw of guilt beyond a resonable doubt and inconsistent with any other rational explanation.

Although the Crown mentioned 11 bloodstains in Aitken's motorhome, he said, a number were of an insigificant amount and only one was of blood of a type Mrs. Dhillon had.

He said the amount found might be consistent with backhanding a hitch-hiker (an explanation Aitken gave his wife) but, MacDonald said, Mrs. Dhillon's dress was "covered in blood ... a bloody mess."

He noted that this bloodstain was found close to the engine and that an expert witness said one of the studies she relied on indicated mistyping of blood could occur owing to heat.

MacDonald said there was no evidence Aitken had any scratches or injuries other than the previous work injury to his hand, and no blood was found on the bandage or cast.

As to the testimony that Mrs. Dhillon's blood combination was found in nine of every 1,000 persons, MacDonald submitted that her statistics were not valid and she was outside her expertise, which was identification of blood types, not statistics.

He suggested the jury should ignore this "completely," but even if it was accepted, the expert witness indicated at least 2,000 people in Greater Victoria would have such a blood combination, and she couldn't disagree with a suggestion that 50,000 might have it.

He said there was nothing to indicate a broken fingernail found in the motorhome had "any significance whatever."

The jury had been told the broken nail had orange-colored polish, but MacDonald asked the jury to look at color photos of the dead woman and he suggested those nails were "not remotely orange."

He said the most one expert could say was that some hair samples from the motorhome were "similar" to Mrs. Dhillon's, but not matching.

MacDonald said it didn't make sense to have willing or unwilling sex in the front passenger bucket seat of the motorhome when there was a bed in the back, but nothing was found by investigators in the bed area.

He suggested Aitken showed "an innocent mind" by going first to Sproxton to tell him of his planned vacation in Mexico, then going and returning, with police knowledge.

Aitken had given an explanation to his wife at the time — that he drove Mrs. Dhillon to her apartment so she could change to go out for the evening, then dropped her off downtown, returning to the Halfway House.

"My submission to you is that the Crown's case does not stand up. There is a reasonable doubt here," MacDonald said.

BEFORE THE JUDGE

The charge was read to McDonald by a justice of the peace Saturday in connection with a Friday night incident at the Quintro Manor Apartments, 3800 Quadra, during which 33-year-old Al Laukanen, of suite 103, was wounded in the abdomen by a .303 rifle shot.

McDonald, whose eyes were mostly shut or focused on the ceiling during his brief appearance in court, twice turned down offers by Judge Fred Green for legal counsel.

"I'm not guilty of that charge," McDonald said after clerk Tony Gobbett read it.

Green accepted Crown counsel Robert Mulligan's motion for a one-day remand so that a psychiatrist could examine McDonald at Wilkinson Road jail, where he is being held.

Larry Stuart Ross, 26, of 921 Rankin, Esquimalt, was remanded until today on a charge of possession of cocaine for the purpose of trafficking.

A 20-year-old Nanaimo resident was sentenced to 21 days in jail after pleading guilty Feb. 16 to three counts of possession of stolen property.

Green, who ordered a presentence report for William Raymond Cook, said he took into consideration the three months Cook had spent in jail since the charges were laid Nov. 25, 1976.

Court was told Cook was checked by Port Alberni RCMP and found with a knife, clock, calculator and prescription pad taken in break-ins in Greater Victoria.

A charge of possession of a dangerous weapon was stayed after 53-year-old Arthur Kenneth Fisher, of 323 Michigan Street, pleaded guilty to assault causing bodily harm.

Mulligan told the court Fisher was refused service shortly before 1 a.m. Feb. 5 at the Bastion Inn beer parlor, 1140 Government, because of his intoxicated condition. During the ensuing argument, court was told, Cook stabbed waiter George Brooks on the right side of the abdomen with a small knife.

A criminal record dating back to February, 1947, was alleged by Mulligan, and Green remanded Fisher until March 24 for a pre-sentence report.

Drivers fined for drinking-driving offences were: Joseph Steven Kuper, 20, of Sooke, $400; and Brian William Dunsmuir, 30, of 3353 Wascana, $100.

Toronto Prices Slightly Higher

TORONTO (CP) — The Toronto stock market was moderately higher in light mid-afternoon trading Tuesday.

Volume of trading by 2 p.m. totalled 1.23 million shares compared with 1.24 million at the same time Monday.

Among industrials, General Motors gained 1 to $74½, Husky Oil ⅝ to $23¼, Massey-Ferguson ¾ to $20¾, Inco A ½ to $32½ and Canadian Tire A ½ to $37.

Steetley Industries dropped ½ to $9, Hudson's Bay Co. ⅜ to $15⅞; Consolidated Building 13 cents to $2.52, S.B. McLaughlin Associates ⅜ to $5⅛ and Pancana Industries five cents to 95 cents.

Patino N.V. was up ¾ to $16¼, International Mogul Mines A ⅜ to $11¾ and Brunswick Mining and Smelting ¼ to $5⅝. Agnico-Eagle Mines fell ½ to $5⅝ and Camflo ⅜ to $11⅞.

Asamera Oil rose ¾ to $10¾, Canada Northwest Land ¼ to $7¼ and Merland Exploration 10 cents to $4.00. Quasar Petroleum was down ¼ to $6⅛ and Numac Oil and Gas ¼ to $13.

New York

An exchange spokesman said the fire was minor, but the trading floor had to be evacuated because of smoke.

The halt occurred at 10:24 a.m., and it was not immediately known how long trading would be suspended.

Gainers outnumbered losers 5-to-3 among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Some analysts saw an early upward swing, following through on Monday's late rally, as a result of internal market forces.

"Inflation has been weighing on it for a long time, and the inflation story is beginning to wear a little thin," said John Smith of Fahnestock and Co.

However, he said, brokers were still uneasy over a $69.8 billion federal budget deficit as approved by House-Senate conferees. Sony Corp. topped the active list, down ⅛ to $9½.

On the American Stock Exchange, International Banknote fell ⅛ to 73¼.

Montreal

MONTREAL (CP) — Prices continued to move broadly higher in light to moderate afternoon trading on the Montreal Stock Exchange Tuesday.

IU International Corp. was up ¼ at $13, Royal Bank ⅜ at $24½, Canadian Pacific Ltd. ⅛ at $17, Bell Canada ¼ at $49⅛, Imperial Oil A ¼ at $22¼ and Bank of Nova Scotia ¼ at $20¼. Bank of Montreal fell ⅛ at $14⅜.

London

LONDON (CP) — Prices dipped slightly in light trading on the London stock market today. The Financial Times index was down .03 to 410.4 by the close of trading. Leading equities recorded sharp gains, while gold issues were easier. Canadian stocks moved lower in light trading.

Continental Can Cans Can for Group Name

TORONTO (CP) — Continental Can Co. of Canada Ltd. has decided to change its name after 40 years to the Continental Group of Canada Ltd.

N. C. Darrach, president, said today the new name will better reflect the company's diversified operations.

Since 1959, the company has been diversifying so that it now has heavy investments in paper products, packaging and the automotive field.

For example, its automotive parts division operates plants in Brampton and Amherstburg, both in Ontario, and in Montreal.

In all, the Continental Group operates 25 plants in Canada, employing about 5,000 people.

CHICAGO (AP) — Grain futures were generally firm on the Board of Trade today.

Wheat futures, which fell nearly 17 cents a bushel in heavy, late liquidation the previous session, were up more than eight cents. Some of the demand in the wheat pit was set off by reports of damage to the winter wheat crop in the Southwest by last week's strong winds.

The May wheat option made the biggest decline the previous session and was the most attractive to buyers today. Pit sources said spreaders were drawing the option more into line with other months.

As wheat attracted speculative demand, soybean futures turned firm after a mixed opening. There was a gain of about five cents a bushel that later was trimmed under profit-taking. Meal and oil futures, however, showed only small gains.

A government report on export inspections was considered constructive on soybeans and corn but somewhat bearish on wheat.

Corn and oats trade was very slow and relatively light, compared to the other major pits. Prices generally moved in the direction of wheat, however.

Crestbrook

Crestbrook Forest Industries Ltd. reports an unaudited net profit of $1.6 million or 16 cents a share for 1976, compared to a net loss of $1.9 million or $2.47 a share in the previous year.

Last year's earnings included a $704,000 item representing a reduction in income tax by application of previous years' losses. The company's sales were $60.8 million in 1976, up from $44.6 million the previous year.

CITY OF VICTORIA

NOTICE TO RESIDENTS OF JAMES BAY

The City is currently undertaking a study of the James Bay area to determine the adequacy of the water distribution system. Over the next three weeks flow tests will be undertaken which may result in the temporary but harmless discolouration of water. Such discolouration should clear if the tap is left to run for a short period. Consumers to whom the colour of the water is of vital importance (such as a laundry) will be notified in advance of operations in his vicinity if a request for such notification is received at the office of the undersigned, City Hall, Victoria, B.C., 385-5711, local 266.

J. D. Sansom, P. Eng.,
City Engineer and Water Commissioner.
